Food 'Czar' Proposal Out As Roosevelt Backs OPA

President Ready To Fight for Full Subsidy and Price Rollback Program

By Robert C. Albright
Post Staff Writer

President Roosevelt yesterday turned thumbs down on congressional pleas for a food "czar" and backed to the limit OPA plans for a subsidized roll-back of prices as a brake on inflation and a check against rising consumer costs.

The President went to the bat for existing price control machinery after the second congressional delegation in two days called at the White House with demands for an all-powerful food administrator.

Mr. Roosevelt told reporters substantially what he earlier had told congressional critics of divided food price and production authority. He said he had not yet heard of a better method to hold prices down than the OPA subsidy program. If anyone knew of a "better 'ole," he said, he would be glad to have them submit it.

Ready to Battle Congress

In effect the President served notice that he was ready to do battle in Congress in support of existing "hold-the-line" machinery. At least two congressional groups had presented thinly veiled threats to "legislate" War Food Administrator Chester Davis into the role of food "czar" unless Mr. Roosevelt did so by executive order. Already on its way to the House floor was another House bill to throw a legislative wrench into the food subsidy program.

But even as the President received the press, a significant break occurred in the gathering congressional storm. Eighteen members of Congress from city districts organized as a bloc to fight for the Administration's subsidized price rollback and to oppose the proposed shift of OPA pricing and rationing powers to the War Food Administration or any other production agency.

Consumers' Bloc Organizes

First organized consumers' group in Congress, the new bloc formed "the Committee of Congressmen to Protect Consumers," elected Representative Thomas E. Scanlon of Pittsburgh as chairman, and made tentative plans for a "convention" in Washington of all interested consumer groups on June 25.

Sausage Price Rollback Ordered for June 21

The Office of Price Administration yesterday ordered rollbacks in the price of sausage to give consumers the benefit of the subsidized prices of the meat that goes into the sausage.

The first subsidy order applied to ordinary cuts of meat. The reduction in sausage prices amounts to approximately 10 per cent and will be effective at wholesale on June 21.

Veteran Combat Crew to Land Scarred Bomber Here Today

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

Capt. James H. Verinus, co-pilot of the "Memphis Belle," holds the bomber's mascot, Stuka, at the waist gunner's window.

Memphis Belle, After 25 Engagements, Will Visit U. S. Factories

The battle-scarred Flying Fortress, Memphis Belle, and her crew of 10, all young veterans of the air war over Nazi Europe, will land at National Airport about 11 a. m. today.

High-ranking Army, Army Air Forces and R. A. F. officers will welcome the plane, which flew 25 missions against Axis strongholds in Europe, was hit by every sort of missile hurled from Nazi fighter planes and antiaircraft batteries, but always survived to fight again. The official reception at National Airport will be open to the public.

At an official farewell in England last weekend, the Memphis Belle was retired from active service. In bidding the ship goodbye, Lieut. Gen. Jacob L. Devers, commanding general of all United States forces in the European theater, said:

"Into this plane has gone the work, thought and determined courage of countless Americans."

It is the first combat bomber to return home from the European theater under its own power. The Belle is being flown home by its usual crew, led by Capt. Robert K. Morgan of Asheville, N. C., pilot. General Devers also paid homage to the crew, which, he said, typified the spirit of the Army Air Forces in carrying through to their targets time and again.

After reporting to Headquarters Army Air Forces here, the crew will fly the Memphis Belle on a brief tour of industrial plants and Air Forces installations. They then will be assigned as instructors of fliers in training for combat.

The crew which will land here today is exactly the same group which was formed in the United States eight months ago. Only one member of the crew was wounded despite the Belle's 25 ventures over Germany and France, when its bombs blasted dock installations at Brest, the submarine base at St. Nazaire, the U-boat construction yard at Vegesack and the naval base at Wilhelmshaven.

Its guns knocked down 8 enemy fighters, probably destroyed 5 others, and damaged at least 12.

Congress was asked by a unanimous decision of the House Foreign Affairs Committee yesterday to make a formal declaration in favor of United States participation in a world organization empowered to "maintain a just and lasting peace."

Framed in a 35-word concurrent resolution, the declaration was approved at a closed meeting attended by all but one of the 25-member committee, Representative Eaton of New Jersey, ranking Republican and a strong internationalist, who was unavoidably absent.

The resolution, approval of which constituted the first indorsement by any body of Congress in this war of the doctrine of American collaboration in postwar planning, provided:

Grocer Fined $15 For Tossing Eggs At Customer

Meyer Mehlman, a grocer at 1001 North Carolina Avenue Southeast, was fined $15 by Judge George D. Neilson yesterday in Municipal Court for tossing a half dozen eggs back to Mrs. Antonina Deyo, 4337 Halley Terrace Southeast, when she demanded a receipt believing the grocer had disregarded the price ceiling on eggs.

When Mrs. Deyo appeared in the United States Attorney's office to seek a summons against Wehlman she brought as evidence a smashed bag of eggs and an egg-stained dress.

One person was killed by a streetcar, an Arlington County fireman died of injuries suffered when thrown from a fire truck and two soldiers were injured by a hit-and-run motorist here last night.

The dead man, William M. Hatton, 70, whose address was listed as 629 E Street Northwest, was struck by a streetcar at 6:55 p. m. in the 1100 block Seventh Street Northwest. He was removed to Casualty Hospital where he died at 11 p. m. Police said the operator of the car was Robert S. DeLaney, 27, of Takoma Park, Md., with three months' experience. He will appear at a coroner's inquest.

Pvt. George W. Skidmore, 45, of the Arlington County Fire Department, died last night at Emergency Hospital of injuries suffered Sunday when thrown from a fire truck at Wilson Boulevard and Welsh Street, Arlington. He was removed to the hospital by the Arlington Fire Rescue Squad.

Pvt. Loren Wright, 22, and Pvt. Gayron Lee, 22, both stationed at Camp A. P. Hill, near Fredericksburg, Va., were knocked down in a safety zone at Third Street and Constitution Avenue Northwest by a hit-and-run driver, as they waited for a streetcar. Wright was treated at Emergency Hospital for a possible skull fracture and later removed to Walter Reed Hospital. Lee suffered lesser injuries.

Police immediately broadcast a lookout for the motorist who was traveling north on Third Street at a high rate of speed.

New Pipeline Pours Needed Oil Into City

Secretly Completed Project Will Ease Capital's Fuel and Gasoline Shortage

Refuse to Give Up

CONGRESSIONAL BLOC threatens to carry gasoline problem to the White House. Story on Page 10.

Surprise!

The Sinclair Refining Co. yesterday announced the completion of a 6-inch pipeline to the District, with other terminals at Marcus Hook, Pa., and Steubenville, Ohio. The line has a capacity of 12,500 barrels of petroleum products a day.

Begune in October, 1941, the line was completed three weeks ago and already has pumped two million gallons of fuel oil into the District terminal. The terminal has a storage capacity of 4,500,000 gallons and trucks can be loaded at loading platforms at the rate of 600 gallons a minute.

Unique feature of the line is that it can carry gasoline, fuel oil and kerosene, one after the other, without interruption in service. A guage at the terminal discloses the weight of the product coming through and any change in weight causes an automatic switch in the line from one storage tank to another.

Virtual Secret

B. P. McKenzie, resident manager of the Sinclair Refining Co., cautioned against expecting too much at once, saying that Washington cannot expect to obtain the entire capacity of the line. Cities and towns along the way will have their demands, and Baltimore will insist on getting its share.

Although the terminal here has been under construction since last autumn, the fact that the pipeline, Washington's first, was abuilding was virtually a secret until yesterday.

The fuel oil sent to Washington through the pipeline has been coming from the Sinclair Refinery docks at Marcus Hook, via a spur line from Mechanicsville, Pa. Plans now are under way, however, to reverse the flow in the line, to have it come from Steubenville, on the Ohio River, where barge-supplied gasoline from the lower Mississippi River will be pumped through.

No More '43 Tax Boosts, Leaders Say

But 1944 Will Be Another Story, Plans for Future Legislation Indicate

By Edward Ryan
Post Staff Writer

Congressional and Administration tax leaders formally agreed yesterday that no new major tax legislation would hit the American public during the remainder of 1943, and with that understanding Ways and Means Chairman Doughton said he would seek agreement today on when to start writing a general revenue-raising, anti-inflation measure to take effect January 1.

The agreement was reached at a conference in the office of Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau attended by officials of that agency, by Economic Stabilization Director Vinson and by ranking Democratic members of the Capitol's two tax-writing committees.

Ways and Means Meets Today

Doughton (Democrat) of North Carolina called the Ways and Means Committee, which starts any new tax bill, to meet in a closed session this morning, and he said he would seek a decision on when to start hearings on the new revenue bill.

He said he would favor, but would not try to dictate, an agreement to start hearings late in August, to permit committee members to get a large share of the proposed Capitol recess and still have about two weeks of hearings before the formal recess ends.

Ending the committee's vacation early would be aimed at getting a tax bill through Congress before January 1, but Doughton and other members of the conference made clear that no tax would be retroactive.

No Revenue Goal Fixed

This would mean that any new tax would take effect after January 1, 1944, with the possible exception of altered excise rates which might apply from the date the revenue measure became law.

While there was agreement on the general outlawing of retroactive tax legislation, the Capitol tax leaders said that there had been no agreement on what revenue goal in dollars should be sought in a new tax bill. Doughton said that no goal would be fixed.

President Roosevelt has generally used the figure of a 16-billion-dollar revenue goal to be obtained by taxes and savings, to close the inflationary gap between available consumer buying power and the available goods.

In both the House and the Senate, however, members, while

102 on Argonaut Accepted Death Rather Than Surrender

The 8 officers and 94 men aboard the United States submarine Argonaut "accepted destruction rather than surrender."

This was reported by the Navy yesterday in a tribute to their courage and self-sacrifice as symbolic of the dangerous submarine service. The end of the Argonaut, as overdue and presumed to be lost, was announced February 21.

The commanding officer and the entire ship's company have been awarded identical letters of commendation by Rear Admiral Charles A. Lockwood, commander submarine force, Pacific fleet, for a successful attack against an enemy destroyer on her last war patrol.

An Army reconnaissance plane reported the action in which the undersea craft, largest of her kind in the United States Navy, intercepted a Japanese convoy not far from Rabaul, New Britain, torpedoed an escort vessel, and was depth-charged, shelled and destroyed in a severe counterattack.

The commanding officer of the Argonaut was Lieut.-Comdr. John R. Pierce, 37, whose wife, Mrs. Mary T. Pierce, lives in Brooklyn.

His citation and those to members of his crew stated:

War Nerves

By Thomas F. Hawkins

Bern, Switzerland, June 15.—All persons who are not required for the war effort are being evacuated from German cities subjected to the heavy new Allied air attacks, according to German newspapers reaching here, and, at least on the basis of Nazi-controlled press reports up to tonight, Germany is falling victim to a serious and general condition of war nerves.

The Allied air forces, which have caused 600 air alarms and carried out 180 heavy aerial attacks, have brought about widespread evacuation of civilians to safe rural areas. German newspapers, by their admonitions and appeals, were in agreement on important points:

1. That Allied air attacks, especially in western and northwestern Germany, have caused heavy damage both in homes and in the cities in general.

2. That many evacuees are leaving the cities for the country, a

Tons of Bombs Blast Messina, Italy Gateway

Great Fires Set By Block-Busters; Sicily Raided Again

By Daniel De Luce
Associated Press Staff Writer

Allied Headquarters in North Africa, June 15.—The strategic Allied air force, the great club in the Allied armory, has again beaten heavily at Sicily, centering the fire of two-ton blockbuster bombs upon Messina, the ferry approach to southern Italy proper, Allied headquarters disclosed today.

This attack was driven in by R. A. F. Wellington bombers over Sunday night and into yesterday morning. Messina, already one of the most bombed targets in the whole Mediterranean, was left alight with great fires; its railway yards and harbor area were hit repeatedly with ton upon ton of exploding steel.

In these and other night operations by the northwest Africa air forces no Allied plane was lost, it was announced in General Eisenhower's communique.

At the same time, official bulletins from Malta and Cairo told of new offensive sweeps from both of those Allied bases in the three-sided campaign to break down the last of the island approaches to the Italian mainland.

Malta-based fighters and Intruders swept over both Sicily and southern Italy, bombing war factories and turning bomb and cannon fire upon Italian railway communication.

A single challenging German fighter plane was shot down.

From Cairo, long-range R. A. F. fighters went out again over the Aegean Sea, setting fire to an enemy schooner.

The day brought also an announcement that further study of reconnaissance photographs had established that the Flying Fortress attack of June 5 on the Italian naval base of Spezia had scored a direct hit on the foreward deck of a 35,000-ton Italian battleship of the Littorio class. Her deck plates were buckled and it appeared that a forward gun turret also had been hit.

Something Brewing

By Lewis Hawkins,
Associated Press Staff Writer

London, June 15.—The spotlight of the Mediterranean war shifted dramatically today from the center to the East, where the Allies were reported semiofficially from Ankara to have closed Syria's frontier with Turkey.

London sources left the report in the air without confirmation, denial, or comment, but unofficial observers said the first implication was that the British Ninth and Tenth armies and United States troops that have been training quietly and building up strength for months in Syria, Palestine, Iraq and Iran might be on the move.

The Daily Herald quoted German reports that the Allies were massing an "invasion army" in Syria, and that all British garrisons had been reinforced.

Other Signs of Action

Thus was added new fuel to the fires of Axis invasion anxiety. During the day the Italians reported an Allied fleet massing near Sicily, the Germans warned of a possible new Russian offensive, and the Germans were said to have reshuffled their top generals in commands along the edges of the "European fortress."

Closing of the Turkish-Syrian frontier, nearly 350 miles long, might be intended to cover up moves by Allied troops in the border area where conceivably they could be massing for sea thrusts toward Crete, the Dodecanese, or Greece itself.

Important Role for Turkey

(A British Broadcasting Corp. report heard by N. B. C. said the frontier was closed "to check leakage of information from Syria and Palestine to Germany through Turkey.")

Semiofficial sources in Ankara said the frontier was closed at 6 o'clock tonight, and a German

Board Revokes Mrs. O'Conor's Gas Rations

Baltimore, June 15 (AP).—A special panel of inquiry ruled tonight that Mrs. Herbert R. O'Conor, wife of Maryland's Governor, had improperly used occupational gasoline rations on a trip to South Carolina in a State-owned automobile and revoked both the C book for that vehicle and a second one obtained "through error" for her personal automobile.

The panel also suspended for a three-month period the A ration card of Mrs. O'Conor's personal automobile.

The panel deliberated for several hours after the hour and a half long hearing which Mrs. O'Conor did not attend. She was represented by Hugh Allen Meade, assistant State attorney general who acted, however, in an unofficial capacity.

Mrs. O'Conor admitted that she took the trip upon advice of her physician.

C. I. O. President Philip Murray yesterday advised President Roosevelt that failure to veto the Connally-Smith bill would "hamper and stifle the production of our munitions of war through the demoralization of the workers on the production front."

His action, taken in a letter to the President, followed by a day a similar letter from William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, advising the Chief Executive that the country's workers would "rebel" against the anti-strike measure.

Meanwhile, A. F. Whitney, president of the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen, one of the independent railroad brotherhoods, telegraphed the President that the measure was "an attempt to pillory honest labor" and represented a threat to democracy.

President Roosevelt has until June 25 to sign or veto the measure or let it become a law without his signature. Since its passage by the Senate Saturday sending it to the White House, a rising tide of labor opposition to the measure has de-radio broadcast said the action was taken at 6 this morning.

Observers noted that Admiral Sir John Cunningham, new British commander in chief in the Levant, had held a 90-minute conference Monday with President Ismet Inonu 24 hours before the frontier closure was reported. His was the latest in a series of trips into Turkey by Allied war leaders beginning with Prime Minister Churchill's visit to Adana, February 1.

Cunningham also conferred with Turkey's premier, foreign minister and chief of staff.

In an interview with Frank J. O'Brien of the Associated Press at Ankara, Premier Sugru Saracoglu left the impression that within the framework of the Allied war and peace plans, Turkey is playing an important role in the development of Balkan affairs and that she hopes to contribute to the postwar reorganization in the Balkans.

The Premier indicated that the Turkish government was impressed with American conduct in the war and expressed surprise that recent events in the Mediterranean had moved with such swiftness.

Turkey would continue to maintain the strictest vigilance, Saracoglue said.

Premier Stresses Neutrality

(Later, in a speech to the closing session of the People's Party Congress, broadcast by Ankara radio and recorded by the United States Federal Communications Commission, Saracoglu reaffirmed the Nation's "firm policies" of neutrality. The perils of war are not lessened or completely past, he added.

(Concerning the United States he said, "We feel such affinity with some of the declarations made by United Nations statesmen that we make them our own." Turkey will assert all its strength to do away with war after this one is finished and "grant men and nations * * * the rights of equality and freedom," he said.

(Russia and Turkey "have proved to be sincerely bound by treaties" while treaties with Britain tie Turkey and Britain "for many years and with far-reaching scope.")

The German radio reported that the premier said Turkey's friendship pact with Germany was "shown by events to be in the true interests of both parties."

Berlin Radio Is Panicky

Another Berlin broadcast asserted that Britain was "trying to bring Turkey in on her side, but the Turk will not be pressed."

Fighting French headquarters here said the closure, if true, probably was for military reasons with "no diplomatic or economic significance."

But plainly the reports created concern in Axis circles whether great military events might not be stirring in the backdoor route to Europe, and heightened invasion nervousness.

Tender Named for Hero

The Navy announced yesterday that it has renamed the U. S. S. Neptune, a submarine tender, the U. S. S. Howard W. Gilmore in honor of one of the heroes of the underseas warfare. Comdr. Howard W. Gilmore sacrificed his life by ordering his men to "take her down" as he lay wounded on the deck of his submarine after an encounter with a Japanese patrol boat.

Gilmore was posthumously awarded the Congressional Medal of Honor for his action, which saved his ship and crew from destruction. Before his submarine dove, it rammed the enemy patrol vessel, which probably sank later, the Navy said.

Commander Gilmore's widow, Mrs. Hilda St. Raymond Gilmore, resides in New Orleans, La.

Gen. Lee Hurt in Glider Accident

With the Second Army in Tennessee, June 15 (AP).—Maj. Gen. William C. Lee, commander of an air-borne infantry division, was injured this morning in the crackup of a glider in which he was landing with his troops.

There were approximately 40 gliders used in a landing maneuver and the one in which General Lee and 10 other officers and enlisted men were riding failed to drop its wheels and was demolished as it struck rough ground. First examination indicated that the general probably had fractured some ribs.

Moscow, June 15 (AP).—A 22-year-old girl bomber pilot, Maria Ivanova, has been made a member of the Soviet Order of Patriotic War, first degree, after making 125 flights over the front in 70 days, it was announced today.

Maria, a volunteer, was reported gravely wounded on her last flight while bombing a German artillery dump.

19 Liberators Pound Japs' Rabaul Base

By William F. Boni
Associated Press Staff Writer

Allied Headquarters in Australia (Wednesday), June 16.—The largest force of Liberators to be sent against the big Japanese air base of Rabaul, New Britain—19 four-engined raiders—blasted at grounded aircraft with 23 tons of bombs in a two-hour raid which began the night of June 14 and extended into yesterday.

It was the fourth assault in six days by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Air Force on Rabaul. All but one of the Liberators concentrated on Lakunai where the Japanese have been attempting to repair the damage.

Despite intense antiaircraft fire and the efforts of seven enemy fighter planes to intercept, all the American bombers got back to base.

Japs Strafe Villages

The Japanese broke a comparative lull in their own air effort by sending 27 bombers with an escort of 30 fighters to bomb and strafe villages around Bena Bena, 90 miles northwest of Lae, New Glinea. There are known to be a number of emergency landing fields there built in prewar days. Bena Bena is on the Purari River.

The enemy also sent nine planes in their nineteenth attack on Dobodura, New Guinea.

Yesterday's bomb weight on Rabaul's airdromes increased to 135 tons the total dropped in the four raids.

The raids represented a continued stepping up of bombing blows by the air force of Lieut. Gen. George C. Kenney which since last May 27 also have dumped 100 tons of bombs in 3 raids on Lae, New Guinea, and over 70 tons in 4 raids on Wewak.

The Japanese raids on the Bena Bena area focused attention on a new Allied sector. Although well inland it is above the Huon Peninsula, beyond two vital Japanese bases, Lae and Salamaua, toward which Australian and American ground forces have been infiltrating from the Papuan peninsula.

factor spreading discontent. And the Mulhauser Tagblatt said these evacuees insist that German anti-aircraft fire is not sufficient protection. They, said the newspaper, are the ones who doubt that the cities of western Germany can hold out against the violence of the bombardments and are really defeatists.

3. That farmers who were expected to open their homes to the evacuees resent upsetting family life. Many newspapers pointed out, however, that farmers must remember that they might be refugees themselves some day.

4. That officials plainly acknowledged the dangers to morale brought about by the necessary evacuations. Newspapers warned the people against those who spread despair.

The Nazi press also pointed out that evacuations are necessary because since 1942 almost all new construction has been halted while labor was turned into the war effort. Lack of materials further made emergency construction difficult.

The importation of foreign workers to key industrial cities further magnified the housing problem.

Das Reich said evacuees from northern Westphalia should go to Bavaria, and those from the Berlin area to Brandenburg, East Prussia and Pomerania.

In spurring the migration, the German press also sought to assuage the resentment and discontent on the part of both the evacuees and their wartime hosts. The Voelkischer Beobachter, Adolf Hitler's newspaper, asserted that "comfort must bow to the demands of necessity," and that crowding of houses was preferable to having a few persons living "in fine houses when many don't know where they can live."

Even families not bombed out, but whose men must stay to work in industries, should leave the cities "as a law of common sense," said Das Reich.

Indicating the tremendous damage in Essen, the Essener National Zeitung estimated that five months' work would be needed to build emergency housing there.

Congress Asked to Back U. S. Participation in World Peace Organization

creation of appropriate international machinery with power to establish and to maintain a just and lasting peace and as favoring participation of the United States therein."

Democratic Leader McCormack of Massachusetts announced shortly after the committee acted that he would seek consideration of the resolution by the House early next week, foreshadowing the first formal peace debate in Congress since World War II began.

McCormack commended the committee for its "farsighted" decision.

The resolution he described as "vastly important and historic."

There was some disposition among Senators privately to regard the committee's action as a move in the direction of invasion of the Senate' power of treaty ratification. A concurrent resolution, the form in which the Foreign Affairs Committee chose to submit its declaration, may be approved by a majority vote in both houses, whereas the Senate is required to ratify treaties by a two-thirds vote.

This reaction was implied by Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman Connally of Texas, who told reporters, when informed of the House Committee's action:

"The House resolution will not find much positive opposition. It is mild and cryptic. Of course, any such international association as it has in mind must be established by treaty which must be ratified or rejected by the Senate and in which the House of Representatives has no participation.

"The Senate will be glad to have the views of the House on this matter."

Before reporting the peace resolution which was referred to the Rules Committee for a rule which would bring it to the floor for debate, the Foreign Affairs Committee deleted a phrase which would have asked that an international organization be created to "prevent future aggression and to maintain law, order and lasting peace."

Committee Chairman Bloom (Democrat) of New York told reporters that he did not believe the words were stricken to avoid a controversy with members of Congress known to be vigorously opposed to establishment of a world police force, which would seem to be called for by the phrase.

This view was supported by Representative Vorys (Republican) of Ohio who was classed as an isolationist before Pearl Harbor, but who declared that the resolution "does not preclude an international police force." Vorys, who led the fight in the committee for revision of the resolution, explained that he did so because in his opinion the original language was like that which has been used by the aggressor nations in defense of their own aggressions.

Bloom said the committee considered 10 postwar world resolutions now pending in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee before deciding upon its concurrent resolution which was prepared by Representative Fulbright, 38-year-old freshman Democrat from Arkansas.

"This simple statement," declared Fulbright, "is a positive disavowal of the isolationist policy and a definite declaration that this Nation desires to cooperate with other nations of the world in an effort to create an organization designed to maintain a lasting peace."

WASHINGTON MERCHANTS_ HERE'S HOW TO SPEED DELIVERIES!

THREE THINGS YOU CAN DO TO BRING ABOUT IMPORTANT SAVINGS AND IMPROVE THE SUPPLY OF EVERYTHING OUR CITIZENS BUY_EAT_WEAR_AND USE!

New 8-Hour Day, 6-Day Week For Truck Drivers Demand This Cooperation on Your Part

Due to the current manpower shortage and to meet union demands, the Trucking Commission of the War Labor Board has recently issued a new ruling changing the work-day and work-week of Washington truck drivers. This may mean serious delays of consumer goods and greatly increased costs unless Washington merchants adjust their own schedules to meet these new conditions.

However, the situation can be greatly relieved if merchants will do these three things:

1. ACCEPT DELIVERIES TO YOUR STORE ON SATURDAYS

2. ACCEPT DELIVERIES DURING STORE LUNCH HOURS

3. KEEP ALL RECEIVING PLATFORMS CLEAR

Heretofore, trucking companies were glad to accommodate merchants by operating a five-day week. Now with the new ruling, this can no longer be done. Because of shortages of gasoline, trucks, tires, and parts, re-delivery of "refused" shipments will increase your transportation costs.

In behalf of your own customers, we urgently request that you cooperate by accepting deliveries when first made.

How the New War Labor Board Order Affects Every Man, Woman, and Child in Washington

IN the face of increased living costs, the Trucking Commission of the War Labor Board has issued a new ruling which will increase costs still more. Truck drivers formerly worked 5 days a week—in conformity with the established store policy of not accepting goods on Saturday. The new ruling orders a regular work-day of 8 hours, 6 days a week, and increases the hourly rate of pay.

The new work-week may result in more and more delays of the things you need. Merchandise refused on Saturdays will increase the cost of deliveries unnecessarily. Truck terminal facilities will be jammed. The flow of incoming merchandise will be retarded.

As a result, you may have to go without.

The District of Columbia Trucking Association fought this new ruling, knowing the hardships it would create. But now that it is here, we are resolved to ease the situation as much as possible.

If delays do cause you inconvenience, don't blame it on transportation. As long as merchants accept deliveries on Saturdays . . . during lunch hours . . . and keep their receiving platforms clear—they are helping the situation as much as they can.

Like your own car, trucks do their best, most efficient job when unhampered by restrictions. But until the Big Job is finished . . . until this war is won . . . we must do our best with what we have . . . and do it willingly.

Oberhausen Raked By R.A.F. Bombers

In 1600 Sorties

U.S. Bombers Down Nazis By 6-1 Ratio

American four-engined bombers, based in Britain, have been shooting German planes out of the skies at a ratio of nearly 6 to 1, a War Department summary disclosed yesterday.

It showed that in 18 heavy bombardment missions—all daylight, high altitude precision bombing forays—four engined bombers made approximately 1600 sorties against German targets and shot down 571 German planes, probably destroyed 187, and damaged 231 in aerial combat.

American losses amounted to 106 planes up to and including the attacks of the last weekend, for which only preliminary figures are available.

Eleven of the 18 American attacks—all against targets within Germany—have been made since May 14, the survey showed.

The first seven attacks by American bombers against Germany were made in the period January 27, 1943, through April 17, 1943. United States losses for these missions totaled 40 planes, while 224 German planes were shot down, 78 probably were destroyed and 77 damaged.

In seven American attacks made between May 14 and May 21, American losses totaled 32 planes while German losses amounted to 243 shot down, 69 probably destroyed and 116 damaged.

The attacks against Wilhelmshaven and Cuxhaven on June 11 and on Bremen and Kiel on June 13 cost 34 American planes with German losses placed initially at 164 planes destroyed, 40 probably destroyed and 38 damaged.

Low Countries and France Hit in Day And Night Forays

By the Associated Press

London, June 15.—Sweeping along invasion paths by night and day, the R. A. F. heaped fresh destruction on the bomb-smashed Ruhr Valley last night, particularly the steel and communications center of Oberhausen, to keep the June air offensive tearing at Germany's war sinews.

Indications that R. A. F. bombers were over German cities again tonight came with the announcement that the German radio had gone off the air in the middle of a program at 1:20 a. m., B. W. T., Wednesday (7:20 p. m., E. W. T., Tuesday). This is usually taken as an indication that an attacking force is reported over the continent.

While great bombers ground down upon steel and coal targets in Oberhausen on the Rhine-Herne Canal for the fourth consecutive night raid on Germany, lighter planes ranged far over France and the Low Countries, attacking railway targets and barges near the Rhine, Dixmude in Belgium, and Roubaix and Abbeville in France.

Without Pause

Almost before they were back, cannon-armed day fighters of the new tactical air force went roaring out to slam scores of targets along the western rim of Hitler's defenses.

Waves of R. A. F. fighters and light bombers shuttled back and forth across the Channel in the direction of Calais today, presumably aiming at enemy airfields, water and rail transportation, following up the nighttime sorties of Mosquitos, Whirlwinds, Bostons, Typhoons, Beaufighters and Mustangs. They are the kind of planes that will ride ahead and over Allied troops when they strike the Continent.

The Germans acknowledged "considerable destruction" in residential quarters and "losses among the civil population, especially in Oberhausen," in the night attacks, and asserted 20 of the raiders were shot down.

The British reported loss of 18 planes in the night sweeps, and said the intruder patrols downed two Nazi craft.

Strategic Center

Oberhausen is a strategic city in German communications, standing at the junction of railways to Duisburg, Dortmund and Hamm. It lies three miles west of Essen, and has a population of 110,000.

The R. A. F. has reported raids twice before upon the city with its iron foundries, rolling mills, chemical works and railway shops, and the Germans said it had been hit for the third time on April 26, when the R. A. F. blasted at Duisburg.

Spitfires making a dawn raid over France pounded upon two flights of 15 Focke-Wulf's, downing three of them. Two British planes were missing.

The Germans jabbed back at London Monday night, killing seven persons and wrecking a few houses. The raiders gave the capital two alerts, but few planes pierced London's antiaircraft defenses.

In recent raids the Germans have been using "rattle bombs," small bombs 9 inches long that resemble a baby's rattle and splinter into 100 pieces on explosion, British sources reported.

The Ministry of Home Security reported 584 persons were killed or missing and 733 injured severely in air raids on the United Kingdom in May, the highest number of the year.

In April the toll was 172 killed and 205 hurt, and in January, the previous high month this year, it was 328 killed and 507 injured.

Canadians flying with the R. A. F. said Oberhausen was blasted accurately with block-busters, although antiaircraft fire was heavy and enemy fighters were plentiful.

Boston Won't Ban 'Mission to Moscow'

Boston, June 15 (AP).—Although Boston's city council, charging propaganda, adopted an order calling for the banning of the motion picture, "Mission to Moscow," based on the book by former Ambassador Joseph P. Davies, City Censor John J. Spencer said today that he had no intention of meeting the council's request.

Boston labor leaders, executive officers of the Massachusetts State C. I. O. and the Boston C. I. O. council, issued a statement assailing the action of the council as a "gratuitous insult to our ally, the Soviet Union, a blow at unity of the United Nations, an act of sabotage against the policy of our Government and President Roosevelt.

Russians Halt 4 New Drives In Orel Region

By the Associated Press

London (Wednesday), June 16.—Four new German ounter attacks in the reactivated Orel region were hurled back yesterday, it was announced today by the Russians, who declared that enemy troops ceased their attempts to retake lost territory at sundown after two unsuccessful days.

One of the German thrusts, carried out under the cover of a smoke screen, penetrated to the outskirts of a populated place northwest of Misensk, which was captured recently by the Russians, before being beaten off, the Soviet midnight communique announced.

The war bulletin, recorded here by the Soviet monitor, said the Russians killed about 400 Germans, destroyed or damaged a number of tanks and captured some materiel in staving off the sharp German drives.

Fighting in Kuban

Earlier the Germans claimed that the principal fighting was in the Kuban area of the Caucasus. They told of new Soviet drives which they said were unsuccessful.

Meanwhile, Soviet airmen raided German rear positions, attacking railway stations, trains and stores. This followed widespread aerial activity on the previous day in which Russian planes knocked out seven enemy batteries and wrecked several trains.

Infantry Wiped Out

Russian artillerymen west of Rostov were reported to have wiped out two companies of enemy infantry.

Soviet gunners in the Sevsk area destroyed a German artillery battery and routed a supply column.

On the front west of Moscow, Russian units were said to have wiped out about 200 German officers and men and silenced half a dozen artillery and mortar batteries.

A Berlin broadcast declared that German warships bombarded Akhtyrskaya on the Sea of Azov at dawn Monday, driving off Russian ships that attempted to interfere. At the same time, the Germans disclosed that Russian light naval craft shelled harbor installations at Nazi-held Anapa in the Black Sea.

Bill of Permit WAVES to Go Overseas Meets Opposition

By the Associated Press

Legislation to permit WAVES to be sent overseas bumped into outspoken masculine criticism yesterday in the Senate Naval Committee.

Chairman Walsh (Democrat) of Massachusetts glanced blandly down the witness table toward Lieut. Comdr. Mildred H. McAfee, top-ranking member of the Women's Fleet Auxiliary, and declared:

"The Navy, to my mind, is a male organization."

The commander, trim in blue uniform and shoulder-slung handbag, poised her chin on the tips of her fingers, apparently unperturbed.

Then, turning to Rear Admiral Randall Jacobs, chief of naval personnel, Walsh observed that when the original WAVE bill came up last year, the Navy said it wanted the women only to replace naval personnel in the continental United States.

"Now," Walsh said, "apparently we're reaching a stage where all barriers are to be removed and they can be sent anywhere."

The bill, already approved by the House, would permit the assignment of future women volunteers to foreign billets, but present members of the organization, who enlisted only for service in this country, could not be sent abroad unless they signed waivers.

Some members criticized a section of the bill which would permit a woman to hold the rank of captain, instead of the present top of lieutenant commander, and give greater flexibility in the appointment of senior officers.

Walsh said he thought it should be assumed that women were as patriotic and as eager to serve their country as men, and voted that most men inducted into the Navy had to work their way up from ordinary seamen, no matter how much they had earned in private life.

Senator Gillette (Democrat) of Iowa, questioned whether women should be placed in a different category from men, so far as salary was concerned. He attributed to Jacobs a suggestion that "we could hardly expect the ladies to come into the service at a salary lower than they got outside."

Jacobs agreed with Walsh that the President now could appoint a woman doctor to the rank of admiral if he wished to do so.

Commander McAfee said many WAVES were eager for foreign service—"they want to be sent to places where they can share the dangers of the men."

The bill would apply to the women's auxiliaries of the Coast Guard and Marine Corps as well as the Navy, and would make them eligible for all allowances or benefits granted the men. There was one exception, husbands of the members would not be considered dependents.

Finland Resumes War Debt Payment

The government of Finland resumed payment on its war debt to the United States yesterday, turning over to the Treasury $168,945.

De Gaulle Asks Still Another Amity Effort

By the Associated Press

Algiers, June 15.—Gen. Charles de Gaulle proposed today that an extraordinary session of the French Committee of National Liberation be held tomorrow at which the seven members of the committee and six commissioners would attempt to solve the present political crisis.

(A Reuters dispatch from Algiers Tuesday night said General Giraud had accepted the proposal for the plenary session.)

A spokesman said that De Gaulle, who has been threatening to resign, was very much dissatisfied with the inability of the seven-man committee to reach an accord and that he hoped by including the six commissioners to crystallize the opinion of the French leadership in behalf of his policies.

Meanwhile, the committee called upon all Frenchmen everywhere to observe Friday, June 18, as the third anniversary of the day when, despite "disaster and treason," France, in the voice of General de Gaulle, decided to remain standing in the war at the side of her allies."

The wording of the pronouncement was seen by political circles as strengthening De Gaulle's position in his battle against one-time pro-Vichy elements in North Africa.

De Gaulle's statement in 1940 followed a day after Marshal Petain on June 17 had petitioned the Germans for an armistice.

The committee, after it had established itself as the central authority of the French overseas empire, named seven outsiders to commissionerships.

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

When Winston Churchill was conferring with the President recently, ex-Ambassador Bill Bullitt, now public relations adviser to Secretary Knox, wrote a memo for top officials which was highly critical of the Russians and somewhat so of the British.

The general tenor of his memo was that we could not entirely trust our Allies and might find ourselves fighting the Japs alone after the war in Europe was ended.

Bullitt circulated this memo to various high officials in the War and Navy Departments, among them Assistant Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson.

Stimson, shocked by Bullitt's lack of faith and his criticism of our Allies, wrote in his own handwriting at the top of the memo: "The author of this memo does not serve the purposes of his country—H. L. S."

Bullitt also inspired Senator Happy Chandler of Kentucky, who virtually paraphrased Bullitt's confidential memo in delivering his famous speech during the Churchill visit, demanding that we concentrate in the Far East.

New Far Eastern Drive

Although Bullitt's memo had absolutely nothing to do with it, and the decisions arrived at would have been the same anyway, it now seems certain that we will concentrate on the Far East to a much greater degree than most people expected.

U. S. Naval officials had been privately skeptical of British cooperation in the Far East and never expected Churchill to come through. However, he and Roosevelt both agreed that the time had arrived for vigorous operations to stop the Japs before they dug in so deeply on the Pacific Islands that it would take years to dislodge them.

The British have now given definite commitments regarding certain operations. This is important. It so happens that the British do not promise easily. Our own top strategists are inclined to make promises quickly, but sometimes have to explain them away when conditions change and it is obvious they cannot be kept. But the British, though awfully hard to pin down, have absolutely kept their agreements when once made.

What these commitments are remain a military secret. However, certain moves which are known to all, including the Japs, should give Tokyo plenty to worry about. For it is no accident that Admiral Nimitz, commander in the Pacific, has been recalled for conferences; or that the insatiable Australian Prime Minister has now said he was satisfied; or that Attu was taken; or that new promises have been given to Chiang Kai-shek.

All these straws in the wind point to hitting Japan from many different directions—Alaska, Australia, Burma and the Central Pacific.

This offensive in the Far East may be one substitute for a Second Front in Western Europe. It may not knock Hitler out of the war quite so soon, but it may make the two wars—in Europe and Asia—finish at more nearly the same time.

American Taxi-Drivers

Some political prognosticators say you can predict the outcome of United States elections by the reaction of taxi-drivers. However, the character of taxi-drivers may go even further and be an index of the general honesty and temperament of the American people.

OWI's Katherine C. Blackburn struck a hopping mad taxi-driver in New York the other day. He just found $1200 in war savings stamps which somebody had left in his cab. When he traced the "fare" and returned the stamps, all he got was congratulations on his honesty and a 25-cent tip.

"I'll never be honest again!" he declared grimly.

This brought him and Miss Blackburn to the Ritz-Carlton. She got out, paid her fare and tripped into the hotel. While she was still in the lobby somebody tapped her on the elbow.

"Excuse me, miss," said a voice, "but you left your furs in my taxi!"

Coal Merry-Go-Round

Hot quotes from the White House conference between Secretary Ickes and the War Labor Board over the coal strike: Ickes: "You can't mine coal with bayonets. The fundamental problem is to settle the strike. I would have settled it if the War Labor Board had let me alone." WLB Member Wayne Morse—"Mr. President, either your Secretary of the Interior is ignorant or he is maliciously misrepresenting the facts. The fundamental issue is whether one man, John L. Lewis, shall be allowed to defy the sovereignty of the United States Government."

Army Discrimination

The story of Army discrimination against men with a liberal record has many chapters. We wrote one chapter on June 1, when we told the story of Malcolm C. Dobbs. Here is another chapter about Joseph B. Goldberg.

Apparently not because he is a Jew, but because he contributed to funds for the Spanish Loyalists — and is proud of it—Goldberg has been cashiered from Officer Candidate School at Aberdeen, Maryland, and put to work helping plant a lawn around the post exchange.

Goldberg was one of the outstanding officer candidates. His company commander praised his work and his fellow candidates elected him to the "honor board," which metes out punishment for violation of the rules.

After nine weeks of training, Goldberg was summarily dismissed, without explanation.

By intervention of the chaplain, he got to the commandant, who merely said that the dismissal order "came from a higher authority" and the reason for his dismissal was unknown to him.

This is the star chamber method used by the Army when they object to a man's liberal beliefs — especially when it comes to Loyalist Spain.

Colleges and Congressmen

Harvard, Yale and Princeton may be well represented in the State Department, but when it comes to Congress, a grab-bag selection of names turns up such colleges as John Carroll University (Congressman Michael A. Feighan of Ohio) . . . Baldwin Wallace College (Congressman Henderson H. Carson of Ohio) . . . Creighton University (Congressman Frank A. Barrett of Wyoming) . . . New Argentine Regime Rates No Better Here Than Did Old

Copyright by New York Tribune, Inc.

The regime of President Pedro Ramirez of Argentina is regarded in Washington, now that a few days have passed for the actions of that government to be weighed, as being just as bad, if not worse, than the Castillo regime, so far as its attitude toward the United Nations is concerned.

The Castillo government was overturned June 3 as part of a palace revolution, engineered by pro-German forces, to forestall the nomination and election of Robustiana Patron Costas, who was the "heir apparent" of President Ramon S. Castillo.

The startling part of the story, as it now is pieced together in Washington, is that Patron Costas, though a wealthy man, had owed a large amount of money to the Nazi-controlled Banco Aleman Transatalantico of Buenos Aires. He had been "bailed out" of this loan by British interests and was expected by the Nazi element, consequently, to be cooperative with the United Nations.

The night before the selection of Patron Costas by the Conversative Party, the revolution was pulled off by a military junta with sympathies well to the right of Castillo.

Another startling bit of information comes through that the Argentine government has either temporarily lifted the ban on radio-coded messages going out from diplomatic sources or failed to put it into effect so far. At any rate, the ban will today.

Axis Envoys Busy

By the Associated Press

Buenos Aires, June 15.—Japanese Ambassador Baron Shu Tomi and Italian Charge d'Affaires Livio Garbaccio conferred today with Foreign Minister Segundo Storni and informed sources said they discussed the Argentine government's decree prohibiting code messages in radio communications. Storni previously say German Charge d'Affaires Erich Meynen.

The decree's execution was postponed until tomorrow, the government announced yesterday, at the request of certain embassies, which complained that dispatches they considered indispensable had been detained.

Nelson Gives 2 WPB Posts To Labor Men

War Production Board Donald M. Nelson yesterday met a year-old demand for organized labor representation in WPB by appointing two vice chairmen from labor's ranks.

Clinton S. Golden, assistant to C. I. O. President Philip Murray in his capacity of head of the United Steel Workers of America, was made vice chairman for manpower liaison.

Joseph D. Keenan, associate director of the WPB Labor production division on leave from his post as Secretary of the Chicago Federation of Labor (A. F. of L.), will take over the duties of Wendell Lund, director of the labor production division, as vice chairman for labor production.

Long Step Forward

Simultaneously, Lund relinquished his post, advising Nelson, "It is my belief that the establishment of these posts with the two men clothed with adequate authority is a long step forward in utilizing the experience and knowledge of American workers in these two important fields."

It was also announced that Golden will serve in the same capacity on the War Manpower Commission as a vice chairman.

Nelson told newsmen that he regarded the liaison job as establishing "an interesting relationship to watch." Golden will have the WPB job of figuring out labor requirements to complete its production programs and then going over to WMC to help provide the manpower, Nelson said.

Full-time Officials

The two labor vice chairmen will report to WPB Executive Vice Chairman Charles E. Wilson, Nelson announced, and will serve as full-time Government officials, not as representatives of their unions.

Arrangements for the new set-up were worked out by the WPB Management-Labor Council composed of Murray, A. F. of L. President William Green, Fred Crawford, president of the National Association of Manufacturers, and Eric Johnston, president of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, Nelson said.

Unique Assignment

Observers pointed out that Golden's liaison assignment was unique since he has the job of interrating the activities of two Government agencies in which American management has a tremendous stake.

"From now on, it is clear that the war production program requires the most efficient use of our manpower resources if we are to get the most out of our available supply of machines and materials," Nelson said.

"Mr. Wilson and I are confident that these appointments and the reshaping of our organization in this manner will greatly strengthen WPB as we enter the next stage of the war production program.

"With the advice of the Management-Labor Council, which represents the four great labor and business organizations and the participation of leaders from labor as well as industry in top policy-making, we believe WPB is well staffed to carry through the present enormous war production program."

Nelson asked Lund to remain with the War Production Board long enough to "assist the two vice chairmen in absorbing the activities of the labor production division so that they may have the benefit of your full experience in carrying forward the work of your division."

Lund's plans for the future were not revealed. Prior to coming to WPB in May, 1942, he was director of the Michigan Unemployment Compensation Commission.

Msgr. Jordan Named to Post Of Vice Rector at Catholic U.

The appointment of the Right Rev. Msgr. Edward Benedict Jordan, head of the department of education and dean of the Catholic Sisters College, as vice rector of Catholic University of America, was announced yesterday by the Right Rev. Msgr. Patrick J. McCormick, rector of the institution. Dr. Jordan's selection for the post, the second highest at the University, was approved by the board of trustees on May 5. Official announcement, however, was withheld pending receipt of confirmation of the appointment by the Holy See, which came Monday.

MSGR. JORDAN

Born in Dunmore, Pa., December 17, 1884, Msgr. Jordan attended the elementary and high schools there prior to entering St. Thomas College, Scranton, Pa., from which he graduated in 1903. Dr. Jordan obtained his B. A. degree at Mount St. Mary's College at Emmitsburg, Md., before entering the Propaganda College at Rome, where he received the degree of doctor of sacred theology and where, on April 10, 1905 he was ordained.

Upon his return to the United States, Dr. Jordan served in South Waverly, Pa., and in Pittston, Pa., until September 1910, when he became a teacher of biology and education at Mount St. Mary's College, Emmittsburg. During 1919 and 1920 he also served as vice president.

Coming to Catholic University in June 1921, Dr. Jordan first served as instructor in education. In 1926 he was promoted to the rank of associate professor. He was secretary of the Catholic Sisters College from 1921 to 1936 when he was made dean of the college. Dr. Jordan has been head of the department of education of the university since December 1941, having served as acting head for a year previously.

Move to Increase Attorneys' Salaries Blocked in Senate

The Senate passed a $226,476,358 appropriations bill for the State, Commerce and Justice Departments by voice vote yesterday after an attempt to authorize the Attorney General to grant blanket salary increases to assistant district attorneys was abandoned.

The fight over the Justice Department proposal came after the Senate added $33,940,358 to House allowances for the Civil Aeronautics Administration for the training of civilian pilots for the Army.

Senator McCarran (Democrat) of Nevada, acting for the Appropriations Committee, submitted an amendment to allow raises for the assistant district attorneys, but later withdrew it when it was denounced by Senator Johnson (Democrat) of Colorado as "an outrage."

"If we have to hold the anti-inflation line against everybody else, we ought to hold the line against attorneys," Johnson declared.

ODT Urges Public to Hold Travel to Minimum; Simpler Type of Vacation Not Ruled Out

The Office of Defense Transportation stressed yesterday that with troop movements and other military traffic mounting to new peaks it is imperative that seasonal increases in civilian travel be kept down. And it can be done, said the ODT, if every citizen will place upon himself the responsibility of traveling only when necessary.

The ODI listed these as nonessential travel: Trips to other cities to visit friends, trips home for the weekend, sightseeing, trips to the theater, races or other places of amusement, and social travel or travel for pleasure, and last, but not least, travel merely for the sake of going somewhere.

They did not entirely rule out vacation travel if it is for the purpose of going to a vacation spot and staying put until the return trip. The agency said in a satement that this is considered "unessential," but less undesirable than travel for the foregoing reasons. But in relenting slightly on this point the ODT emphatically stated that when it said travel to and from summer homes it did not mean commuting to them, making a series of weekend trips, or side excursions during the annual vacation. Vacation travel was strictly defined as a single round-trip to and from the place of vacation.

If you feel that you must spend your vacation away from home ODT suggests that you do these things: Take your vacation in the fall or winter, take it all at once, begin and end it on Tuesday, Wednesday or Thursday, spend it as near home as possible, go one place and stay there, travel in day coaches, carry lunch and as little baggage as possible, be prepared for last-minute changes in trains and routes, expect delayed arrivals, crowded conditions and lack of usual travel comforts, and remember that most of the usual supplementary summer trains, buses and the like are no longer operating.

Better Job Service Urged for Women

Reduction of absenteeism and labor turnover among women workers can be solved by a more efficient job placement program, according to "Choosing Women for War Industry Jobs," a bulletin issued yesterday by the Women's Bureau, United States Department of Labor.

The bulletin advises thorough job analysis, pointing out the selection problem centers around the task of matching the individual woman to the established job.

Roosevelt Bars 'Food Czar,' Backs Subsidy

war food coordinator over both Davis and OPA's Prentiss Brown, agreed to receive a five-man committee from the new consumers' bloc this morning.

War Mobilization Director James F. Byrnes meanwhile urged a House delegation of congressional critics to "give Vinson a chance" to iron out any OPA and WFA differences. The President, sitting with both Byrnes and Vinson, has heard Chairman Hampton P. Fulmer and other ranking members of the House Agriculture Committee insist on immediate transfer of all food controls to Davis.

Byrnes' answer was the same reply given to a bipartisan group of Senators and Congressmen Monday—that to place price and rationing authority and production control in the hands of one man or one agency would be a direct invitation to inflation.

With full Administration backing, OPA Administrator Brown then put on gloves in his own behalf. Before a national conference of retail and wholesale food dealers, Brown warned that OPA's subsidized price roll-back "must work" to avoid a major home front food defeat.

Brown said it would be impossible to stabilize food costs without subsidies, which he said were clearly provided for under the two price acts. Such a defeat on the home front, Brown warned, "will make difficult the winning of the war; it will make impossible the winning of the peace, for it will leave our economy shattered and helpless."

President Roosevelt's defense of OPA and subsidized food controls came as congressional protests boiled over in Senate criticism of the meat price roll back and two imminent House moves for anti-subsidy and food "czar" legislation.

Mr. Roosevelt told reporters there was too much loose thinking in Washington on the subject of food. Making clear that he has no intention of "splitting up" OPA, the President said, people who do not think things through have an idea that a glorified czar would cure everything.

He said he had asked of one party what sort of things a czar might do well. This party replied by telling of a friend who wanted to send a carload of food to a processor, but couldn't get a freight car. He thought the czar might have the car there on a given day.

Mr. Roosevelt told reporters that Transportation Director Joseph B. Eastman had only one million freight cars and demands for 1,500,000, and had to parcel them out to best advantage. If a new czar told Eastman he had to move food before anything else, then Eastman might have to turn down Donald Nelson and the Army and Navy on cars to ship vital armament.

So far as he knew, the President said, War Food Administrator Davis was perfectly satisfied with his present assignment. His last comment from Davis, he said, was a request not to give him OPA.

Admits Delays

Mr. Roosevelt agreed that there had been delays in handling of food and other matters as a result of divisions in authority but he said Jimmy Brynes' new OWM was prepared to coordinate the work of separate agencies and eliminate delays. He asked that the OWM be given a chance to apply the rule of judgment instead of what he called the rule of happy thought.

On the subject of food, he said, people are apt to get confused by the trees and not see the forest. He argued that farmers as well as processors and distributors had a right to expect a fair return that would enable them to meet expenses and get a profit.

If their expenses rise, he said, food prices would have to go up, and that meant living costs, and the inflationary spiral would start upward again and hit half the population. Lacking a better method, he said the way out was use of subsidies to take up the differential.

The President mentioned $1,500,000,000 to $2,000,000,000 as the possible cost of subsidies. He said he had just taken these figures from the newspapers, but if the figures were correct they would amount to only 1½ to 2 per cent of a 100-billion-dollar war cost.

Charges by Senator Wherry (Republican) of Nebraska that Monday's rollback in retail meat prices had "completely demoralized the market" meanwhile touched off a Senate attack on the price-control program. Wherry said cattle prices had dropped $1 per 100 pounds after the rollback and producers had to sell at "terrific losses." Senator Reed (Republican) of Kansas joined in the debate, the Kansan asserting there was no basis in law for food subsidies.

Murray Asks Strike Bill Veto; Sees Law Stifling War Output

veloped—making it clear that the President faces, with respect to the measure, one of the most important decisions in his three Administrations.

In response to a direct question—"Will you sign the Connally-Smith bill?"—President Roosevelt merely informed his press conference that he had asked for the usual comments from various Government departments.

Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins revealed that she had received such a request from the Budget Bureau. Although she declined to disclose the nature of her reply, Miss Perkins made it clear that she had not changed her mind about the measure and was still opposed to it.

WLB in Favor of Veto

It also was learned that a majority of the War Labor Board would favor a veto. Although desiring the subpena power which it provides to deal more effectively with defiance by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, both labor and public members are said to feel that other sections, particularly the one calling for a strike ballot, are unworkable.

Murray told the President that the measure "will actually encourage stoppages and interruptions of work."

"The bill authorizes groups of employes in the particular plants to give notice of their intention to strike and implies that in the event a majority of the employes signify by ballot their desire to strike, such action is permissible," he said.

Peril to Unions Seen

Murray asserted that the measure leaves unions "at the mercy of large corporations which will instigate stoppages of work to pave the way for burdensome civil damage suits against the unions and thereby seek to accomplish their ultimate destruction."

"It should be clear that legislation which affords an opportunity for this type of activity will only initiate a period of terrific internal strife and conflict within our Nation that must be disastrous in terms of the present need for national unity to win the war," Murray declared.

Political Contributions

Murray sharply criticized the prohibition of political contributions by labor unions, describing it as "very openly aimed at weakening the democratic structure of our country by preventing the participation of the common people in our political life, while wealthy people will still be permitted to make as large a contribution as they desire."

The provisions for criminal penalties against strikers "or anyone who might conspire with or encourage any person in such unlawful activity . . . reincorporate in Federal law the hoary and vicious doctrine of criminal conspiracy which as applied to labor unions, made them completely illegal," Murray said.

He said the bill revealed "anti-labor venom" on the part of its sponsors and added "if enacted into law, would constitute one of the most serious blows against our national war effort and be the equivalent of a major military disaster."

U. M. W. Accused In Coal Parleys

pute involving 65,000 miners back in the board's lap.

If the board finds it is without the legal authority to settle the case, Lewis' only chance to secure more money would be in an appeal to the courts under the F. L. S. A. However, if WLB finds that it can settle the "portal-to-portal" dispute, it was conceded last night that the board's grant would be substantially less than the $1.30 a day figure—possibly only $1.30 a week.

Meanwhile, Lewis has called a meeting of his international policy committee for today, presumably to act on the WLB decision in the coal case which is expected today or tomorrow.

Whether Lewis accepts or rejects the WLB award will determine whether the country is to face another coal crisis and a possible third coal strike starting at midnight, June 20, when Lewis' "no contract, no work" deadline expires.

O'Neill informed Davis that he he desired continuing protection against any possible suits for "portal to portal" pay beyond the expiration date of the proposed contract on April 1 next year. Involved are possible suits for back "portal to portal" pay covering the period since 1938 up to April 1, 1943, when the Fair Labor Standards Act was in effect.

Major Tax Bills Out for Rest of '43

willing to seek more revenue, voiced warnings that the big thing to consider would be to keep from letting more taxes work ruin for any group. Representative Reed (Republican) of New York, a Ways and Means member, said that writing a new revenue bill would be a "terrific job" and declared there was "not a chance' of getting 16 billion new revenue.

Senate Finance Chairman George (Democrat) of Georgia said he believed it would be entirely possible to pass a new tax bill before January 1.

Besides Doughton and George, the conference was attended by Senator Byrd (Democrat) of Virginia and Representatives Cooper of Tennessee and Disney of Oklahome, Democrats. Representing the Treasury were Undersecretary Bell and Randolph Paul, general counsel.

Doughton said that no suggestion had been made during the conference that Judge Vinson might be the first Administration witness for hearings on the tax program, but he added that "I hope he might; no one would be more welcome." As a member of Congress, Vinson was a member of Doughton's committee and took a leading role in tax legislation.

Morrison Beaten In Election

Copyright by Chicago Sun

London, June 15.—Home Security Minister Herbert Morrison was defeated today for treasurer of the Labor Party, which elected his opponent, Arthur Greenwood.

There is no suggestion, however, that Morrison will leave the party or the government.

The party treasurership is not in itself a powerful office but it has been used in the past as a stepping stone to party leadership, which Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee now holds. Morrison and Greenwood were favored candidates for leadership before the war, and Attlee's choice was an acknowledged compromise.

The unions felt that Morrison failed to push the Beveridge social security plan sufficiently and that he instituted compulsory fire watching without consulting them.

Anyway The Goats Fought, Says Rome

London (Wednesday), June 16 (AP). Italian praise was bestowed today upon the goats of Linosa for what a Rome broadcaster termed their fierce resistance to the Allies capturing the little island.

Said the voice:

"The British tried to capture the island, on several occasions sending landing parties. They failed because the fierce island goats drove them out every time.

"In the end a British midshipman swam ashore and cut the animals' throats while they were asleep."

100 MILLION POUNDS OF BUTTER DISAPPEAR

SOMETHING HAS HAPPENED. You've probably sensed it in your inability to get butter—even though you have the money and Red Stamps with which to buy it. Perhaps you'll have to go without the butter you want for the next few days.

Though the situation is temporary we regret it has happened. We wish it could be corrected today. But meanwhile the 5,000,000 American dairy farmers want you to know the facts concerning today's butter situation.

THE GOVERNMENT reduced the retail price of butter 10%. To provide for this reduction in price and to maintain production, the government plans to pay a subsidy of 5¢ per pound.

BUT NO PROVISION was made to pay a subsidy for butter in warehouses or in transit to consumers. This has resulted in the government acquiring more than 100,000,000 pounds of butter through emergency selling of all storage butter. One hundred million pounds have disappeared from the regular trade channels. Wholesalers and retailers are without stocks to take care of your needs. It will probably take another week to fully restore retail and wholesale butter supplies to normal.

THE PRESENT BUTTER SITUATION is not the fault of grocers... distributors... creameries... nor dairy farmers. It's been brought about by incomplete planning of those responsible for putting into effect the roll-back on butter prices. Recognizing the seriousness of homes without butter, 5,000,000 dairy farmers want you to know that the whole industry is striving to restore stocks so that you'll have butter back on your tables as soon as possible.

THIS MESSAGE, paid for by the dairy farmer members of the American Dairy Association, deals with an unfortunate market condition. It does not attempt to discuss whether price subsidies are a workable means for reducing the cost of living or preventing inflation.

THE NORMAL DISTRIBUTION of butter has been seriously upset by the manner of administrating the government price reduction order. By making it difficult for housewives to buy butter for even a short time, confidence and faith of the American people in the rationing system is threatened. Confusion and uncertainty promote chaos, so we've frankly presented the butter situation in a constructive spirit with the hope of preventing similar mishaps in the future.

2 D. C. Men in Latest Casualties Reported by War Department

Two Washington area men were reported casualties by the War Department, which yesterday released two lists of men wounded in action.

WARTHAN

One list named 393 casualties in the European, Middle East, North Africa, Pacific and Southwest Pacific areas, while the other included names of 237 United States soldiers wounded in the same areas.

Local casualties listed were Corpl. John W. Warthan, husband of Mrs. Katherine M. Warthan of 1210 Meigs Place Northeast, wounded in the North African area, and Staff Sergt. James J. Ackis, son of Mrs. Indiana Hardwick of 219 Seventeenth Street Southeast, wounded in the Southwest Pacific.

Inducted in January '41

Ackis, born in Elizabeth City, N. C., 26 years ago, was brought to the District as a small child. He attended Armstrong High School, where he was a member of the football team. An employe of the National Airport, he also taught swimming and boxing at the Y. M. C. A. Inducted in January, 1941, he went on overseas duty a year ago.

Warthan, 25, grew up in Dendron, Va. He came to Washington seven years ago and was manager of a Safeway store on East Capitol Street. He entered the Army November, 1941, and went overseas the following April. His last communication was written after he was wounded April 30, but he made no mention of the casualty.

ACKIS

Maryland men wounded, all in the North African area, were Pvt. Walter J. Barzal of Baltimore, First Lieut. Sidney E. Buck of Kensington, Private First Class Horton H. Crosby of Baltimore, Sergt. Charles N. Smith of Mount Airy, Pvt. Melvin Baskin of Baltimore, Pvt. Joseph T. Loane, jr. of Baltimore, and Pvt. Morris Sachs of Baltimore.

Virginia casualties, also in the North African area, were Private First Class Morris M. Dickerson of Glade Spring, Corpl. John M. Williams of Forksville, Private First Class Thomas W. Williams, jr. of Floyd, Private First Class Clyde P. Counts of Glade Spring, Pvt. Richard C. Holloway of Jarratt, Pvt. Harvey C. Sutherland of Pulaski, Pvt. LeRoy T. Virts of Lovettsville, Sergt. James T. Williams, jr. of Drakes Branch, and Private First Class Donald R. Bailey of Langley.

Around the table with a pound of meat

It's quite a trick to make a pound of meat go all around the table and satisfy all the appetites. However, it's been done for generations in foreign countries, and some of the creations have become masterpieces of the culinary world. The secret, of course, is to use the meat in tiny pieces, so that the flavor is distributed throughout the dish. Nutritionally, it's sound practice and one we can well afford to adopt these days.

CHOP SUEY — Cut meat into tiny pieces, brown in hot fat, add sliced celery, onions, shredded cabbage (in lieu of bean sprouts), and seasonings to taste. Add a little water, cover pan and simmer for 15 minutes or until vegetables are tender. Thicken the broth slightly with flour or cornstarch. Serve over steaming, fluffy rice.

CREPES DE BOEUF (French) Add chopped, cooked beef to pancake batter. Make large, thin pancakes. Spread with butter or substitute, sprinkle with parsley, roll up and serve plain or with gravy or sauce.

NOODLE DELIGHT—Saute small pieces of meat and mix with cooked noodles, cooked green beans or okra, and wedges of fresh tomato. Pour in greased casserole and bake in moderate oven (350° F.) for 15 minutes or until heated through and flavors are blended.

MEAT PIE— Dice a pound of meat and prepare as for stew, using several vegetables cut in uniform pieces. Thicken gravy slightly and pour stew into greased casserole. Cover top with pastry or with mashed potato or cornmeal crust. Bake in hot oven (400° F.) for 20 minutes or until well browned.

CREAMED GROUND HAMBURGER—Brown a pound of ground beef or pork and cook until meat separates. Blend in 4 tbsps. flour, add 2½ cups milk and cook until thickened, about 10 minutes. Serve hot over toast, hot biscuits or baked potato.

CHILI CON CARNE—Brown a pound of diced or ground meat with chopped onion. Add 3 cups tomatoes, cooked or fresh, season with chili powder, garlic, salt and pepper and simmer for 15 minutes. Add 3 cups cooked beans, any kind, and heat thoroughly.

VICTORY GOULASH — Brown stew meat, lamb or beef, then cook in water until tender, adding sliced onions, tomato wedges, celery, fresh corn, peas or string beans. Serve with boiled potatoes.

Kiska Volcano Becomes Active, Troubling Japs

Headquarters Alaska Defense Command, June 14 (Delayed) (AP). Returning bomber pilots reported today the Kiska Volcano has become active, adding to troubles of Japanese occupying that Aleutian island.

Pilots who have used the volcano on the north end of Kiska as a navigation point, said the crater is smoking and they saw lava flowing down the sides of the peak.

The first report of the volcano's activity was received June 6. Since then pilots have reported it possibly may be causing actual danger to the Japanese, perhaps dropping rocks or ashes on their positions.

It is considered unlikely that it will force evacuation of any portion of the island.

Guild Warned of Newsprint Cut

Boston, June 15 (AP).—A prediction that a drastic curtailment in newsprint use may be forced upon American newspapers before the end of this year was made today by Warren Morgan, assistant to the associate director of the Labor Production Division of the WPB, in an address before the tenth annual American Newspaper Guild convention.

He told the 125 delegates that the previously estimated newsprint requirement for 1943 was 3,536,796 tons, but that the estimated production would be only 3,470,000 tons. At the present rate of consumption, he said, about 3,700,000 tons would be used, considerably exceeding both the requirement and supply estimates.

The newspaper publishers, he added, were allowed to use 100 per cent of the 1941 net paid circulation, which he figured would amount to a 10 per cent curtailment in the use of newsprint. However, he asserted, approximately 400 newspapers had appealed to the WPB for permission to use more paper than was allowed under the ruling. In almost all cases, he said, permission was granted.

Industry is helping win the war... industry must help build a peacetime world

Fighting now is winning the war... Thinking now can win the peace

Today millions of service men are fighting for "a better world to live in." Other millions of individuals are performing miracles of production through the united efforts of management and wage earners—all of one mind—for "an unconditional surrender."

Tomorrow these millions will be permanently employed in peacetime pursuits provided they—all of one mind—dictate sound peace terms calling for sustained prosperity.

If the world is to prosper, there must be the same cohesion among the United Nations during the transition period and thereafter as now exists during the world-wide conflict. Internal stability here and in other nations can be gained and maintained only by sustained industrial production and by economic interdependence.

The people of this country, in common with the people of other lands, will prosper materially and spiritually when this war is ended but only if insistence, world-wide in scope, is now voiced for A JUST AND DURABLE PEACE.

THE NEW FRONTIER IS RIGHT WHERE YOU LIVE

When people talk about rebuilding America they do not mean some other town.

They mean your town, whether you live in Washington or Winnetka.

Nor do they mean some other "third" of the nation than the third you happen to be in. Rebuilding America means rebuilding it for three-thirds of the nation—for each town and for everyone in it.

The important thing about postwar planning is not the jargon the planners talk but what the planners do. Without your help there is precious little they can do but talk.

Planning, like Democracy, needs more than the experts

There are two kinds of postwar planning. One kind could only result if the citizenry shrugs its shoulders and leaves the job to the experts. Not many people, certainly not the planners, want that. The other kind of planning will result if an informed group of active citizens in every community arouses public opinion and guides the planners in gradually making over each community into a better place for your wife, your children, your neighbors and you.

Planners are not crackpots

These technicians are not screwballs or dwellers in ivory towers. They are hard-working, trained, skillful people. They are Planners. They are Architects. They are Engineers. And they are Builders, Real Estate Men and Bankers. A few of them are Government officials, but most of them are private "professionals," expert in giving your community what it needs.

Maybe your town does not need changing—maybe?

Maybe your town has no traffic problem?

Maybe it has no slums and no blighted areas soon to become slums?

Maybe most of the houses are not over 50 years old?

Maybe there are enough safe places for your children to play in? And enough modern schools for them?

Maybe your hospitals are model 20th Century medical plants?

Maybe there is a fine municipal swimming pool for all the kids?

Maybe your water supply and sewerage system are up to date?

Maybe these questions are not for you? Maybe you live in the town nobody knows?

Slow planning is better than fast planning

It takes time to replan even a small town.

First you have to assemble all the facts about the kind of town it is. Next the town has to decide what kind of place it wants to be in the future. Then you have to figure out the steps to get there. And only after that can you even begin to plan on paper.

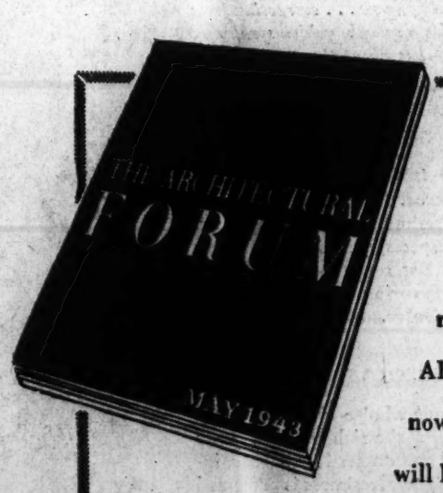
If the war lasts two more years, your planners would have to hurry to have any decent plans ready. And if the war ends sooner, you are likely to be behind the job, even if you start tomorrow.

Replanning and rebuilding your town is a good business proposition

A badly planned town—and almost every town was built before autos and planes were thought of—if allowed to shift for itself will not be able to compete with progressive postwar communities. Trade will fall off. Sooner or later, people will move to more attractive places. And as your town goes downhill, the cost of community services will go up and taxes will follow, without any compensating features. In other words, you pay no more to rebuild your town than if you do nothing. Of course, planning and rebuilding cost money. But you get something that the town next door cannot take away from you, something your neighbor next door deserves to share with you.

The essentials of a planning program are simple

Planners, like doctors, like to use big words, but they both get results. And since you are the patient in both cases, you might as well be a smart one and learn how to help the planners. To help many people make replanning the U. S., and your particular piece of it, a truly democratic and successful enterprise, the Editors of THE ARCHITECTURAL FORUM are preparing an inexpensive 12-page booklet. This booklet, "Planning With You," is almost a primer, but not quite. It counts on your civic spirit and sees you as a responsible adult anxious to play an active part in postwar planning. The booklet is free. Send for it. Read it. It is the first step you personally can take in doing something for the future of your town now. Write to the address below.



WHY THE ARCHITECTURAL FORUM is steamed up about replanning and rebuilding your town

This is no philanthropy. This magazine has perfectly sound and selfish reasons for printing this message. For 612 consecutive months THE ARCHITECTURAL FORUM has been talking to its regular audience which now numbers more than 33,000, among them most of the professionals who will lead the way in replanning and rebuilding America. They need a voice to reach the people who will decide how much and what kind of rebuilding should be done. This message is their voice. No one will lose by heeding it.

District OPA Delays Action On New ABC Cash Sale Order

By Roger Young
Post Staff Writer

The local Office of Price Administration is holding off action on a District ABC Board ruling that all wholesale-retail liquor sales must be on a cash basis, even though the OPA declares that this order, effective July 23, is contrary to general price control policies.

The OPA objects specifically to this section of the new liquor regulations because it would eliminate the traditional practice of allowing a 2 per cent discount on cash sales. In effect, the OPA argues, this is a price increase of 2 per cent on wholesale-retail sales, and as such is in direct opposition to the President's anti-inflation program.

Called "Inconceivable"

One OPA spokesman said that it was "inconceivable" that the ABC Board, being informed of this, would put its order into effect.

However, no steps beyond a few conferences have been taken to prevent this regulation from becoming operative, and the local OPA said last night that its chief attorney was so tied up with food rationing problems that further conferences with the ABC Board would have to wait.

Would Cause Price Jump

Besides the direct price increase that would be caused by the discontinuance of the 2 per cent discount, it was pointed out, indirect increases would be caused by the necessity of paying interest on money necessary to finance the purchases of the allotments of cash liquor.

Commissioner Guy Mason yesterday denied that there was any conflict between the new ABC ruling and established OPA policies, and ABC Chairman Thomas E. Lodge denied that the OPA had made any protest to him. However, OPA authorities, both local and nation, agree that there is a definite violation. It was hoped that the issue could be settled around the conference table before July 23. If not, it was suggested, the OPA could wait until the ABC went on and put its ruling into effect, then take legal steps.

Roosevelt's Grandson Cleared in Boy's Death

Morristown, Pa., June 15 (AP).—William Donner Roosevelt, 10-year-old son of Col. Elliot Roosevelt and grandson of the President, was exonerated by a coroner's jury today in the fatal shooting June 6 of his playmate, Lewis Hutchinson, jr., 11, of Ardmore.

Coroner Winslow J. Rushong said evidence and statements by young Roosevelt showed the shooting was purely "accidental."

Two Main Jap Islands Report Earthquake

New York, June 15 (AP).—Two main islands in the Japanese Archipelago were shaken by an earthquade Sunday, but "no damage was reported," a Tokyo broadcast said today.

The broadcast, intended for foreign consumption, said the shock was felt on Honshu, on which Tokyo is located, and on Hokkaido to the north. The broadcast was recorded by the Office of War Information.

Civilian Travel To Hawaii Eased

Pearl Harbor, June 15 (INS).—Indications that Pacific waters and shipping lanes between Hawaii and the mainland have been made comparatively safe from Japanese submarines came today with the revelation that an increasing number of civilians are being permitted to make the crossing.

Restrictions upon civilian travel between the United States and Hawaii gradually are being lifted, naval authorities said.

Congress Bloc, Citing Politics in Gas Issue, May Go to President

By Mary Spargo
Post Staff Writer

Determined to have a "showdown" on just how great a part political considerations are playing in the Nation's gasoline and oil situation, the Eastern gasoline congressional bloc yesterday threatened to carry the whole situation right to the White House.

Discussion of the possibility of taking the gasoline problem up directly with President Roosevelt, followed a meeting yesterday of Midwest and Western bloc Senators and Representatives at which Petroleum Administrator for War Ickes stated his agency had no immediate plan to tighen rationing in the Midwest.

Decisions Awaited

Meanwhile solution was promised this week of the hotly disputed uestion as to whether control of gasoline and fuel oil rationing should be left with OPA or given to Ickes' agency, a move Ickes and many Congressmen have been advocating for some time. War Production Chairman Donald Nelson said he would announce a decision on the question this week. Ickes and OPA Chief Prentiss-Brown were understood to have presented their claims to management of the rationing program. Ickes charged OPA with mismanagement, and OPA, on the other hand, is said to claim a transfer of authority would threaten a split-up of rationing in general, and complicate the lot of the local boards.

Representative Hartley (Republican) of New Jersey, chairman of the Eastern bloc, said, "First we are told by PAW officials that they favor Midwest gas rationing; then we hear they don't. We don't feel that political considerations should enter this matter at all. But the fact is that it is in everybody's mind that the 1944 campaign is dictating what should be done about gasoline and oil.

"Somewhere along the line we're determined to have a showdown. Next Monday we have asked Secretary Ickes, OPA Administrator Brown, ODT Director Eastman, and Donald Nelson of the War Production Board, all to attend a meeting of our group at the same time. If we don't get some relief through this action then we're going to clear the air by going to the White House."

Hartley said the Eastern bloc was not interested in forcing needless sacrifice on the Midwest.

"We want to know why PAW is taking 13,000 tank cars off the Midwest-New York run August 1, when the 24-inch pipe line is completed, even though the 300,000 barrels a day the pipe line can send us is admittedly inadequate. Why not continue the tank cars, too, giving us 550,000 barrels a day, which will much more nearly supply the armed forces, farmers, transportation systems and war industries of the East?

"Second we want a showdown on the price of crude oil. Ickes has proposed and pressed for an increase of 35 cents a barrel. OPA blocks the increase. Everybody knows the increase would stimulate the discovery of new wells, essential if production is even going to be mantained."

Highlights of Ickes' testimony before the Midwest Senate bloc, headed by Senator LaFollette (Progressive) of Wisconsin, were:

1. Pledge that would be no immediate rationing of gasoline in the Midwest.

2. Assertion America was on verge of becoming a gasoline importing, instead of exporting, nation. Ralph K. Davies, deputy petroleum administrator, said within a year there will not be enough crude oil in California to keep pace with demands there. Ickes said only unexpected discoveries of new sources in the United States would really increase production to any great extent. These discoveries would not be made, he said, unless the crude oil price is increased.

Submarine Menace

3. The submarine menace is much less critical than it was a year ago. Ickes said he did not expect it to interfere materially with imports from the Caribbean, Venezuela and Colombia.

4. OPA's coupons system, according to Ickes, is "very ineffective." Ickes asserted his agency could handle the whole problem better than OPA.

5. The farmer is the first to suffer when gasoline runs short. Ickes said ways must be found to get gasoline to farmers so that the all-important food production will not lag.

6. The gasoline and oil situation in the East this winter will be about the same as last winter.

7. The Pacific Coast, because of wartime demands, faces "the specter of a crude shortage and a product shortage."

F. B. Dow of the Office of Defense Transportation paid tribute to the effective cooperation of PAW and ODT and complimented the railroads of the country on their cooperation in handling the distribution of oil and gasoline.

Paul M. O'Leary, rationing chief for OPA, said OPA believed restrictions on the East Coast were very stringent, and he favored Midwest rationing if means could be found to transport supplies East.

Study of Delinquency Ordered

Committees of civic and education officials to combat juvenile delinquency among junior high school students will be named at the Board of Education meeting today.

Also to be appointed is a committee to prepare suggested amendments to the Teachers Requirement Act.

Proposals to be taken under consideration by the board will include abolishment of 42 teaching positions; part-time instruction of Garfield Hospital student nurses at Wilson Teachers College; and location of a new 16-room school building, branch library building and community building on land near the temporary Patterson School.

Retirements up for board approval will be those of Mary A. Dilger, administrative principal, Gale-Seaton School; Sarah E. Beamer, Corcoran School; Annie C. Keliher, Curtis School, and Mrs. Genevieve T. Staley, Cook School.

Apple "Honey" helps Old Golds stay Fresh!

NEW MOISTENING AGENT

Old Gold has a new moistening agent to seal in the natural moisture that means freshness in a cigarette. That's fortunate, because Uncle Sam now needs the glycerine formerly used. Apple "Honey" is a natural wonder at helping keep our fine tobaccos moist and pliable on their way to you.

FROM DELICIOUS, RIPE APPLES

The Eastern Regional Research Laboratory of the U. S. Department of Agriculture first created this new moistening agent . . . extracting from the juice of apples a smooth, golden syrup that looks like honey—has about the consistency of honey. That's why we named it Apple "Honey."*

SPRAYED ON THE OLD GOLD BLEND

Today, we spray Apple "Honey" on our choice Old Gold tobaccos. It helps to seal in the moisture and freshness of each tiny fiber. And in many respects, we think it is better than glycerine. But remember this: Apple "Honey" is not a flavoring. It does not change the taste of Old Golds.

THOUSANDS CHANGING TO OLD GOLDS!

Join the thousands who've changed to Old Golds lately! Enjoy the rich fragrant flavor of fine imported and domestic tobaccos, including Latakia. Their freshness is protected by Apple "Honey"—their taste is unchanged. Get a pack of Old Golds today!

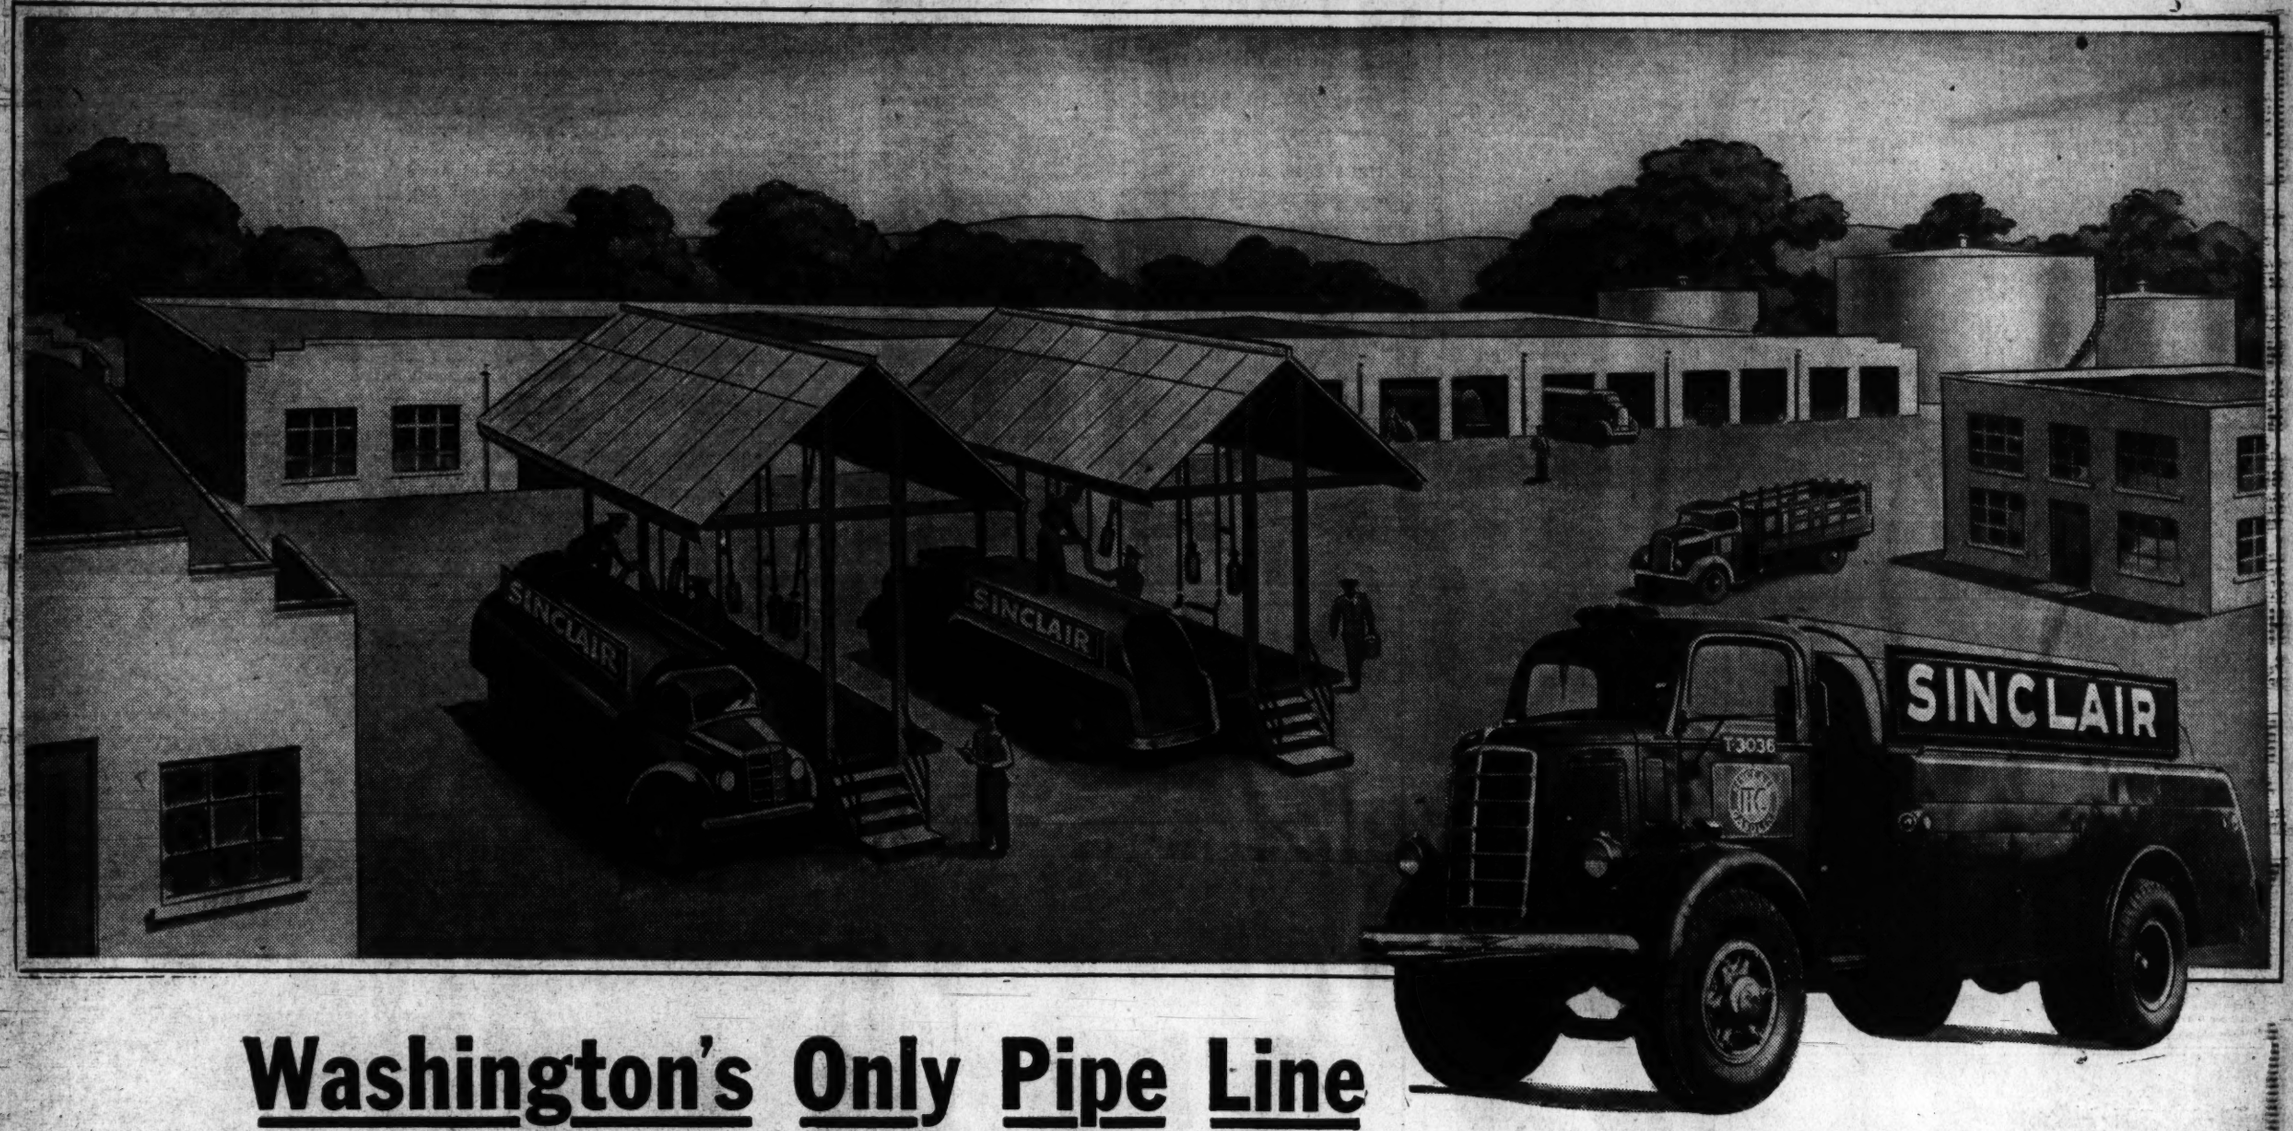
SINCLAIR OPENS CAPITAL'S FIRST OIL PIPE LINE



Washington's Only Pipe Line Terminal Big Boon to Fuel Oil Users

For the first time in history, fuel oil and other petroleum products now flow into the nation's capital by PIPE LINE. With the opening of its new 6-inch line, having a delivery capacity of 21,000 gallons per hour, Sinclair Refining Company has provided a new all-weather source of supply for Washington's fuel oil users.

In connection with its new pipe line Sinclair has also just completed a storage terminal with a capacity of nearly 4,500,000 gallons. The terminal, located right in the District of Columbia, only a fifteen minute drive from the Capitol building, is complete with loading racks where Sinclair delivery trucks can be filled at the rate of 600 gallons a minute.

OPA Urges You to Fill Your Tank This Summer

In conformance with the OPA's request that home owners fill their tanks as soon as possible to ease the supply problem next winter, Sinclair is prepared to honor coupons and fill tanks now. OPA also urges you to fill out and return your re-application form promptly.

Phone Sinclair For Help With Your OPA Forms

Sinclair will be prepared to help you make out your new OPA form R-1167 when it is issued. Phone or send in the attached coupon for further information. We will explain the new OPA forms, arrange for delivery of oil and tell you about Sinclair's Service to put burners and boilers in the best possible condition for next winter.

Take Advantage of These Features of Sinclair Service

1. AUTOMATIC DELIVERY SERVICE by Sinclair Tank Truck—Metered Service.
2. COMPLETE BURNER SERVICE—Ceiling Prices—Expert fuel oil burner mechanics.
3. High quality Sinclair SuperFlame Fuel Oil — Clean Burning—Maximum heat units per gallon.
4. Sinclair Service is backed by its new Washington pipe line and storage terminal and Sinclair's own refineries.
5. For many years, Sinclair Refining Company, one of the nation's largest oil companies, has distributed its products in 42 states. Now the company brings its products and service direct to residents of the District of Columbia.

STEAKS AT STAKE. "Home cookin'" said a flock of replete senors (in Spanish) as they pushed back their chairs in Olmsted's after a steak dinner. Since they were an Argentinian purchasing commission and the Argentine popular is reputed to practically live on filets mignon, this comment is a dazzling compliment to Olmsted's cuisine. We understand this group of Argentine businessmen have the laudable ambition of trading sirloins for North American combat planes about ten minutes after the international situation is ironed out.

Ting-a-ling! It's wedding bells. Pete Macias took a whole week off from the Lounge Riviera to prepare and recover from giving away his niece, beauteous Marian Macias, to "Buddy" Fletcher of the Nineteenth Bombing Squadron, first to the Far East after Pearl Harbor. The wedding was in the Palm Room of Hotel 2400 Sixteenth Street . . . And Harry Coleman, Mayfair's promotion manager, recently hurried to Boston to act as best man at his brother's wedding.

STRATOSPHERIC MAESTROS A-COMING. Ted Flo Rita of the "Sky Line Music" will alight in Uline's tomorrow. His "musical pilots" are Lynn Stephens and Jimmy Baxter. The Flo Rita music needs no boosting from any one—it's nationally known for its clipper rhythm, its smooth-as-silk melodics. . . . Tonight Del Rio brings back Carlos Molina's Orchestra, a synonym for Latin-American elegance plus that certain something.

MID-SUMMER PARTIES. The Chevy Chase and Bethesda Rotary Club took over the entire second floor at Ruby Foo's last night for their annual "get together" dinner-dance . . . Col. Jack Jayne of the ferry command is a dinner host at least once a week in the Dubonnet Room. He's a former air mail pilot and an old friend of singer Donnelly James. . . . The Willard Room looks like a convention of United Nations officers every afternoon with Australian, Canadian, French and Polish uniforms mingled with those of our own combat forces. . . . F. Lee Hardesty, prominent Western radio man, entertained a party at a recent Pall Mall Room fashion luncheon and says his masculine guests thought the "play costumes" were terrific.

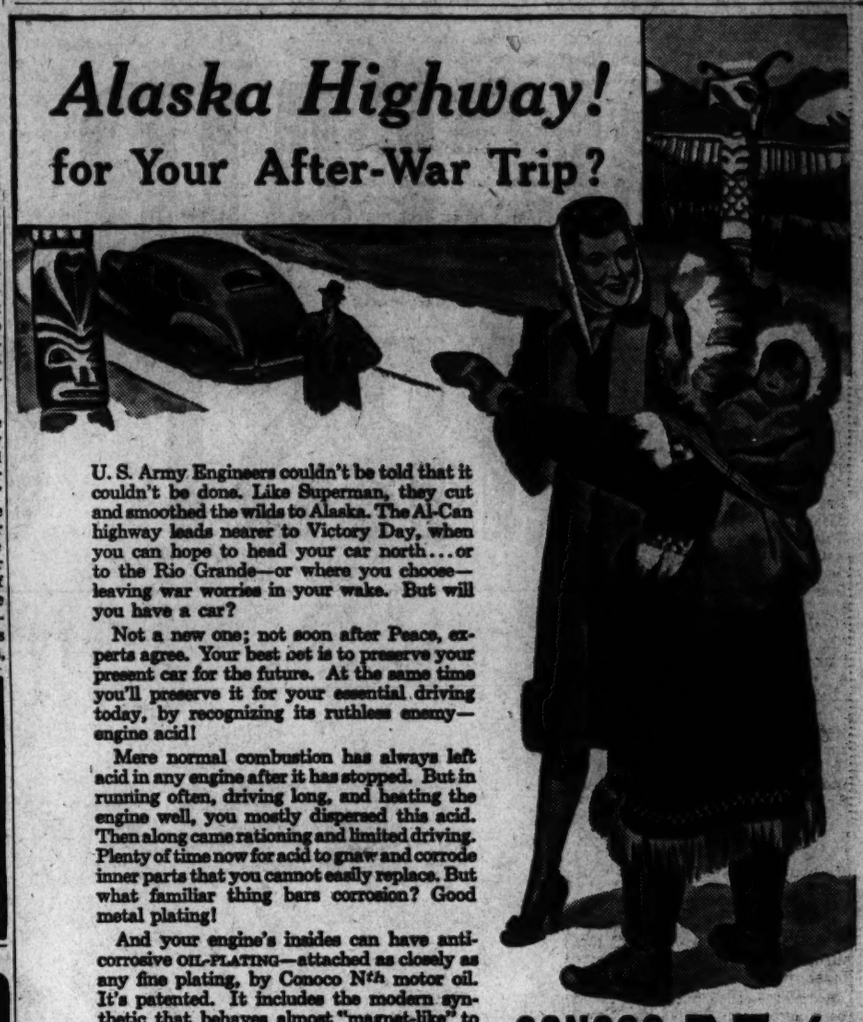
Alaska Highway!
for Your After-War Trip?



U. S. Army Engineers couldn't be told that it couldn't be done. Like Superman, they cut and smoothed the wilds to Alaska. The Al-Can highway leads nearer to Victory Day, when you can hope to head your car north . . . or to the Rio Grande—or where you choose—leaving war worries in your wake. But will you have a car?

Not a new one; not soon after Peace, experts agree. Your best bet is to preserve your present car for the future. At the same time you'll preserve it for your essential driving today, by recognizing its ruthless enemy—engine acid!

Mere normal combustion has always left acid in any engine after it has stopped. But in running often, driving long, and heating the engine well, you mostly dispersed this acid. Then along came rationing and limited driving. Plenty of time now for acid to gnaw and corrode inner parts that you cannot easily replace. But what familiar thing bars corrosion? Good metal plating!

And your engine's insides can have anti-corrosive OIL-PLATING—attached as closely as any fine plating, by Conoco Nth motor oil. It's patented. It includes the modern synthetic that behaves almost "magnet-like" to maintain OIL-PLATING—ever for days—where acid could otherwise freely attack. Block it! OIL-PLATE today. Your Conoco Mileage Merchant knows your right grade of Conoco Nth oil. Continental Oil Company

PULL THE LOAD?

THE heavy demands placed upon our industrial machinery, today, have lowered its economic utility at a far faster rate than under peacetime conditions. Two and three-shift operation diminishes proportionately the number of calendar years in which these machines can be expected to operate efficiently.

Also, machinery shortages have caused many tools to be retained long after they should have been replaced. Their productive value is fast reaching the vanishing point. Quality and quantity of production cannot help but be materially decreased. The question is serious as to whether our existing plant equipment will be able to meet post-war demands. Alert management is checking, now, the utility value of present machinery, to see which can carry the postwar load, and which must be replaced with more up-to-date, cost-reducing tools.

Also, to maintain American standards of wages and living, it is more and more necessary that we balance higher man-power rates with lower machine-power costs. Otherwise, we shall be placed at a severe disadvantage by the lower wages of our foreign competition, aided by the new machines which we have been shipping abroad, in such abundance.

The present pent-up demands for new products of all kinds will be released only to those manufacturers who are able to deliver good quality at reasonable prices. Only by the fullest utilization of the most highly efficient machine power, can we make more goods available to more people, at lower cost.

8 D. C. Area Men Among 316 Held by Japs

Reported prisoners of the Japanese, mostly in the Philippine Islands, by the Navy Department yesterday were 316 United States Navy personnel, including 8 former Washington area men. Several of the local men previously had been reported missing in action.

CROSS

Interned from this area were: Lieut. Comdr. Cornelius Tunneclif Cross, Dental Corps, huband of Mrs. Eva Moore Cross of 2800 Woodley Road Northwest; Chief Pharmacist's Mate Luther Melvin Pfiler, brother of Schuyler C. Pfiler of 3828 Van Ness Street Northwest; Chief Pharmacist's Mate Lacy Love Casteel, husband of Mrs. Mollie Louise Casteel of 2811 Davis Avenue, Alexandria, Va.; Chief Pharmacist's Mate Arthur Irving Diaz, husband of Mrs. Margaret E. Diaz of 622 South Patrick Street, Alexandria; Comdr. Thomas Hirst Hayes, Medical Corps, husband of Mrs. Marye K. Hayes of 137 South Fairfax Street, Alexandria; Lieut. Alfred Littlefield Smith, Medical Corps, husband of Mrs. Elizabeth Jackson Smith of 6 Chapman Street, Alexandria; Lieut. Comdr. Rintoul Thomas Whitney, husband of Mrs. Stellamaris Whitney of 1516 North Rhodes Avenue, Arlington, Va., and Pharmacist's Mate (second class) Lawrence Franklin Tyree, husband of Mrs. Myrtle Jeanette Tyree of Capitol Heights, Md.

HAYES

Born in Cape Vincent, N. Y., 54 years ago, Cross joined the Naval Reserve in the summer of 1941. He had made his home in the Philippines since graduation from the University of Pennsylvania and had been one of Manila's leading dentists for a score of years. He owned a cocoanut plantation on the Island of Mindanao. Mrs. Cross returned to this country in 1940.

Pfiler, 54, was born in Reynoldsville, Pa. After working for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad at Newcastle, Pa., he joined the Navy in 1920. He was stationed at the old Naval Hospital here about eight years ago, and while there participated in all types of sports, winning several medals for his athletic ability. Before the outbreak of war, he was sent on Pacific duty and was attached to the Naval Hospital at Canacoa, near Cavite, in the Philippines.

WHITNEY

Casteel was born in Greensville, Tenn., April 12, 1900, and enlisted in the Navy in 1922. He had never lived in this area. After five years of service in Manila, he spent three years on recruiting duty in Cincinnati, Ohio, then returned to the Philippines in May, 1941.

Diaz, 35, is a native of Ridgefield, N. Y., and has been in the Navy for 18 years. At one time he was stationed in Washington. His wife is employed at the Naval Torpedo Station.

Born in Philadelphia, Pa., February 2, 1898, Hayes was graduated from George Washington University Medical School in 1920. He was commissioned a lieutenant (j. g.) on July 7, 1924. Seven years later he took a postgraduate course in orthopedic surgery at Harvard and in 1937 was promoted to a senior lieutenant.

Whitney, who was born in Michigan, volunteered for naval service during the first World War and was commissioned an ensign in 1921. In 1939 he was made lieutenant commander and assigned to Cavite. He supervised the evacuation of 800 Navy wives, including his own,

Army Plans to Abandon World's Biggest Hotel, Bought Less Than Year Ago

Copyright by New York Tribune, Inc.

Chicago, June 15.—The Army Air Forces is planning to abandon Chicago's 3900-room Stevens Hotel, largest in the world, which it purchased less than a year ago for six million dollars as the central unit of a huge training school for radio technicians, it was learned here today.

The Air Forces already have vacated the adjacent and smaller Congress Hotel, asquired at the same time as the second unit of the training center, and plans to give up the Stevens when the final class of radio operators graduates in a few weeks, the public relations officer for the school reported.

Although many officers here said they had no knowledge of the War Department's plans for disposing of the hotels, executives of other hotels in Chicago said that the Army already had offered through an agent to sell the Stevens to the Statler Hotel chain. The offer was said to have been turned down.

Hotel men declared, however, that it would be impossible to reopen either the Stevens or the Congress, both of which are needed now to relieve the shortage of hotel accommodations in Chicago, until after the war, because the Army disposed of their furnishings three months ago at a gigantic public auction.

Otto K. Eitel, who managed the Stevens from 1933 to 1939, estimated that it would cost more than two million dollars to replace the furnishings of the Stevens which weer sold at the Army auction last March, even if they could be found.

Managers of other Chicago hotels made no effort to conceal their chargin over the report that the Army is going to release the Stevens and Congress. All agreed that restoration of these hotels would probably force the hotel business in Chicago back into the red after the war.

The Air Forces was reported to be abandoning the hotels because the pressing need for operators and technicians that existed a year ago has now been filled and because it has been found that better training can be given in centers located outside large cities.

Little things that become Big Things

THE U. S. ARMY Ordnance Department, early in 1942, asked one of our executives if we had a factory near a good supply of water, of sufficient size to make small calibre ammunition at the rate of many millions every twenty-four hours. We had such a factory on the Ohio River with enough feet of floor space. It was well placed near additional unused land and far enough from the city to allow the storage of powder and the loading and testing of ammunition.

The work of preparation was started immediately. The automobile machinery in the plant, which could not be used, was dismantled and put elsewhere. It was replaced by new and different equipment. A specialized laboratory was installed and staffed with engineers, metallurgists, and technicians drawn from our widely diversified staff. Production executives and specialists were also selected from our own personnel. While the factory was being prepared for production, the Frankford arsenal assisted the training of these production specialists who, in turn, were to train the workers and supervise the operation of the many departments of the plant.

"TESTING FOR EVERY BATTLE FRONT CONDITION"

The first finished ammunition produced in this newly organized plant went on test in May, 1942. The cartridge cases were then made of brass. Brass is an extremely vital war material. Could steel be used instead? Could steel be worked over the machinery and tools that were provided for the use of brass? Could the steel be treated to withstand the corrosion of a long sea voyage and to resist successfully the humidity of the tropics and the subzero temperatures of the Arctic? The U. S. Army Ordnance Department — and our own engineers, metallurgists and technicians believed it could. More engineering talent — this time chemists — were added to the laboratory staff and the larger and more complete Chrysler Corporation's laboratories, in Detroit, were also directed to the solution of this problem.

"COULD IT BE DONE WITH STEEL?"

"THOUSANDS PER MINUTE"

The first of the new steel casings were made in the month of August, 1942. They were pretty good. Then began severe testing, — spraying with wet salt air, burying in salty mud marshes washed by the tide,—storing in hot damp rooms and open exposure to the weather,—plating with lacquer, copper, cadmium, nickel, chrome, zinc, silver, lead — dipping in dichromate, sealing with plastics. A vast cycle of experiments were tried and tested and the results compared. From all this effort came a standardized product made of steel, and approved for use on all the battle fronts.

The making of this ammunition is really the art of producing many pieces rapidly—many thousands per minute, every day, 6 days a week. Ninety-nine operations are performed to take each piece of ammunition from the lead, steel and powder stage to the formed, loaded, tested and packed, finished article — ready to shoot, — with every piece perfect in shape, finish, and firing efficiency.

We have made our first billion of this steel ammunition. Not that this is a top record for ammunition making but, to us, it is a milestone passed on the road to Victory. We will pass the second and third billion with much less emotion but we really got a thrill out of joining the ranks of the important producers of ammunition.

With this change to steel we release, with every billion rounds, thousands of tons of brass. This brass can now be used in war production where no other substitute is possible.

"A LITTLE THING BECAME BIG"

A finished round of ammunition weighs only a few ounces. Little things often do become really big and important.

Britons Here To Offer Plan Of Education

The contrast between educational facilities afforded American members of armed forces and industrial workers and their British counterparts was pointed up to a sharp degree yesterday as three leaders of the Workers Educational Association of Great Britain held a press conference.

The British efforts and accomplishments along this line, as outlined by R. Huws Jones, Ernest Green and John Parker, made the American score seem a pallid "also-ran."

The association which they represent has an enrollment of more than 60,000 workers as students of social and literary subjects. It has conducted lectures and classes for members of the armed forces and civilian defense running into thousands of hours along broad lines, extending from foreign languages to discussions of all of the various plans for postwar world security.

To Aid American Project

They will assist in planning a similar workers' education movement in America as well as a postwar student educational exchange, and to learn what they can of American labor education.

The association was established 40 years ago to take the work of Britain's universities to workers under joint university-union committees. Today, said Green, secretary of the association, there are more than 3000 classes throughout the island.

The British soldier and civilian alike, they pointed out, is intensely interested in what peace will bring.

Looking to the Future

The British workingman, according to the three educationalists, is mostly interested in security for himself and his family when the peace is won. He is determined that no great depression, such as followed the last war, shall be the fruits of this victory—and he is determined to see that his views reach his leaders. To do this, he is trying to acquaint himself with all of the social possibilities that may present themselves with the peace.

The three men, Green, general secretary; Parker, secretary of the regional committee for education to His Majesty's forces and Jones, specialist in adult education, will tour America's universities and colleges, war plants and unions and convene with educational societies during their stay in the country. They have many plans for closer educational cooperation between the nations, and, they say, they'll be better able to tell how these may be worked out when they've finished the tour.

Mexico Acts For Innocent 'Zoot-Suiters'

By the Associated Press

Mexico City, June 15.—Mexico instructed its Ambassador in Washington today to express to the American Government its belief that Mexican "zoot-suiters" involved recently in clashes with American sailors in Los Angeles would receive proper damages in case they were victims of assault.

In its first official statement regarding the clashes, the Mexican government took a mildly firm stand on rights of its nationals, emphasizing its conviction that American justice would grant "innocent victims" their proper retribution.

A foreign office statement said:

"Since it received its first information regarding the damage suffered by some of our nationals due to the lamdntable incidents in the City of Los Angeles between 'zoot-suiters' and groups of North American sailors, the Department of Foreign Relations—which constantly watches over protection of Mexicans abroad—has been in contact with our diplomatic and consular representatives in the United States.

"After studying the data brought to its attention, it has instructed the Mexican Ambassador in Washington to express to the authorities of the State Department our government's firm conviction that as soon as official investigations in the case are concluded punishment will be applied to the responsible persons and the innocent victims will be granted adequate and just damages."

Dr. Poppen Protests Radio 'Indecency'

Detroit, June 15 (AP).—Dr. Emanuel Poppen of Columbus, Ohio, president of the American Lutheran Church, disclosed here today that he had made an "official protest" to the major networks against "profanity and indecency in radio broadcasts." He did not elaborate.

KIDNEYS MUST REMOVE EXCESS ACIDS

Help 15 Miles of Kidney Tubes Flush Out Poisonous Waste

If you have an excess of acids in your blood, your 15 miles of kidney tubes may be overworked. These tiny filters and tubes are working day and night to help Nature rid your system of some acids and poisonous waste. When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Kidneys may need help the same as bowels; so ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

District's New Pipe Line Terminal

458 miles. It was built at a cost of approximately $25,000 per mile.

Capacity of the line is 183,960,000 gallons of petroleum products a year. Estimates based on gasoline-tax figures and trade surveys of the area show that the District area consumed 304,000,000 gallons of gasoline in 1942. So, even if not operated at capacity, the line will go a long way toward relieving the fuel shortage here and at Baltimore, where another terminal is located.

By an agreement with the Petroleum Administration for War, the Sinclair Co. will distribute the commodities carried through the line to other primary suppliers in the area. These supplies are allocated to the companies by the Petroleum Advisory Committee, set up by PAW for such allocatory suggestions.

The terminal at 401 Farragut Street Northeast, just off Rock Creek Church Road, near North Capitol Street, now is the largest tank farm in the Washington area. A tank for gasoline (buried 3 feet under ground) has a storage capacity of 1,800,000 gallons. Fuel oil storage capacity is about 2,300,000 gallons and kerosene capacity about 400,000 gallons.

The entire terminal was built under priorities and less than 150 tons of steel in its construction is new. The company scoured the entire country for second-hand materials, and plates used in the construction of the tanks came from as widely separated points as Pennsylvania and Oklahoma.

Starlight Concerts Will Have Acoustic Aids

Preparations for The Post Starlight Concerts which start on June 26 at Meridian Hill Park are designed to give thousands of listeners the best acustical equipment for outdoor musical performances.

The acoustical shell itself, a room-sized affair in which the musicians play, was designed by C. C. Cappel who is managing the concert series, following experiments during such early out-of-door concerts as those of the Chautauqua circuit. Made of canvas stretched on a steel frame, the shell enables a maximum of pure sound to reach the audience. Sensitive as any instrument, on particularly dry days its surface must be carefully sprinkled with water to insure a proper sound reflection quality.

During the afternoons before each concert, the musicians give a test rehearsal to be certain that the right balance of sound is obtained. The music is picked up by a centrally placed microphone and amplified by loudspeakers concealed in the audience area.

At the concerts themselves, a technician is always seated inconspicuously among the listeners with a set of controls at his fingertips. Everything depends on the atmosphere and wind direction. It is his job to adjust the delicate knobs to meet any atmospheric challenge, and the listener, hearing the full melodies, never suspects the operations which are under way at his very elbow.

The Post Starlight Concerts are meant to provide a source of relaxation and fine entertainment for Washingtonians during the hot summer nights to come. Transportation facilities to Meridian Hill Park, the beautiful outdoor setting, are excellent, with three Sixteenth Street buses stopping directly at the park entrance.

Tickets are popularly priced at 55 cents, $1.10 and $1.65 for single concerts and $4.40, $8.80 and $13.20 for each of the series. They are now on sale at the Cappel Concert Bureau, in Ballard's, 1340 G Street Northwest.

$1,000,000 Overcharge Laid to Firm

Kansas City, June 15 (AP).—The Office of Price Administration today filed suit in United States District Court for $1,235,629.53 and costs against Mars, Inc., a candy company with headquarters in Chicago.

The OPA alleges a reduction in the size and weight of candy bars was equivalent to raising prices. The petition claims total overcharges of $411,897.51 were made by the company in the sales of six brands of candy bars.

The amount in the suit was asked under OPA regulations which provide a penalty three times the amounts charged over and above ceiling prices based on those of March, 1942.

War Hospitality Committee Hears of Need of Uniform Plan

The new coordinating committee on war hospitality for the Washington metropolitan area appointed by United States Coordinator John Russell Young for the purpose of coordinating recreational services for the military personnel and war-workers within the counties of the metropolitan area, met for the first time Monday. The area to be served was defined as the area included under the command of Maj. Gen. John T. Lewis, commanding general of the military district of Washington which was set up under the original mobilization plan of the Office of Civilian Defense.

Floyd D. Akers of Washington, D. C., chairman of the committee, pointed out the need for a uniform program of hospitality and recreation in the area surrounding Washington as well as in the District.

Reports of activities were made by members of the committee including Mrs. W. M. Galvin, executive secretary, Washington, D. C.; Russell B. Ross, Laurel, Md., Prince Georges County; George N. Matthews, 217 Bradley Boulevard, Montgomery County; P. D. Brown, La Plata, Md., Charles County; Mrs. F. M. Dillard, Alexandria, City of Alexandria; W. Alvord Sherman, McLean, Va., Fairfax County; Basil M. DeLashmut, Court House, Arlington, Arlington County.

Pentagon Bank Head

H. Hiter Harris, president of the First and Merchants National Bank of Richmond, yesterday announced the appointment of W. Waring Jett as manager of the Pentagon office of that bank. At the same time he announced the appointment of Waring L. Christian as assistant manager of the same office, both appointments effective yesterday.

Mr. Jett is 39 years of age, and first became associated with the bank in 1924, and has had experience in the various departments of the main bank as well as in its branches and was transferred to the Pentagon office in November, 1942, becoming acting manager in April, 1943. Mr. Jett is a native of Reedsville, Va.; attended high school there and attended classes of the Richmond Chapter, American Institute of Banking.

Dean of College Admits Mistakes

Lexington, Ky., June 15 (AP).—Dr. Paul P. Boyd, dean of the college of arts and sciences at the University of Kentucky, admitted today he failed to answer correctly several questions contained in the recent educational survey and test conducted by the New York Times among students of 36 American colleges.

But Dr. Boyd, writing in the current issue of School and Society, published at Lancaster, Pa., said that "The Times test is amateurish and the conclusions are unsound."

The university dean said he "wrote down the 13 original States hurriedly as any freshman would do," and failed to list Pennsylvania among them. Named the wrong President during the Mexican War and gave incorrect answers to some of the other questions.

Mighty Blows Against Japs Near As Sub Activity Grows, Knox Hints

By John Hightower
Associated Press Staff Writer

Secretary of the Navy Knox reported "a steady growth of our submarine operations in the Pacific" yesterday, and by implication forecast major blows against Japan.

"I can't tell you, except that it takes an awfully long while to get ready for any sizeable movement," he answered a press conference question on why the current "lull" in Pacific operations had lasted so long.

The "lull' of several weeks has included the amphibious operation against Attu Island in the north, widespread aerial operations, and submarine patrols climaxed by yesterday's report of 12 Japanese ships sunk and five more damaged.

Eight U. S. Subs Lost

Knox disclosed that American submarine losses in the war have been replaced "many times over."

Eight United States undersea craft have been reported destroyed or missing and presumed lost in the patrol operations. The Secretary was asked whether new subs had been built to take their place and he told a press conference that "we have replaced our losses many times over."

His comment was considered especially significant in view of the Navy's announcement of Japanese ship losses Monday, which raised the total of successful attacks by submarines hammering at Japan's extended supply lines to 256 ships destroyed or damaged.

Gives No Specific Figures

Knox said that Monday's reports, the largest in terms of successful submarine action so far in the war, evidenced "a steady growth of our submarine operations in the Pacific." A small number of new submarines goes into action every month, he explained, and moreover the men who fight in them are learning with experience.

The Secretary gave no specific figures on submarine construction. The last figures reported by the Navy were those which came out immediately before American entrance into the war. The table then showed 111 submarines built and 73 building, a total of 184. Since that time, however, submarine construction has been speeded up and Congress has appropriated many millions for additional units.

The Navy's only combat report from the Pacific yesterday disclosed that on Sunday night Japanese planes dropped "a small number of bombs" over American-held Guadalcanal Island in the southeastern Solomons. The war bulletin stated that "no personnel or materiel casualties occurred." Guadalcanal had been raided last on the night of May 23.

Earlier Sunday, the communique said, Navy fighter planes damaged a Japanese reconnaissance bomber in the South Pacific, but the specific location of the action was not given.

In discussing submarine operations by the Axis in the Atlantic, Knox said that this phase of the war was still in a "low" of activity but "how long that will last nobody knows."

Optimistic on U-boat Drive

The battle to beat the U-boat menace is going along very satisfactorily at present, the Secretary added, both in the number of ships "not sunk" and in the excess of ship construction over losses. Moreover, the number of American combat vessels going into action against German subs is steadily increasing. Knox reported that 20 new destroyer escort ships would be ready for their shakedown cruises in this month alone.

At the same time, Knox cautioned that the campaign against enemy submarines in the Atlantic "won't be won until this war is over." He expressed the opinion that submarine sinkings would continue until the very last, "but we ought to and expect to reduce them to a point where losses will be negligible."

To Float 7th Sub

Portsmouth, N. H., June 15 (INS).—The Portsmouth Navy Yard will send its seventh submarine of 1943 into the water when the U. S. S. Burrfish is launched Friday. Miss Jane E. $25,000 Proposal To Aid City OCD Sent to Congress

A proposed amendment to the District Blackout Act which would authorize the District Commissioners to expend $25,000 annually to support the Civilian War Services program was sent to Congress yesterday by the Commissioners following approval of the Federal Budget Bureau. The money would come out of the blackout fund.

The Commissioners stated "among such nonprotective activities, to be operated by volunteer personnel under supervisory control of the Board of Commissioners, might be enumerated the war savings program, the salvage collection program, the victory garden program, the program of conservation of gasoline and rubber, together with other activities of the same general nature, all of which have been denominated civilian war services." Large numbers of volunteers can act more effectively when their activities are coordinated.

OPA Here Waits Clarification Of Rules on Diplomats' Driving

Not much thought has been given the cases of A-book diplomats found ignoring gasoline rationing regulations, Chief Attorney John L. Laskey of local OPA was reported to have said yesterday following publication in The Post of a statement made by a Federal OPA spokesman.

At the same time it was announced that 240 cars were tagged for pleasure riding violations here Monday—103 near the circus grounds. This makes a total of 1592 violations in the District as of June 15.

The Federal spokesman said a diplomat must observe the pleasure driving ban if he personally owns the automobile in question, but an embassy-owned car would not bear an "A" sticker and could go anywhere on official business.

Laskey said he could not accept any interpretation of Federal OPA unless it was sent directly to him for his consideration. No such communication had reached him late yesterday afternoon. Although he had made no final decision, he said that unless he was otherwise directed by the Federal office, he expected to clear cases of Federal A book holders with the State Department.

Such clearance, however, would be purely advisory, according to a State Department informant, who said the Division of Protocol acted in a consultative and advisory capacity only as regards OPA rulings. For example, the department, if asked, would tell OPA officials what reciprocity would indicate to be advisable and whether or not a person was in fact a diplomat.

According to the local office, Laskey would presumably make a definite decision after receiving such opinions from the State Department.

At present local diplomats come to the State Department to make applications for rations, but regular rationing authorities are detailed to the department to take care of these applications in the same manner as rationing is handled at local board offices.

Navy Deal With Standard Oil To Be Probed by House Group

By the Associated Press

Chairman Peterson (Democrat) of Florida, said yesterday the House Public Lands Committee would make a thorough investigation of the Navy's deal with the Standard Oil Co. of California which granted the company the right to drill in the Elk Hills naval oil reserve.

Peterson said he had summoned Norman M. Littell, Assistant Attorney General, as the first witness to testify Thursday.

Attorney General Biddle has announced that the Navy has withdrawn a request for funds to finance its contract, but Peterson said that "the contract still is in effect." A naval officials has called the deal a good one for the Government.

"I have asked the Justice Department, the Navy and the Interior Department," Peterson said, "to send me all documents concerning the deal, together with the names of personnel who know the complete details of the Navy-Standard Oil negotiations."

The committee has been considering a bill to extend a protective strip 1 mile wide around the reserve, and to provide for no renewal of drilling permits in the area after their expiration. It would prohibit granting of further drilling rights in the strip.

Ad Absurdum

In its desire to remove three individuals from the Federal payroll the House of Representatives is now denying funds for the payment of salaries to thousands of Government employes. The Kerr Committee amendment, aimed specifically at Messrs. Goodwin Watson, William Dodd, jr., and Robert Morss Lovett, was attached to a vitally important deficiency appropriation bill. This newspaper assailed the amendment as patently unconstitutional at the time of its passage in the House. The Senate evidently agreed, for it rejected the amendment unanimously. Now House and Senate conferees are in deadlock over this particular issue, blocking the entire deficiency appropriation.

As a result, a number of departments and war agencies of the Government are left without any money. Some of them, in order to meet their current payrolls, have been forced to borrow from the President's emergency funds. But these are not limitless. Beginning July 1, moreover, the President's use of them will be narrowly circumscribed by recently enacted legislation. If the intransigeance of the House conferees continues, we may see essential wheels of the war effort slow down or come to a standstill.

The dignity of Congress is unlikely to be enhanced by this absurd performance. What we are now witnessing is a strike against the Government by a willful band of Administration-haters—men so determined to impose their will upon the executive branch that they have become careless as to means and indifferent as to consequences. This is petty obstructionism of a dangerous order.

Religious Freedom

The Supreme Court has now accomplished a complete about-face on the series of cases arising out of the activities and convictions of the religious sect known as Jehovah's Witnesses. A month ago the Court turned most of the way in forbidding municipal license taxes on the sale of religious literature. On Monday, in an opinion by Justice Jackson distinguished for its eloquence as well as for its legal logic, the Court reversed its decision of three years ago in the Gobitis case, and held that public school children may not be compelled to salute the flag in defiance of their conscientious scruples. A majority of the justices decided, in effect, that the constitutional guarantee of religious freedom is unqualified.

No small share of credit for this judicial change of mind belongs to Chief Justice Stone. His dissenting voice was alone in protest against the Gobitis decision of 1940. Three of his associates, Justices Black, Douglas and Murphy, who at that time had differed from him have now come to accept his view. This emergence of a dissenting opinion to majority acceptance is one of the real tests of judicial stature.

On Monday, Justice Frankfurter, who had written the majority opinion in the Gobitis case, became spokesman for the minority. The diligence and sincerity with which he searched his mind and conscience on this issue is apparent in the reasoning he advanced. Yet one sentence of his carefully worded opinion cannot fail to evoke curiosity. "It is self-delusive," he declared, "to believe that the liberal spirit can be enforced by judicial invalidation of illiberal legislation." Is it not, in fact, precisely the function of the Court on which Justice Frankfurter sits to guarantee protection to the liberal spirit, as it is defined in the Constitution, against legislative acts which would undermine or corrupt it?

Laws are man-made. And in the Supreme Court's reversal of judgment we have just had fresh attestation of the fallibility of all men, even when they enjoy the Olympian detachment of the judiciary. It is as a safeguard against that fallibility that we preserve in the Constitution a set of basic principles which we permit neither men nor laws to violate. And for this reason we recognize that the apparent triviality of any violation cannot condone it or mitigate its ultimate threat to the liberal spirit.

The Jehovah's Witnesses cases, to be sure, possessed all the superficial attributes of triviality. The refusal of members of the sect to permit their children to salute the flag of the United States is fatuously perverse. No less nonsensical is the regulation of the West Virginia Board of Education requiring their participation in this ceremony. As Justice Jackson observed, "To believe that patriotism will not flourish if patriotic ceremonies are voluntary and spontaneous instead of a compulsory routine is to make an unflattering estimate of the appeal of our institutions to free minds." Certainly the majesty of the United States is unlikely to be subverted by the refusal of a few children to pay obeisance to it.

In its conscientious and careful deliberations on these cases, the Supreme Court has probed to the bedrock of our freedom. If it erred in its earlier decision, we can congratulate ourselves on the judicial processes and the qualities of mind which have made a reevaluation possible. The Court has brought itself back into consistency with the great tradition that the sanctity of the individual conscience is superior to the power of the state.

Air Weapon

The rapid stepup in the aerial might which this country has consigned to Britain was demonstrated by the raids on Germany last weekend. On Friday more than 200 Flying Fortresses bombed Wilhelmshaven and Cuxhaven. Probably even more than 200 participated in the Sunday daylight raids on the U-boat bases of Bremen and Kiel. This is a hint of the sky fleet which this country already has assembled and is assembling on British soil. The number of bombers used even in last Friday's raid was greater than the number of all the bombers we had in Britain two months ago. It is evident that the air war on Germany has entered upon a new phase—the hammer blows of the R. A. F. by night are now to be joined to hammer blows of our Army Air Corps by day in a crescendo of all-round-the-clock destructiveness.

Already the night raids undertaken by the R. A. F. have laid whole tracts of industrial Germany in ruins. According to Lord Selborne, British Minister of Economic Warfare, the pounding of the Ruhr has reduced its production by 35 per cent. To be sure, the dispersion of German war industries has lowered the importance of the Ruhr in Germany's war economy. Formerly the munitions factories of Germany lay like jewels on a tray in the Ruhr. The scattering of war plants not only over old Germany but also into Czech country and Austria is responsible for the estimate that German production is only 12 or 20 per cent below the total of last year. But the next few months seem likely to witness a rise in that percentage. For the progressive mobilization of American bombers on British soil will allow the war on the air front to be extensive as well as intensive. Moreover, the daylight bombing in which the Americans specialize and which is now facilitated by clearer summer weather is, in the nature of things, more precise.

This advantage of precision which characterizes the American method has always been acknowledged by the critics of daylight bombing. What they object to is its high cost. And last Sunday's raid, it must be confessed, gave them a handle, for out of an unspecified fleet we lost no fewer than 26 bombers. It is said that this was the biggest raid so far. Assuming, therefore, that 260 bombers participated in the raid, our losses amounted to 10 per cent, as compared with the average 4 per cent of loss in the R. A. F.'s night raids. This is a sobering factor. Kiel is heavily defended, but the defenses are probably not as formidable as those which protect Essen and Hamburg. However, judging from the momentum of our deliveries, our authorities have reckoned upon this higher rate of loss, and feel that the Germans will give way before we give out. At any rate the head of the Sunday armada said that the results were "worth the price." Since we know that Kiel is second only to Hamburg as a U-boat base of construction, he can have meant only that our bombers scored real damage on Germany's Achilles Heel.

The success of Anglo-American bombing of Germany thus warrants optimism. But it would be folly to indulge in the wishful thinking which has accompanied some recent statements on the air warfare. For instance, Air Vice Marshal Jones, chief of the British air staff in Australia, is reported to have said in London on Monday, "If the R. A. F. and the United States Air Force can increase, or even sustain, their present heavy attacks on Germany and Italy, the enemy's air power may collapse and land operations, except for the purpose of occupation, may not be necessary." Here we have another example of the excessive zeal of specialists. The fact is that nothing in this war has been accomplished by air power alone. Even the dazzling demonstration of airpower at Pantelleria was made possible by seapower employed not only in the blockade but also in actual shelling. If that was true of this small Mediterranean isle, it is difficult to understand those who would leave the conquest of Germany to the air weapon. The only safe assumption is still the one stated by Dwight Morrow years ago: "The next war will begin in the air, but it will end in the mud."

The trouble with statements like those of the British air marshal is that they will make the people of the United Nations wonder whether the strategy for the conquest of Germany has gone beyond the tentative stage. They betray an uncertainty of plan. We refuse to believe that any such uncertainty marked the Churchill-Roosevelt conversations. This year must witness the establishment of a second front simultaneously with the renewal of large-scale activity in eastern Europe. What the air front over Germany does is increasingly to make that second front the way to speedy victory.

District Delegate

One point should be made clear, we think, at the hearing on the Walter bill which opens before Representative Celler's Subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee today (Wednesday). Never before has the relationship which this bill proposes been in effect in the District. It is true that the District had a delegate for a few years beginning in 1871. But the responsibilities of that official were quite different from those of the delegate proposed in the Walter bill.

Congress became so ashamed of Washington in the post-Civil-War days that it decided to create an entirely new governmental system here. Prior to that time there had been no District government but only municipal governments in Georgetown, Alexandria (before it was receded to Virginia) and Washington. The local governments were abolished in 1871 and a so-called territorial government created. A delegate to Congress was part of this system. But the real power over the District was placed in the hands of the Governor, who was appointed by the President, and the Board of Public Works, dominated by the Governor.

So long as this government lasted, moreover, nearly all District legislation was passed by a council appointed by the President and an elected House of Delegates. Congress was thus relieved of much of its burden of legislating for the Capital City. For example, the Legislative Assembly and Governor had complete control over local expenditures. So there was far less reason at that time for the District to have a delegate in Congress than there is today when the Senate and House plodded through the tedious process of enacting local appropriations bills and many local ordinances.

At present there is no move to set up a successor to Gov. Alexander R. Shepherd's regime. The Walter bill calls only for a delegate to assist the District Committee and the House in shaping legislation for the Capital and to convey to Congress the wishes and requirements of this rapidly growing metropolis. Delegates from Hawaii and Alaska have been found to be very useful to Congress in performing a similar role for their territories even though local governments in those territories take care of local problems. Since Congress continues to sit as a city council for Washington, some means of conveying the people's viewpoint into the halls of the Capitol seems to be imperative. In short, Congress will profit as much or more from the common-sense measure than will the District. We hope that it will be promptly enacted to bridge the gap that has existed between the District and its city council for 69 years.

More Wool, Less Cotton

Heavy imports of wool from Australia have greatly improved the clothing outlook, but we should not hastily jump to the conclusion that the threat of clothing rationing has been exorcised. In the first place an abundance of wool does not necessarily signify ample supplies of woolen cloth. For, as the WLB notes, manpower and machine shortages have to be taken into account. Moreover, even if all essential civilian needs for woolen garments should be satisfied, there will remain an active demand for other lighter weight textiles for clothing and household use.

The cotton textile industry is already under severe pressure owing to tremendous military demands. Current orders for cotton cloth for a great variety of purposes are far in excess of the current rate of production, while mill output has actually slowed down in recent months. The reduction in output is attributable in part to a movement of workers into better paying industries. Resultant labor shortages have forced mills to abandon third shifts in many cases, and some mills are finding it difficult to maintain even two shifts. Deterioration of equipment is likewise responsible for reduced output, and is bound to grow steadily worse.

With the armed forces now absorbing 70 per cent of the output of the cotton textile industry, the remaining 30 per cent must take care of civilian demands for dresses, shirts, sheets, pillowcases, etc. With output declining, civilians obviously will have to get along with a very inadequate supply of cotton cloth for essential purposes, regardless of whether clothing made from cotton cloth is rationed or not.

LINES TO A CAMOUFLAGED SHIP

You rode from here to London Town;
Your billowing skirts spread white and wide;
You straddled the saddle of the moon,
Flinging her shimmering reins aside.

Now swathed in black at night you skulk
Through all the fog lanes warily.
Your plume of flag hangs limply down;
Your winch-arms spear out eerily.

One bullet blade may darkly shred
Your windy honor from your brow,
The thudding trapdoor sway and give
Beneath your blindly hooded prow.

But reach the dark harbor of renown;
Plough through the litter of your dead—
Pirate ship, though your flag go down,
Deliver your contraband of bread.

Director Byrnes

By Mark Sullivan

New Taxation

AFTER two weeks of existence, the question still asked about the new over-all agency, Office of War Mobilization—and asked without prejudice—is, will it succeed? The common judgment and hope is, yes.

Much of this favorable expectation rests on two assumptions. One is that the Director, Mr. James F. Byrnes, really has overall authority—and this seems to have been assured by the circumstances of Mr. Byrnes' appointment. The other is that Mr. Byrnes and his agency will have the confidence of the country. For receiving this, Mr. Byrnes is much helped by his procuring Mr. Bernard M. Baruch as his adviser. Mr. Baruch's standing with the public, and his intrinsic value, lies in his experience as head of the supreme civilian agency during the Great War, in his wisdom and ability, and in his utter freedom from any political or other motive, except to preserve his country and its institutions. Most certainly the country, if for no other reason than the self-interest of each and every individual, ought to give the new agency the confidence and cooperation it needs for success. The danger is great, the hour late.

TRUE, ASKING whether and how Mr. Byrnes and OWM can succeed, is like asking a new pitcher to win a baseball game after the fourth inning, and after the visiting team has scored several runs, chiefly through errors by the home team. But this has been done in baseball—and there are men of careful judgment who think it can be done in the present case. In every case where success is won in spite of unfavorable conditions, a helpful factor is support by the crowd in the bleachers—in this case the public.

The score, the index of results, is in this case inflation—restraining inflation will be the measure of the sum of the many activities Mr. Byrnes is to control. The factors entering into it include wages and prices of goods, especially food. They include also a factor just now to the front, taxation.

If inflation is to be kept down, the Government must collect more taxes. As to this, all the commotion of the past three months has been, not about quantity of taxes, but only about the method of paying and collecting them, about "pay-as-you-earn." The rates of taxation remain what they were. With the controversy about method of payment now out of the way, President Roosevelt announces, and everybody assents, that steps must be taken to increase the amount of taxes collected. The increase must be brought about in two ways, increase of existing rates, and new forms of taxation.

HERE IS where Mr. Byrnes can be of help. While Congress knows that there must be heavier taxation, and the Administration knows, both are reluctant to take the initiative. It is not so much a case of passing the buck as of each waiting for the other to pick up the buck and toss it. Both are reluctant not only to take the initiative in raising rates, but to be the first to propose new forms of taxation. There is widespread (though not universal) belief that either or both of two new forms are desirable, forced saving and a sales tax.

As to forced saving, Mr. Roosevelt some days ago made a remark at a press conference which suggested that he favored it. At a subsequent press conference he modified this impression. The incident is typical, not only of persons within the Administration but of leaders in Congress—a reluctance to take the initiative. As to a sales tax, it is the same, a balancing of intrinsic desirability against political unpopularity.

In the broadest sense, lack of cooperation characterizes the whole of the relations between the President and Congress. If any one person can bring cooperation between the two, Mr. Byrnes should be the man. From some quarter-century service in the two branches of Congress, he understands that body, is on a sympathetic basis with its members and especially with party leaders. This will help greatly. But neither this nor anything else will enable Mr. Byrnes to succeed unless he has the resolution to stand up against group pressures outside Congress—labor, farmers, and others of whom the public does not hear so much. Resistance to group pressure is a thing in which the President has not been strong, on account of both his temperament and the politics involved.

Inflation

I have been particularly interested recently in your editorials on inflation and the need for more effective financial controls. These subjects were too frequently glossed over in the past, and your forthright comments on the situation, on the inadequacies of the measures adopted to date, should help the public to appraise this dangerous situation.

Strategy Of Greed

By Paul Schubert

The Enemy's Weakness

TWO YEARS AGO, in the month of June, the fateful order was given. German armies struck to the east, against Russia.

Today, as we look back at Hitler's decision to attack the Soviet Union, we see in it the fatal weakness of the German strategy, which is a strategy of greed.

But there seemed nothing weak about Germany, nor about German strategy, two years ago.

The German military machine was at the peak of its power, back in 1941. In a year and a half of active warfare it had had unexampled opportunity for training in modern combat, paying the price of insignificant loss, very small casualties. In manpower, in air power, in the power of modern war machines, it was not only strong, but it had learned to coordinate its various arms in a way that was astonishing to less skilled opponents. In mobility it was using all the resources of the day—motor transport, air transport, and for "vertical envelopments" the parachute and glider-borne force.

BACK in 1941 the German army had become the terror of Europe, and its awful prowess had spread overseas to influence the actions and disturb the thoughts of all the rest of the world.

As for German strategy, the phrases "Divide and Conquer" and "Strike at Weakness" were obviously keys to the war to win wars, and the German "pincer movements" and "breakthroughs" made victory seem easy and sure—if only you had the intuition of a Fuehrer working for you, to lend a supersense of timing to your operations . . .

Today we can see that what looked so strong was merely the facade for the great and basic German weakness—greed.

And of all Germans, Hitler is the greediest.

From the beginning German strategy was robber strategy. Thinking of themselves, not in terms of their strength, but in terms of Germany as a "have not" nation, the Germans cast about for the combination of rich plunder and weak defense, and then reached out in a cold-blooded and brutal grab. It seemed so obvious a way to establish Germany as a great and wealthy power that it filled the German command with an awful Teutonic good humor—it was a joke on all the rest of the world . . . The same joke that the robber-barons have always played. The bully's joke.

Denmark for dairy products. Norway for a strangle-hold on Sweden's ore. Czecho-Slovakia for factories, lumber and crops. Belgium for mines and industry. France for wealth and agriculture.

Plunder the world and roar with laughter at the ineffectuality of the rich, effete democracies, unable to hold what they had accumulated.

INTENT ON plunder, the Germans forgot the art of war—forgot that there are such things as fundamental principles of strategy. Forgot that the pressure of arms is based not only upon armies, but upon the control of strong points, which in turn are older than war, since they rest upon geography.

Hitler, busy striking at weakness, had no time to consolidate strength.

Of all the things Hitler and his coconspirators coveted, the Ukraine had long had number-one spot. Backed by pseudo-scientific arguments, the Germans had convinced themselves that mastery of the Ukraine would mean German domination of the world. It is the same argument that leads many a young German to apprentice himself as a baker, because "a baker never goes hungry." It is the argument of people who fear hunger, and to whom the sight of miles of unbroken, waving grain is a fascinating attraction.

In 1941, Hitler felt so strong, so unbeatable, that he neglected the prosaic task of putting his strategic stronghold in order—making sure of the Mediterranean, making sure of the British Isles, making sure of the Middle East . . .

Britain was done, anyway. As for the Mediterranean, let jackal Italy take care of that. Italy, a year earlier, had likewise made the greedy plunge into the war, expecting much for little—let Italy scavenge the Mediterranean.

Germany struck eastward, to grab the Ukraine.

The misery thus inflicted upon Russia, forced to fight for life, is not the least of the many crimes chargeable to German greed—the death, the pain, the devastation. For Russia refused to "see the light," refused to crumple up in the swift surrender that Germany and the world expected. Russia fought back . . .

Greedy Hitler, seeking for weakness, has made the mistake of striking at strength. He had made the same mistake in striking at Britain . . . and he and his allies were to repeat it in striking at the United States.

Greed blinds the greedy, in war as in peace.

Book Drive

I have read, with distress, the failure, in a really vital sense, of the book drives for our armed forces.

We had "drives" in World War I. The Congressional Library was a leader. Books were received with such welcome that persons telephoned their appreciation and gratification.

At that time there appeared many appeals in the papers and one of them inspired me to send, not cast-off books and magazines, but my choicest treasures. I framed the tiny clipping and set it up in my empty shelves in the bookcase, and I was very happy.

I thought you would be interested. I read, with deep interest, your editorial of regret, and thought maybe this poem would touch the hearts of those who have books our precious lads would enjoy.

The following verses are part of a poem called "For the Soldiers," originally appearing in the New York Tribune (World War I) and having for its motto the saying of King David when he refused to accept Araunah's threshing floor and oxen for the sacrifice of intercession he was about to make, but bought them instead, yes, for 50 shekels of silver:

"Neither will I offer . . ."
David said, "that which doth cost me nothing."

I send my books to you, O brave men bearing
The world's greatest burdens with undaunted eyes,
For in some little way I would be sharing
Your spirit of unquestioning sacrifice.

And these books were my loves; I held each dearly,
Even as another holds his wife and child;
Or as a friend whose wisdom counsels clearly;
Or as some kindly wizard who beguiled . . .

So take my books, with all their varied graces—
The prophet's sight, the poet's ecstasy,
I shall not grieve to see their empty places
If they are half to you what they were to me.

WAACS

Criticism of the WAACS, WAVES and other women in service, which has been ably responded to by several persons, may be Nazi inspired or the result of jealousy. Inasmuch as the services are not apt to defend themselves through the press, their friends must, as a matter of justice. These women are accepted as good citizens, are given some training at the Government expense, paid well and in general make a pleasing appearance in public, in considerable contrast to the many sloppily dressed civilians, whose desire for "style" leads them to peculiar dressing, and whose manners frequently match their garments.

There is one thing, however, for which the men and women in the services may be criticized, for while they are as human as the rest of us, the public is not yet used to seeing opposite sexes in uniform parading the streets with their arms around each other or holding hands. They may or may not be sweethearts but I would suggest that they would attract less notice and criticism, especially along the line already made, if they confined their lovemaking to less public places than the streets. People remark about anyone who makes love in public, whether soldier or civilian. Somehow, except in comic opera, military uniforms suggest a rectitude and respect, which the bulk of their wearers endeavor to live up to, whether on or off duty.

Grade Labeling

Noticed the article in this morning's Post entitled "Canners Condemn OPA, Say Grade Labeling Radical." Evidently organized business isn't particular about what it calls 'radical.'

Since when is it radical to indicate quality on a can of beans? Fine thing! Seems to me the canners should be honest about the whole thing, and admit that they are really against strict rationing and price control. After all, quality control is an integral part of price control: how can OPA, with integrity, control prices if there is no control over grade? The consumer is requested to aid in the enforcement of price ceilings; the canners would deny the housewife her most important weapon: the grade on the label.

As a matter of fact, this "grave measure" should not be merely a wartime expediency. Is there any reason why the can of beans can't have an honest label in peace as well as war?

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

War Experts, Then And Now

Once from Richard Harding Davis
We obtained the battle news,
And the Palmers and the Creelmans
Told where triumphs were, and whose;
Now we get it with a biscuit,
A cathartic or a rum,
And the battle tides are linked up
With a jingle boosting gum!

II.

Once we watched the daily papers
For what Irv Cobb had to say;
Philip Gibbs was on our must list
If we'd know the battle's sway;
Now we say "How goes the fighting?
Isn't this about the time
For that soap or corn salve fellow
And that lager beer rime?"

III.

I remember when Floyd Gibbons
Was a war scribe more than fair,
And his name was quite sufficient;
What he ATE I didn't care;
Now when I would get the war news
With the very latest dope
I just tune in on a program
Boosting some one's shaving soap.

IV.

Once the Remingtons were foremost
When I thought of battlefronts;
If I wanted stuff from experts
I could think of one at once;
Now I say, with big fights raging,
"Get that anti-acid guy!
In between the long commercial;
He'll tell who's ahead and why."

V.

Once I cared not what an expert
Smoked or drank or chewed or ate
For his stomach or intestines;
I just knew his stuff was great;
Now when I want front-line tidings
Some big soup firm I recall,
For I know it has a fellow
Who will analyze it all.

VI.

Once an expert was an expert
And you never thought of him
As a symbol for a house paint
Razor blade or pill for vim;
Now he's sponsored by a catsup,
Candy bar or breakfast food;
Would I make big money that way?
YOU CAN BETCHA LIFE I WOULD!

We met a pathetic victim of an air-raid test in New York. He was caught in a picture house and had to stay and see the second picture.

"Subway Service to Be Cut."—Headline. The mayor is certainly putting New York back on its feet.

There is a rumor we are going to recall our Ambassador to Moscow and appoint the Warner Brothers.

OPA officials are using Radar to detect the approach of scalping parties in time to put up a defense.

More than two and a half million dollars was bet in three hours at Belmont the other day. Clearly a lot of people are investing in horse tips as a hedge against inflation.

Compulsory Bonds

Public opinion has made payroll deductions for war bond purchases semicompulsory, but there exists no compulsory influence whatever toward such subscriptions from other sources of income. It seems just and proper, therefore, that a standard degree of compulsion should be applied to income from whatever source acquired, and the logical sequence is to make all income subject by law to War Bond purchases, in much the same manner as income is now subject to income tax payments. The percentage to be devoted to War Bond purchases should be scaled in accordance with ability to buy, exactly as income tax levies are scaled in accordance with ability to pay.

A way to effect compulsory purchase of War Bonds in association with income tax assessments was discussed briefly in a Post column recently. This plan provides for the purchase and retention of war bonds by all taxpayers, on much the same basis as income tax itself is assessed. Adoption of this suggestion will ensure an equitable participation in war bond purchases by everyone who is subject to the income tax.

The desirability of such a comprehensive distribution and retention of war bonds will be questioned by no one, but there are many who will shy away from the necessity of compulsion to effect this result. We accept taxation with complacency because the practice of taxation has been handed down to us from generations lost in the haze of antiquity. Compulsory saving is new to us, and we show evidence of being very reluctant to embrace it.

There is nothing ominous or undemocratic about compulsory saving, assuming that it is equitably distributed. Indeed, it is the most practical way to procure money to pay for our current war expenditures and at the same time safeguard our economic future. Certainly these objectives are both essential and worthy.

Inside Yugoslavia

By Ernest K. Lindley

Breach Between Guerillas Closing

LINDLEY

PROJECT THE airline from Tunisia to Sicily and the foot of Italy, and you arrive at the Adriatic coast of Yugoslavia. This is the back door to the Italian peninsula, which in turn leads into Fortress Europe. It is also the only area outside Russia in which armed guerillas are harassing the Axis on an important scale and which may therefore be considered a United Nations beachhead of sorts in Axis territory.

Information recently accumulated and given weight by informed officials reveals two interesting and important trends within Yugoslavia:

1. The Germans gradually have been taking over the defense areas they had entrusted to the Italians.

2. General Mikhailovitch appears to be making progress in healing the breach between his Yugoslav Patriots and the separate guerilla forces of the Yugoslav Partisans.

Col.-Gen. Frederick List, German panzer expert, who conducted the Sedan break-through and led a panzer corps in the invasion of Yugoslavia, made an inspection tour of the Axis defenses in Yugoslavia two months ago. Marshal Rommel also is reported to have toured Yugoslavia within the last eight weeks—although this has not been verified.

Since List's visit, the Germans have taken over some Croatian areas previously policed by the Italians. The Italian puppet in Choatia, Anton Pavelitch, had failed to maintain order and prevent serious defections to the partisan movement which, in numbers of active guerillas, outnumbers Mikhailovitch's forces. There is evidence that, regardless of Italian sentiments, the Germans would like to toss out Pavelitch and install Matchek, the Croatian peasant leader. However, Matchek rejected German overtures and recently has been sent to a German concentration camp.

THE ITALIANS still hold the Adriatic coast of Yugoslavia, as well as Albania. Whether the withdrawal of Italian troops is continuing is not definitely known. But it is significant that the withdrawal began before the fall of Tunisia and apparently was prompted, if not forced, by German lack of confidence. In view of the heavy demands for their manpower elsewhere, the Germans hardly would have insisted upon this shift unless they had been deeply worried about the security of this sector of fortress Europe.

Now that Italy itself stands in the direct line of Allied assault, it would not be surprising if both the Italians and the Germans would like to reduce the Italian occupying forces in the Balkan peninsula: the Italians to strengthen their home defenses, the Germans from fear that the collapse of Italy would lead to the capitulation of the Italian troops in the Balkans, suddenly opening serious gaps in the German lines of defense. With the forces that they might use to little avail in delaying Italy's fall, the Germans might materially bolster their Balkan defenses.

The Italians have had trouble also in Albania, over which they exercised considerable indirect control before wresting it away from King Zog in 1939. From venal Italian officers or from the wreckage of sabotaged supply trains, Albanian tribesmen have been getting small arms and ammunition for feuding against each other, making war on the Greeks, and occasionally on the Italians themselves. How much anti-Italian and how much feuding and banditry is difficult to say.

Neither the Germans nor the Italians have been able to suppress the Yugoslav guerillas. Both Mikhailovitch, with the backing of the British and the Yugoslav government in exile, and the Partisans, who look to Moscow, have remained active in the field. For some months, until recently, these two guerilla movements were, however, at odds with each other. On occasion they actually fought each other—a custom which was encouraged by the Italians and Germans, sometimes, in the Italian case, with gifts of small driblets of arms.

THE PARTISANS complained that Mikhailovitch was loafing on the job. Their aim was to stir up the maximum of trouble at once in order to divert Axis strength from the Russian front. Mikhailovitch admittedly was husbanding his resources and keeping many of his supporters under cover until more arms could be put in his hands and the time arrived for successful operations on a larger scale. However, he undertook successfully various specific tasks of distinct value, especially in the wrecking of trains carrying supplies for Rommel in North Africa.

About the time of General List's visit, the British are understood to have made a determined effort to close the breach between Mikhailovitch and the Partisans. This was on their own initiative, without prompting from Moscow. This move is reported to have taken the form of an inquiry transmitted to Mikhailovitch through the Yugoslav government in exile, proposing (1) that he cease trafficking, if he was indulging in any, with the Italians, (2) that he sever the contacts, if any, with Neditch, the German puppet in Belgrade, and (3) that he reach an understanding, if not an actual union, with the Partisans.

The British felt able to take a stronger directing hand because the prospects of getting Allied aid into Mikhailovitch's hands had improved with British control of Libya and Tripolitania.

In furthering London's No. 3 purpose, the Germans unwittingly assisted. The reinforcements recommended by List took the offensive against the Partisans, driving many of them into Mikhailovitch's territory. As a result, some sort of limited political agreement, although not a binding military compact, apparently was reached.

A few days ago Mikhailovitch proclaimed that he was on the offensive, citing the capture of various stretches of railway lines and of some munitions, as well as the repulse of some German punitive forces.

The British and ourselves are now near enough to Mikhailovitch to increase the delivery of arms and other munitions of war by air and, perhaps also, by small vessels running into obscure beaches along the Dalmatian coast. Before the end of the summer aid on a still larger scale may become feasible. The back door to the Balkan Peninsula will bear watching.

Walter Lippmann is away on vacation. His next column will appear on June 22.

Elmer Davis Assailed

A Senator and a Representative yesterday accused Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information of efforts to conceal "maladministration on the part of the New Deal" and of setting himself up as "American propaganda minister."

Replying to Representative Short (Republican) of Missouri who made the "propaganda minister" comment in a speech on the House floor, Majority Leader McCormack (Democrat) of Massachusetts said propaganda had become a necessary part of war.

Senator Bridges (Republican) of New Hampshire replying to Davis' assertion Monday that Washington news coverage is inadequate, told the Senate that Davis is trying "to silence the Nation's press to cover sins of maladministration on the part of the New Deal in the war effort."

Attack by Rep. Short

Representative Short told the House that "it has become increasingly evident" that Davis "now conceives his real title to be that of American propaganda minister."

"There is no room for such a minister in this country," said Short in a prepared speech, "and it is time for Mr. Davis to return to the left wing political activities from which President Roosevelt brought him into the Government."

With the appropriation for OWI due to reach the House floor within a few days, Short called for a "full and complete investigation" on what OWI is doing to "intimidate" the press, radio and movies.

He said that before Congress voted funds, it should ascertain also the "extent to which Mr. Davis is attempting ot control dissemination of news.

Davis, addressing a convention of the American Newspaper Guild in Boston, contended that Washington newsmen were missing the biggest story of the war—America's production record—and were playing up the bickering among Government agencies.

"The men and women who report the activities of Congress, who write the news of our Nation, of wartime Washington, of the war in general, are to be commended, not criticized, for their outstanding effort, their masterful accomplishment of a difficult task," said Bridges.

Davis' "Real Objection"

"Perhaps," he added, "Davis' real objection is that they have uncovered some news about Washington which does not look too well outside of Washington.

"Elmer Davis as director of the Office of War Information now seeks to silence the Nation's press to cover sins of maladministration on the part of the New Deal in the war effort. . . .

"By his unwarranted attack upon the press, by his attack upon these newspaper men and women, Davis has incapacitated himself to further hold the office to which he was appointed by President Roosevelt.

"Repeated Bungling"

"Now, after repeated bungling, after being compelled to admit certain material issued by his office has been improper politically, Mr. Davis finds recourse in seeking to smear Washington correspondents and the press in general. He seeks to make this country believe the unbiased news reports from Washington of faulty administration on the home front, of OPA, of foodstuffs, of rationing are so much bunk.

"Well, I know it isn't bunk, so do you. We all know it is the truth, the truth reported by these talented and able men and women.

"Mr. Davis finds his own answer in the repeated juggling and shifting of bureaucrats from one alphabetical hodge-podge to another each time public opinion catches up with the failure of the previous agency.

"For the good of the country I believe the OWI, is policies and its personnel should be thoroughly investigated.

"This will give Mr. Davis an opportunity to explain in detail wherein the news services are inadequate or have fallen down."

Gen. Stilwell, Back in China, Renews Pledge to Crush Japs

By the Associated Press

Chungking, June 15.—Lieut. Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, commander of United States forces in China, India and Burma, returned from the Washington strategy conferences today with a declaration that the United Nations are determined to crush Japan as soon as possible.

He said he felt that "we will have a hell of a hard job" in defeating the Japanese, but he told newsmen that information about the common task was being exchanged constantly between Allied leaders in China and those in the southwest Pacific.

"We have a savage enemy and there's plenty of him," Stilwell declared.

China Well Considered

He said that during the Roosevelt-Churchill conferences in Washington, which he attended with other Allied military leaders, "China was thoroughly considered and her needs gone into at length."

When asked if more supplies were coming to the Orient, Stilwell said that the "clearing of the Mediterranean will ease up the shipping situation considerably."

Speaking of the Chinese forces and their recent successes on the Yangtze front, Stilwell said the support they have been getting from the Fourteenth United States Air Force must have meant "a big lot" to them.

Almost as he spoke, the Chinese high command announced new gains in their widespread counter-attacks, which have pushed the Japanese back along the upper Yangtze.

A communique disclosed the capture of a town southwest of the river port of Shasi, 60 miles below the important Japanese base of Ichang, and said more than half of the enemy garrison was wiped out.

Sinyang Base Attacked

The Chinese, driving in from both the north and south on the enemy's central China salient, also attacked the Japanese base at Sinyang in southern Honan Province, a little more than 100 miles north of Hankow.

The communique said fighting for this point on the Peiping-Hankow Railway still was raging.

Stilwell arrived here by plane after stopovers in London and Cairo. He was met at the airport by Brig. Gen. Thomas Hearn; his son, Col. Joseph W. Stilwell, jr., and other members of his staff.

Following his arrival it was disclosed that Maj. Gen. Claire L. Chennault, commander of the Fourteenth United States Air Force, who went to Washington with Stilwell, returned to China June 4.

Stilwell said he was impressed with the victorious North African campaign.

United States troops in North Africa looked "grand," he said. "The Americans did a good job. I'd say those outfits are good for anything."

Director American Institute of Public Opinion

Antistrike Bill

Princeton, N. J., June 15.—The Connally-Smith antistrike bill incorporates many provisions for curbing labor unions which the American public has long felt necessary. At the same time the measure, in the form approved by the two houses of Congress, omits certain things which the majority of American voters want.

In public opinion studies brought up to date this week by the Institute, the country's attitude toward labor legislation stands today as follows:

1. Banning of Strikes

By an overwhelming majority —81 per cent in a survey just completed—the voters favor banning strikes in all war industries, not merely in those industries taken over by the Government. Sentiment for legislation to outlaw strikes was overwhelming as long ago as 1940, when 72 per cent voted in a survey to curtail labor's right to strike in wartime.

2. Inciting Strikes

The Connally-Smith bill provision for stiff penalties against anyone inciting a strike in a Government-held plant has the support of more than three-fourths of the voting population. The latest survey showed 78 per cent in favor of making it a crime for anyone to urge workers to strike in such plants.

3. Campaign Contributions

The public has felt for some time that unions should be prohibitetd from making contributions to political campaign funds, just as corporations are forbidden. Even before the 1940 presidential campaign, a survey found the country 2 to 1 in favor of laws to curb union financial support of any political party. That is now one of the provisions in the bill in Congress.

4. Closed Shop

Under the present bill in Congress the War Labor Board is forbidden to authorize a closed shop or maintenance of union membership contracts.

The principle of the closed shop has never been accepted by the majority of American voters.

5. Cooling Off Period

The Connally-Smith bill provision for a 30-day cooling off period before any strike can be called in a non-Government plant carries out a public desire which existed as far back as the spring of 1941, when proposals for a cooling off period met with the approval of nearly 9 out of every 10 voters interviewed in a survey.

One item removed from the Connally-Smith bill in the joint conference would have required unions to register with the Federal Government and file regular financial reports with accurate information concerning initiation fees, dues, special assessments and the like.

If public opinion had its way, that provision would be restored to the bill.

Helicopter Air Bus Service Planned by Greyhound Lines

By the Associated Press

Chicago, June 15.—A plan to adapt present bus terminals and bus garages for use as landing ports and hangars in a Nation-wide helicopter air bus service was advanced today when an application for this type of airline was filed with the Civil Aeronautics Board by the Greyhound Corporation, operators of highway buses.

The application said Greyhound Lines proposed to operate helicopters or similar aircraft to provide passenger, mail and express service over their present bus routes.

"Our studies have shown a definite need on the part of the Nation for the type of air transportation we propose to operate," C. E. Wickman, company president, said today. "If our application is approved, we plan to make air travel available to the millions who live scores or hundreds of miles from the large airports that present airliners must use."

He said the company operates about 4000 buses over 63,000 miles of highway. The buses travel in excess of 830,000 miles a day.

Although lack of equipment at present probably will make the air bus service a postwar project, Wickman said several helicopters may be made available for experimental use "in the near future."

The air bus service, Wickman added, would not compete substantially with existing airlines. Instead, he said, the air buses would supplement transcontinental and global airliners by providing quick and convenient means of reaching major airports in cities.

Capitol Pages To Be Graduated

Eleven boys will be graduated from Capitol Page School at exercises tonight in the Ways and Means Committee room, New House Office Building.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt will present the diplomas, and Senator Burton will make an address. Charles S. Russell will be the valedictorian, and the invocation and benediction will be pronounced by Dr. James Shera Montgomery, Chaplain of the House.

The U. S. Army Engineers are building springboards to Victory 'round the world

When the Continental Congress on June 16, 1775, placed a surveyor, General George Washington, in command of our Continental Army, it also established the Corps of Engineers. From that day to this, Army Engineers have blazed the way to victories in seven wars and have battled the perverse forces of nature for public protection and national progress during war and peace.

Famed as the builders of the great Alcan highway, they have also provided all our military camps and training centers, army ordnance plants, mammoth bomber factories, airfields and embarkation facilities. With all these and other wartime duties on their shoulders here at home, they fulfill their essential functions in flood control, river and harbor improvement and land reclamation, year in and year out.

Overseas with our fighting forces on all fronts, the Army Engineers provide facilities for landing troops and supplies, and maintain the bridges, roads and transportation routes needed to get them to the front. They, too, prepare fortifications, camps, operating bases and field hospitals.

A very important task of the Army Engineers is to establish the beach-heads for our invading forces. They "unroll" the airfields across the deserts and around the world, and build the springboards for each new offensive.

Traditionally inspired and led by men whose technical knowledge has placed them "at the top of the list" in Army circles, the U. S. Corps of Engineers has always attracted men of character, courage and ability.

We salute them on their Anniversary!

Yanks Blast 7 Runs in 8th to Beat Nats, 9-5

This Morning

With Shirley Povich

From Hanover, N. H., where Gunder Hagg is in training for his whirl against American track stars, comes the news that the Swedish champion suffered a leg injury while attempting to leap over a high jump bar. Apparently athletes are of a type, the world over, including the Scandinavian.

POVICH

Hagg is a middle distance runner, perhaps the greatest who ever lived. His legs are his only claim to fame. Yet he couldn't resist the temptation of a high-jump bar he saw on his way to the Dartmouth College locker room. He tried to clear the bar, missed, and lacerated his knee, which bled freely. He was fortunate that it wasn't a serious injury.

The sports page files are crammed with incidents of the same kind in which star athletes, out of their element, were hurt trying somebody else's game. What it is in their chemical makeup that impels them to risk their good health at stunts in which they don't excel is something for the psychiatrists to answer.

Track isn't one of the more violent sports, but one brief fling at it almost put Goose Goslin on the shelf in 1927 for a full season at the peak of his baseball career. Like Haegg, Goslin made one illfated attempt to show his track prowess and versatility, and instantly rued it.

Goslin was the big-shot star of the Washington club in 1928 when they were in spring training at Tampa, Fla., working out on Plant Field. The field was big enough to accommodate not only a baseball diamond, but a circus, and on the afternoon we speak of, it was also the scene of a high-school track meet.

On his way to the dressing room, Goslin encountered a group of school kids engaging in the shot put, and big Goose couldn't rise above the temptation to try his own skill with the shot. He never tossed the iron ball before in his life, but it looked like duck-soup to him.

Grabbing up the shot with one of the most famous throwing arms in baseball, Goslin let fly with a heave that surpassed anything that had happened in the track meet. But Goose's pride in his achievement was mixed with an acute sense of pain in his throwing arm.

During that fraction of a minute, Goslin had hurt the best throwing arm in the Washington outfield. For the rest of the season it was useless to him. The only thing that kept him in the Nats' line-up was his batting average. That year he led the league in hitting with a .379 average.

But Goslin never regained the power in his throwing arm which he lost that day trying a schoolboy trick. He was a fine ball player for the next 10 years, but never the same kind of a threat to base runners.

There was, however, a shining exception to the rule that a great star can't go out of his element and get along all right. To start with, he was an exceptional fellow, anyway. He was Ty Cobb.

Harry Heilmann likes to tell the story of Cobb in one of the years he took the Tigers to spring training in New Orleans. "Cobb was an amazing fellow anyway," said Heilmann. "He was a great ball player, but he could have been a success at most anything he undertook. Ty would have been a great general or a merchant or banker or professional man.

"He had more determination than any man I ever knew. Ty never was content to finish second in anything. He insisted on winning, and I'll tell you what happened one spring down South.

"Cobb had signed a first baseman out of an Eastern college. The boy wasn't much of a prospect, but they took him to training camp anyway, and let him work out. One day Cobb saw this kid showing some of the ballplayers how to broad jump.

"The boy was some kind of an Eastern intercollegiate broad-jump champion, and of course, he out-jumped all the ball players. Cobb got interested and wanted to jump, too. Ty out-jumped all the other ball players but he couldn't beat the college boy.

"A couple of weeks later, we were having a workout and when it was over, Ty called the college boy over and said, 'you're not dressing yet, you and I are going to jump some more.'

"So they marked off a broad-jump pit, and Cobb and the kid took three jumps apiece. Cobb beat him on every jump, to the kid's amazement. He never knew that during those last two weeks, Cobb had been making daily trips to Loyola College getting the track coach there to teach him how to broad jump."

Early Edge Pitched Away By Leonard

By Shirley Povich
Post Staff Writer

In a demonstration of the old-fashioned Yankee way of life, the Yankees last night caved in the Nats with a seven-run eighth inning to disillusion Dutch Leonard and 15,000 customers who were toiling with the idea that the Nats would win a ball game.

The final score was 9 to 5, and projected the Yankees four full games ahead of the Nats who now have only a skimpy half-game lead over the third-place Tigers.

As if they were finding it mighty irksome, the Yanks suddenly cut loose against Leonard in the eighth and transformed his 3-2 lead into a 9-3 decit for the Nats. Leonard, in that inning, lost his lead, his control, his effectiveness and the ball game.

All Three Scored

He walked three men in that inning and they all scored. There was also the item of five hits the Yanks packed into the inning, the most important of which was a single with the bases full delivered by Johnny Lindell, the reformed pitcher, whose two-run blow shattered a 3-3 tie.

Charley Wensloff, Yankee rookie from Kansas City, was the winning pitcher. He was swabbing himself down in the showers when he learned the news. The Yanks used a pinch-hitter for Wensloff in that eighth inning at a time when he was trailing, 3-2, and then went out and won the game for him.

Bob Johnson set the Nats up in a 2-0 lead in the opening inning after Wensloff in a spree of wildness, walked the first two hitters. A sacrifice set the stage for Johnson to score 'em both with a single to center.

In the third, George Case's safe bunt led to another Washington run. He moved to second on Spence's scratch hit off Etten's glove and romped to third when Etten threw wild to Wensloff, covering first. Vernon fanned in this crisis, and Johnson was intentionally walked. Early got the run home on a long fly to Weatherly.

The Yanks got a run back in the fourth after Weatherly and Keller led off with singles to right. Wetherly scored while Lindell was hitting into a double play. Wensloff himself set their second run in motion when he doubled over Johnson's head to start the sixth. He took third on a passed ball and scored on Steinweiss' fly to Johnson.

Curtains for Leonard

Came the eighth and curtains for Leonard. Bill Johnson greeted him with a double against the left field wall and took third when anther of Leonard's knucklers got away from Early. Pinch-hitter Bud Metheny walked, and Steinweiss got the tying run home with a single to center.

Leonard appeared as if he might get out of more serious trouble when Metheny was cut down at the plate on Weatherly's grounder to Vernon, but he walked Keller, and Lindell banged a two-run single to left. Gordon walked, and Sears singled home two more runs. That brought in Carrasquel. Etten's fly and Johnson's second hit of the inning produced the last two runs.

Against Johnny Murphy in the ninth, the Nats scored two runs, which made the score more respectable but none the less decisive.

Hanbury-Wilson Fight Scheduled for June 28

Promoter Goldie Ahearn Lands Match For Griffith Stadium at Catch-Weights

By Al Costello
Post Staff Writer

The fight the whole town has been asking for was signed, sealed and ordered delivered at Griffith Stadium, Monday, June 28, by Promoter Godlie Ahearn yesterday when he announced a 10-round scrap between Washington's Lew Hanbury and Pittsburgh's Jackie Wilson, twice former N. B. A. featherweight champion.

Wilson was guaranteed $3000 with a privilege of 25 per cent of the gate. Hanbury goes in for 25 per cent.

More important to Hanbury is the fact he will be permitted to come in without having to make weight as he did when he upset Jackie Callura, present N. B. A. feather champion, recently at Uline Arena. Lew, who made 129½ for Callura, was afraid he had trained too much and would slow up in the late stages. He didn't, finishing strong, but his father and trainer, Lew, sr., insisted he would never permit Lew to come in under 133 or 134 again.

Wilson, who showed punching power in scoring a 10-round t. k. o. over Danny Petro and showed clevernes to decision Jimmy Phillips here, will arrive here early next wee kto complete his training. Hanbury, meanwhile, has just about recovered from a cut eye in the Callura roughhouse and has already resume dhis training. Both will workout in public next week.

Promoter Joe Turner, who has the Beau Jack-Maxie Starr fight coming up next Monday at Griffith Stadium, was believed to have a contract with Jack Laken, Wilson's business manager, for the Jackie's next local appearance, expressed surprise when Ahearn announced he had landed the plum. Turner refused to talk for publication but intimated he would have something to say later.

Browns Beat Chisox, 5-2, Before 19,052

By the Associated Press

Chicago, June 15.—Vern Stephens, with a home run and single, and Chet Laabs, with two doubles and a single, led the St. Louis Browns to a 5 to 2 victory over the Chicago White Sox before 19,052 fans here tonight.

Luke Appling tried a one-man reprisal against Steve Sundra, smashing out two doubles and a single in his first three trips to the plate, but Sundra smothered White Sox batters both before and after the veteran shortstop to go the route for his fourth victory of the season.

Cards Edge Reds, 3 to 1, On Four Hits

By the Associated Press

St. Louis, June 15.—While Outfielder Harry Walker ran his hitting streak to 22 consecutive games, lanky Harry Gumbert elbowed a two-hitter today as the St. Louis Cardinals nipped the Cincinnati Reds, 3 to 1, in the only contest of a scheduled double bill.

His performance and the Cards' ability to score thrice on the four blows a mighty effective Bucky Walters allowed, sent the world champions into a three-game edge over the second-place Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Reds copped their lone counter in the second. Steve Mesner singled, after which Eddie Miller slapped out what looked like another. Deb Gars did a bit of fumbling, however, and Miller reached second as Mesner scored. Miller missed first base, so he didn't receive credit for a hit, nor Garms for the error.

Despite Walters' wildness, which saw the usually reliable veteran walk eight, hit one and commit a balk, the Cards couldn't score until the sixth—doing the job then on Marty Marion's double and two walks.

In the seventh Walker Cooper singled both Harry Walker and Garms home. Walker had singled and Garms walked.

Meantime, Gumbert used his sweeping curve, holding the Reds with one hit until the ninth when Gee-Gee Walker beat out an infield roller.

Phils Take Swing Shift Bill, 6-4, 2-1

By International News Service

Philadelphia, June 15.—In the first swing-shift double-header in the major leagues, Outfielder Coaker Triplett and Ron Northey today sparked the Philadelphia Phillies to two victories over the Boston Braves, 6 to 4 and 2 to 1.

Triplett hammered out a homer and triple in the opener, accounting for four runs. Northey clouted out homers in his first trip to the plate in both games, and accounted for all scoring in the nightcap.

The double victories drove the Phillies into fifth place, displacing the Braves by a game and a half.

Phils Trade Podgajny to Bucs for Dietz

By the Associated Press

Philadelphia, June 15.—The Phillies traded right handed Pitcher Johnny Podgajny to the Pittsburgh Pirates tonight for another right hander, Lloyd Arthur Dietz.

The swap, involving no cash, was made in the last hour before the midnight deadline for major league trades. It was the latest in a series of rebuilding transactions whereby the new Phils regime of Owner Bill Cox and Manager Bucky Harris have put the club close to the first division.

"I hate to see Podgajny go," declared Manager Harris. "But I figure Dietz is a very good relief pitcher and that's what we need."

Macks Take Bosox Twice, 7-4 and 4-2

By International News Service

Boston, June 15.—The Boston Red Sox dropped to sixth place today by losing both ends of a twin bill to the Philadelphia Athletics, 7 to 4 and 4 to 2.

Luman Harris and Jesse Flores, Starting A's hurlers, both were relieved in the ninth inning.

Harris, who had been hit for a three-run homer in the seventh by Joe Cronin, gave way to Everett Fagan in the opener. Roger Wolff, for the seventh time this season, came to the rescue of Flores, this time with two Red Sox on base and two out in the ninth.

Dick Siebert was the A's big batting gun in the opener, bringing in four runs with a double and single.

Mrs. Foley Transfers Twice, Walks Mile to Win Golf Cup

By Merrell W. Whittlesey
Post Staff Writer

Mrs. William E. Foley, who rode three buses and walked a mile to get to the Chevy Chase Club yesterday, lugged her golf bag and shoes, decided it was worth it as she won the Class B section of the Star Cup Tournament with her best competitive round of golf over the long, perfectly conditioned layout. Of the original field of 58, 57 played.

Mrs. Foley, a Kenwood member, who plays daily at Rock Creek, as it is near her home, had the best out nine of the day, a 46 with a 5-4 4-3 start, only one over men's par, and came back in 49 for the 95, lowest score of the day by three strokes.

Mrs. John Van Ryn, who was crowned City of Washington women's tennis champion last Sunday, was second off the tee and posted a net 78 which stood up for nearly three hours before Mrs. Foley turned in her score.

Mrs. Van Ryn, of the host club, equaled her best score with a 104, which included a birdie deuce on the fourth hole when she dropped an 8-foot putt, and a disastrous nine on the fifth where erring shots found all kinds of trouble.

Mrs. C. F. Greene, like Mrs. Van Ryn, playing in her first local golf competition, was one of the two 100-breakers of the day and won low gross with a 48, 50—98, as Mrs. Foley was eligible for only one prize. Mrs. Greene, from Indian Spring, recently moved here from Minnesota.

Third low net went to Mrs. H. H. Goodman of Washington, former Post Cup Class B champion and low gross winner of the '43 Post Cup tournament, who posted a 100—21—79. Mrs. Goodman posted a pair of 50s.

Mrs. E. E. Herrmann of Army and Navy won fourth low net over Mrs. J. Y. York, also of the service club, by matching cards, Mrs. Harrman scoring 52—48, 100—19—81, and Mrs. York 49—51, 100—19—81.

Mrs. Frank Murray, Congressional, with 109—27—82, won sixth low net by matching cards with Mrs. M. M. Alexander, Washington, who had 118—36—82. The prize list was completed with Mrs. W. T. Horner, Washington, who had 105—22—83, and won in a draw over Mrs. L. A. Wells, Kenwood, whose 112—29—83 was drawn out of the prize list.

Griffith Invites Osman to Tryout; Cup to Eastern

Fourteen members of Eastern High School interhigh championship baseball team were presented letters yesterday at a Special Victory Assembly at the school by Coach Woody Smitherman. Clark C. Griffith, owner of the Nats, presented his trophy to the championship club.

Wilbur (Bill) Osmap star third-sacker who batted over .600 in series play, was invited by Griff to report at Griffith Stadium for a tryout.

Vendor's Lien Wins Seventh Straight Race at Charles Town

Romps Home By Margin Of 5 Lengths

By Walter Haight
A Staff Correspondent

Charles Town, W. Va., June 15.—E. B. Lee's Vendor's Lien became the first horse ever to win seven straight races over this track today. The 7-year-old, who figured in a dead heat with Charlene in his previous start, kept his record intact by scampering home five lengths in advance of the closest opposition in the sixth race, best offering on the Tuesday program. As usual, Jockey Stanley Austin was in the saddle and he made no mistakes. Second money in the field of seven went to Mrs. E. D. Sowers' Dividend with G. Gude's Teco Tack in the third position.

Oddly, Vendor's Lien was not strongly backed in the mutual department. Royal Fleet, owned by T. Presgrave, was installed the favorite but stumbled and was shut off leaving the gate and had no chance. Vendor's Lien paid $8.80, the second largest price he has been this year. The veteran was clocked in 1:15 for the 120 feet more than 6 furlongs, only two-fifths over the track record shared by Pimlico Lady and Red Wrack.

Dividend went to the front early with Teco Tack closest and Vendor's Lien in third position. On the backstretch, Austin sent Vendor's Lien past Dividend and it was all over but the pay-off.

The daily double returned a $132.40 mueuel. Jockey Patsy Grant opened the program by booting J. J. Maddock's Tantrum home a half length in front of R. Wheeler's Seasonal with Mrs. L. B. Lavis' Clavier third. Tantrum paid $7. In the second race, Kaymarion, owned by John Bosley, jr., made her second start here a winning one, scoring by a neck over C. Taylor Chewning's Tacaro Ginny with Harry J. Dipaula's Chiff Chaff third. Kaymarion paid $29.40 in her own right.

Play Is Halted In D. C. Net Meet

District championship tennis matches at Sixteenth and Kennedy Streets barely got under way yesterday afternoon when rain halted play.

David Johnson won the first set from Igor Cassini, 6-1, while Jerry Courtney was leading Bud Hissock, 5-2, in the first set.

The matches will continue from this point today at 6 p. m.

TANTRUM was closest to pace of AIR DEFENSE, took command under urging and held sway to end under good handling. SEASONAL was well placed while saving ground, came through on inside entering stretch and was under pressure at end. CLAVIER lacked early speed and closed gamely. AIR DEFENSE was rushed to take command at first turn, set good pace and weakened in closing test.

SECOND RACE—About 7 furlongs. Purse, $300. For 3-year-olds; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 1:45. Off at 1:46. Winner, John Bosley, jr.'s b. f. (3) by Aneroid—Grace Carome. Trained by W. Shepherd. Value to winner, $215; second, $50; third, $25; fourth, $10. Time, 1:26⅘.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—KAYMARION, $29.40, $11.40, $6.00; TACARO GINNY, $4.60, $3.00; CHIFF CHAFF, $3.60.

KAYMARION went to front at once, saved ground while setting pace and held sway under punishment to end. TACARO GINNY was in first flight from start, responded when shaken up and closed gamely. CHIFF CHAFF raced on outside, improved position and hung in final drive. EQUIPPED was not a factor. WHIRL AND TWIRL was blocked on backstretch and stopped.

Daily Double—TANTRUM and KAYMARION paid $132.40

THIRD RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $300. For 3-year-olds; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 2:12. Off at 2:13. Winner, Mrs. V. Glorioso's b. f. (4) by Sun Meadow—Triple Star. Trained by V. Gorioso. Value to winner, $215; second, $50; third, $25; fourth, $10. Time, 1:21⅘.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—MEADOW STAR, $6.60, $3.40, $2.80; STORMCOCK, $3.80, $3.00; BARRACA, $5.00.

MEADOW STAR improved position gradually, came between horses to reach STORMCOCK and drew out to win easily. STORMCOCK set pace under hustling tactics, could not resist winner and was tiring at end. BARRACA lacked early speed and closed full fast. FAIRY BAY had speed in spots and is ready.

FOURTH RACE—One and one-eighth miles. Purse, $300. For 3-year-olds; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 2:42. Off at 2:42. Winner, W. S. Sprague's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—SEVENTEEN GUNS, $4.00, $2.60, $2.40; FREE TRADER, $3.00, $2.80; FIVE-O-FOUR, $3.20.

SEVENTEEN GUNS, well handled, improved position gradually, came to inside to save ground entering stretch, responded to pressure and held FREE TRADER safe. FREE TRADER set early pace, was steadied when FIVE-O-FOUR took command, went to front entering stretch while losing ground and just failed to get up. BATTLE LINE failed to show speed at any stage.

FIFTH RACE—About 4½ furlongs. Purse, $300. For 3-year-olds; claiming. Start bad. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 3:09. Off at 3:12. Winner, Mrs. E. D. Sowers' ch. m. (5) by Theatrical—Park. Trained by Claude Feltner. Value to winner, $215; second, $50; third, $25; fourth, $10. Time, 0:50⅘.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—STADIUM, $4.80, $3.20, $2.60; CHAT HOPKINS, $3.60, $2.80; OYSTER BAR, $4.60.

STADIUM, in contention from start while on outside, assumed command in midstretch and won going away. CHAT HOPKINS and OYSTER BAR were hard ridden and had no excuses. NEVER HOME could not improve her position. The others had no chance with start.

SIXTH RACE—Charles Town course. Purse, $400. For 3-year-olds; claiming. Start good. Won handily; place driving. Went to post at 3:37. Off at 3:37½. Winner, E. B. Lee's ch. g. (7) by Vander Pool—Lady Trilby. Trained by A. L. Leith. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 1:15.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—VENDOR'S LIEN, $8.80, $3.40, $3.20; DIVIDEND, $4.80, $3.40; TECO TACK, $5.60.

VENDOR'S LIEN was well placed from start, came to outside of DIVIDEND to take command and drew out to win with speed in reserve. DIVIDEND shut off ROYAL FLEET directly after start, went to front, set good pace but was no match for winner. TECO TACK was keen forward factor early and tired. COPPERETTE closed willingly. ROYAL FLEET stumbled and was shut off leaving gate and had no chance.

SEVENTH RACE—Six and one-half furlongs. Purse, $400. For 3-year-olds; claiming. Start good. Won driving; place same. Went to post at 4:03. Off at 4:04. Winner, Shenandoah Stable's ch. f. Two-dollar mutuels paid—FAIR FLAME, $5.60, $3.40; $2.40; CELESTI F., $5.20, $3.00; LIGHT TIDE, $2.40.

FAIR FLAME raced MISTY EYE into defeat to take command and was vigorously handled to hold sway thereafter. CELESTI F. went to FAIR FLAME on backstretch and was listlessly handled thereafter. LIGHT TIDE saved ground at first turn, was put to punishment but was held safe. ZELLEEN ZEE moved up menacingly on backstretch and then weakened.

EIGHTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $400. For 4-year-olds; claiming. Start good. Won easily; place driving. Went to post at 4:31. Off at 4:32. Winner, O. S. Jennings' b. m. (5) by War Hero—Jaffa. Trained by C. Reilly. Value to winner, $300; second, $60; third, $30; fourth, $10. Time, 1:48⅘.

LEONARD LYONS

Broadway Potpourri

New York, June 15.

The Controller General of the United States now is considering an unusual claim, submitted by a baker who demands payment for 1450 pies not consumed by the United States Navy . . . On the day Winston Churchill left this country, all the men stationed at the base from which he departed were ordered confined there. The phones were shut off and no one was permitted to leave—as a safety measure to prevent the possible leakage of news concerning the Prime Minister's departure . . . The baker arrived that morning in a truck with 1500 pies, intending to deliver 50 pies there, as per order. He, too, was ordered not to leave. The remaining 1450 pies were spoiled; hence his claim.

GEORGE M. COHAN

A group of American book publishers will make a good-will tour to South America this month under the sponsorship of the State Department . . . The cast of Irving Berlin's "This Is the Army" is expected to return to New York from Hollywood late next month for demobilization here . . . For a long time Governor Dewey has promised to appear on the Thursday night broadcasts of "Stage Door Canteen." In a letter to the American Theater Wing he explained his inability to comply as yet; Thursday night is execution night at Sing Sing, and under the law Dewey must remain in or near the Executive Mansion in Albany on those nights. He'll broadcast when the execution season wanes.

Bill Harrigan, the veteran film and stage actor, heard some of his colleagues discussing the late George M. Cohan. "Cohan hated actors—else he wouldn't have fought us during the actors' strike," one of them stated . . . "That isn't true," Harrigan dissented, and then revealed this story: When Cohan submitted to an operation, the doctor sent him a bill for $5000. Cohan protested that the fee was too high for such a minor operation. "Well, you see, Mr. Cohan," said the doctor, "I work for some actors for nothing. The only way I can afford to do that work free is by charging high fees to you stars." Cohan gave him a check for $5000 and said, "Now do a lot of work for actors."

Douglas Leigh, whose unique electric signs altered the Broadway night scene these past few years, will do his special-effects work from now on for the United States Navy . . . Random House, which published eyewitness accounts of the Dieppe raid and the campaigns in Tunisia, Guadalcanal and New Guinea, will add the Attu coverage to its list . . . Harry Danning, the Giants catcher, will leave soon for Officers Candidate School . . . The question, "Should Germany Be Dismembered?" will be debated over Town Hall of the Air on June 24. Emil Ludwig will argue the pro, while the con will be argued by Dr. Gerhardt Segar, former editor and member of the German Reichstag.

Irvin Cobb sat in a Washington restaurant a few days ago, dicussing red tape in the Army. "But there's always red tape in wartime," his companion insisted . . . "No; that isn't so," Cobb replied, and then cited a document he had seen at the Richmond Confederate Memorial Museum. On one side, in the finest of Spencerian handwriting, was a formal request for a leave, written by an Army captain, who phrased his application perfectly. It was addressed to Gen. Nathan Bedford Forrest—the man who said "Git there fustest with the mostest." On the back of that perfect document the general wrote his reply: "I tol you twict, goddammit. No."

At a Harvard Club dinner in honor of the graduates of the United States Naval Reserve Midshpimen's School, toastmaster Peter Donald told them: "Under the new regulations, to save bookkeeping, for the first few weeks one-half of your salary will be paid to you and the other half directly to Sherman Billingsley . . . Gertrude Lawrence may appear on Broadway next in a three-acter by George Lowther . . . Horace MacMahon, who plays tough-guy roles in the movies, is visiting his father-in-law, a Chicago undertaker. Because of the shortage of drivers, MacMahon drove a hearse. The dead man's relative flinched, and asked for his autograph.

Lon's Dogs Are All Set

Hollywood, Calif., June 15.—The Claire James-Buzz Berkeley annulment went through in Ventura. The reason Claire finally brought suit against Buzz was that when she went visiting his set the other day, he had her thrown out by her own father, who's the watchman and fireman and had to obey orders. . . . Knox college confers four honorary degrees at its June 14 commencement exercises. Those honored will be Gov. John W. Bricker, Westbrook Pegler, Harold Nathan Graves, and Edward Beattie Stephenson . . . I hear that Grace Moore is heading our way again. I wonder if L. B. Mayer will offer her another contract. We had fun when she was here before. So did Grace. When I asked Harry Cohn if he'd do another picture with her, you could have heard his scream all the way to Pomona . . . Pat Dane's band—at rehearsals.

BOB HOPE

Bits and Pieces.

Bob Hope gets a pie (guess where) in "Let's Face It." . . . Errol Flynn goes on another Mexico City vacation for three months when he finishes his present picture . . . When Lieut. Buddy Ibsen relinquished his part in "Good Night Ladies" to Stuart Erwin, who took his place, he said, "I hope the war won't run as long as this play!" . . . Martha Raye's been ordered to put on 18 pounds. Gloria Bristol's arranged her diet. . . . Theda Bara's bringing out her life story in book form. Theda and I spent a season together in "The Quaker Girl." Her name then was Theodosia de Coppet.

Nice Kid

Lon McCallister, a big hit in "Stage Door Canteen," took me to lunch the day before pulling out for New York and the premiere. He's a sweet kid—20, serious, naive. Says, "I'm not an actor." The reason he signed a long-term contract with Sol Lesser was that they gave him $5000 to bind the bargain. "That will take care of my mother, grandmother, and my dogs while I'm in the Army," he commented. He goes in July. The New York opening will be his first premiere. Yes, he's seen one before. "Romeo and Juliet," starring Norma Shearer and the late Leslie Howard. He sat in the bleachers. He'd played a choir boy in the picture. Lon said he didn't envy the stars going in, but hoped some day he'd get a chance on the screen to make enough money to buy a boat. He and his college chum decided that was the life. For at least two years they'd live on the boat—go to the South seas and Alaska—see the world. A clause he had written in his contract is that they make no false statements about him. He wants truth only. He's sorry he won't get to see Katharine Cornell in New York. He's still spellbound over her. He's a nice kid.

An Opportunity

Harry Carey plays Gramps, the ghost, in "Happy Land" He returns to tell all. Wouldn't it be wonderful if he told all about "Trader Horn"? Dorothy McGuire, since finishing "Claudia," is searching for an apartment. It looks as though the little lady would stay with us a spell. . . . Today Laurel and Hardy got their costumes for "Dancing Masters." They consisted of a couple of zoot suits, which are now being remade. . . . After Michael Todd had taken a hunk of dough from David Selznick at gin rummy, he turned to him and said, "I'll match you for the pile—for the South American rights to 'Gone With the Wind.'" . . . Danny Kaye and Keenan Wynn wrote the life history of Judy Garland, then made a record of it with Danny playing Judy, for her birthday party . . . Judy and Van Johnson were a twosome at Mocambo to listen to Hazel Scott. Incidentally, Hazel's drawing such crowds she's had her option picked up. It's a weekly one.

'Dracula' Heads Largely Escapist Theater Bills Impending

Bela Lugosi comes next week to the National Theater in "Dracula," most famous of the vampire epics, which in one form or another has been chilling horror addicts for two generations. The ghoulish Mr. Lugosi is spookily supported in the Hamilton Deane-John Balderson play by Frank Jaquet, Charles Francis, Len Mence and Mary Heath. Opens Monday.

Willard Roof

"BERTHA THE SEWING MACHINE GIRL" begins its third boisterous week on Monday. The first in this summer's melodrama series, it is played by a competent cast including Broadway thespians Mary Jane Kersey, John Regan, Louise Kelley and Fred Hillebrand; plus local favorites Bibi Osterwald and Ted Tiller. Held over.

Capitol

"PRESENTING LILY MARS" Judy Garland and Van Heflin in a story of show business and the adventures therein of a stage-struck small-town girl. Marta Eggerth, Fay Bainter, Richard Carlson and Spring Byington are in the supporting cast, and Tommy Dorsey's and Bob Crosby's Orchestras take care of the music. Opens Thursday.

Virginia Weidler, appearing in person, headlines the stage bill, which also includes the Radio City Music Hall Glee Club, making their first appearance outside Radio City; Dave Barry, "mimicomedian"; Davidson and Forgie, badminton champions, who do badminton tricks; and Dorothy Keller, dancer. Opens Thursday.

RKO-Keith's

"WHITE SAVAGE." Universal's escape item promises Technicolorful adventure in the South Seas, with spectacular sequences involving a native festival, an earthquake and something new in the way of jungle attire, the "sheerong," which adorns Maria Montez and vice versa. Among other members of the cast are Jon Hall and Sabu. Opens Thursday.

Earle

"ACTION IN THE NORTH ATLANTIC," Warner Brothers' powerful tribute to the merchant marine stars Humphrey Bogart, Raymond Massey and Alan Hale, supported by a large and able cast including Ruth Gordon and Julie Bishop. The stage bill, headed by comic Bob Dupont, includes also "The Three Kings" and the Roxyettes in two routines, "Perpetual Motion" and "Swinging the Classics." Held over.

Palace

"CRASH DIVE." Tyrone Power in Technicolor continues a second week. The submarine story includes also in its cast Anne Baxter, Dana Andrews, James Gleason, Dame May Whitty and Henry Morgan. Held over.

Columbia

"CABIN IN THE SKY," MGM's comedy-novelty, enters its second week. Music and dancing are contributed by Ethel Waters, Eddie ("Rochester") Anderson, Duke Wellington and his orchestra, Lena Horne, Rex Ingram and other outstanding Negro entertainers. Held over.

Little

"THE CAT AND THE CANARY." Bob Hope and Paulette Goddard in a hare-brained and hair-raising comedy involving romance in an old dark house. Opens today.

Metropolitan

"MISSION TO MOSCOW" Warner Brothers' controversial documentary begins a third downtown week. Based on former Ambassador Davies' book, the film stars Walter Huston, Ann Harding, Helmut Dantine, Oscar Homolka and Gene Lockhart with a supporting cast of thousands. Opens Friday.

Pix

"LADY IN THE MORGUE" for the remainder of the week will be the other half of the bill headed by the revival of "M, the Kidnaper." Opening on Saturday are "Cinderella Swings It," and "Three Girls About Town."

Trans-Lux

"MEDICINE ON GUARD," another of the "This Is America" series, heads the bill, with a sports short, "Tumblebugs," a Government film, "Message From Malta," and 35 minutes of news. Opens Friday.

Baltimore Traders Elect

Frank Fisher of Frank B. Cahn & Co. was elected vice president of the Baltimore Stock Exchange at the annual meeting. He succeeds Howard R. Taylor, who was elected president last week. The election of Harry M. Sheely as president of the Baltimore Security Traders Association, succeeding G. Hudson Quaries, resigned, also was announced.

Gas Sales Set Record

Washington Gas Light Co. yesterday reported May sales of 1,378,459 mcf (thousand cubic feet), a new all-time high for that month and a gain of 19.5 per cent over the same month last year.

Sales in the first five months aggregated 9,555,592 mcf, a new record for that period and a gain of 9.6 per cent over the same 1942 period.

U. A. L. Traffic Gains

The United Air Lines yesterday reported that passenger-cargo operations in May showed continued gains. Express pound miles flown increased 4 per cent and mail pound miles showed an upsurge of 57 per cent for the month. These figures do not include cargo carried by United in military transport services.

Gen. Ayres Optimistic

Confidence in War's Outcome, Business Outlook Seen Rising

By the Associated Press

Cleveland, June 15.—Confidence in the Nation's business outlook and the outcome of its war has risen rapidly this year, Brig. Gen. Leonard P. Ayres noted today.

Chartering an index based on the differences between yields of top and second grade bonds, the Cleveland economist reported in the business bulletin of the Cleveland Trust Co. that business confidence is at the highest level in six years and observed:

"It is clear that the volume of war production will continue to increase during the coming six months because our needs for initial equipment are still far from satisfied.

"It is now clear that we have enough plant facilities, except in certain specialties, to produce all the war goods we have materials to make.

"We are entering a period of selective cutbacks in a war production program that is still very much on the increase. The Army still must get far larger outputs of munitions both for itself and for the troops of our Allies. The Navy is far from reaching the top of its production program, and there seem to be no limits at all to the demands of the air forces. However our armed forces now know far more definitely than they did even a few months ago what they want and in what quantities."

General Ayres, a vice president of Cleveland Trust, asserted rising production and almost full employment of the Nation's labor forces would result in month by month progressive shortages of manpower and womanpower in almost every sort of civilian occupation. He also foresaw for the latter half of 1943 a continued advance in prices, new systems of transportation rationing and large corporate earnings.

"The prospect that the volume of industrial production will remain at high and advancing levels carries with it the probability that corporate earnings will continue to be large even after taxes," he said.

"We have now had a good deal of experience with renegotiation of war contracts and that procedure does not appear likely to impair too seriously the earning power of industrial concerns."

New transportation priorities were anticipated in view of still greater loads to be placed on railroads, some of which "are already uncomfortably close to the limits of their carrying capacities."

Concerning wholesale and retail price advances, he expressed the opinion these "probably would be at rates similar to those of the first half year, rather than becoming greatly accelerated."

G. M. & O. Plans To Redeem Bonds

New York, June 15 (AP).—Directors of the Gulf, Mobile & Ohio Railroad today authorized the redemption of a $8,780,000 Reconstruction Finance Corp. note and the calling for payment of $9,719,000 of Gulf, Mobile & Northern Railroad Co. first mortgage bonds, all due in 1950.

To provide funds for paying these two obligations, a new issue of $15,400,000 collateral trust bonds was authorized to supplement cash on hand. The new bonds will be in two series, "A" and "B," the former maturing serially in one to ten years and the latter in 1958. A sinking fund would be provided for the "B" bonds. The company was authorized to provide $23,100,000 of its series "C" 5 per cent bonds as collateral.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, June 15 (AP).—Wheat futures rallied from an early slump today, largely under the impetus of renewed mill buying on price setbacks. Rye derived strength from wheat and at the close outstripped the bread cereal to chalk up gains of as much as 1⅞ cents. Oats also were firm and corn was unchanged at ceiling bids.

Wheat finished the session near the day's best levels, unchanged to ¾ cent under Monday's closes; July, 1.44@1.43⅝; September, 1.44; December, 1.46. Rye advanced ⅝ to 1⅛ cents; July, 97⅞@97¼; September, 99¼@99½, and oats were ½ to ¾ cents higher.

Range follows:

	Open.	High.	Low.	Close.
Wheat—
July	1.43⅞	1.44⅛	1.43½	1.43⅞

Big 'Hidden Asset' Denied by Head Of Standard Gas

Philadelphia, June 15 (AP).—Leo T. Crowley, president of Standard Gas & Electric Co., which has proposed a recapitalization plan, today denied knowledge of a 10-million-dollar "hidden asset" which a stockholder said was owned by Pittsburgh Railways Co., a subsidiary.

Crowley testified at a Securities and Exchange Commission hearing on the recapitalization. The name of the stockholder who said the asset existed was not made public.

If such a reserve is in existence, Crowley said, the law would require that it be handled by the subsidiary's in bankruptcy.

Cross examining Crowley, Claude Pearce of Toronto, Canada, a stockholder, alleged that the recapitalization plan would "practically wipe out" the 60 million dollars invested by the public in Standard common and $4 preferred stock.

20th Century-Fox To Vote on Deal

New York, June 15 (AP).—The Twentieth Century-Fox Film Corp. today called a stockholders' meeting for July 6 in New York to act upon exercising the option of the company to purchase from the Chase National Bank its 58 per cent holdings in National Theaters Corp. for $13,000,000.

The National Theaters Corp. owns or operates 590 film theaters scattered through the West and Middle West. Charles P. Skouras is president of the chain and his brother, Spyros P. Skouras, heads the film producing and distributing company. Twentieth Century-Fox owns 42 per cent of the theater stock.

Trade Lighter As List Stages Minor Rally

By the Associated Press

New York, June 15.—Selective recoveries seeped into the stock market today after three successive declining sessions.

Yesterday's tumble, sharpest since April 9, was extended at the opening by fractions to more than 2 points. Buyers then came in for rails and other recently depressed issues. Extreme setbacks were reduced or converted into fair-sized advances at the close. Dealings were fairly lively on the opening retreat and near the finish but in-between slow periods were plentiful.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was up .1 of a point at 50.4. It dropped .9 in the previous session. Of 870 issues traded, 375 were up and 495 down or unchanged. Transfers of 1,010,440 shares compared with 1,352,100 the day before.

Improvement in the carriers was credited partly to the thought that the majority of the roads would enjoy heavy traffic for a long time after the ending of the world conflict. Encouraging also was the disclosure that April net operating income for 186 Class I lines aggregated $127,059,263, against $101,596,294 in the like 1942 month.

Helping the averages was an advance of 3½ points in Eastman Kodak, which slumped 5 yesterday. Lesser gains were shown for Santa Fe, Southern Pacific, Northern Pacific, Bethlehem, General Motors, United States Rubber, Western Union, Standard Oil of New Jersey, Texas Co., Oliver Farm, International Harvester and United Aircraft.

Bonds steadied. At Chicago wheat was unchanged to off one-quarter of a cent, a bushel and hogs down 15 to 20 cents. Cotton futures emerged 10 cents a bale higher to 15 cents lower.

Output Starts At Giant New Steel Works

By the Associated Press

Pittsburgh, June 15.—First steel flowed yesterday at the giant new addition of the Homestead Works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Corp., on a site where 2700 families lived before Pearl Harbor.

The first of eleven 225-ton open hearth furnaces with a total capacity of 1,500,000 tons of steel ingots went into operation at the new shop, second unit in the Government's 120 million-dollar steel mill expansion project here to begin production.

The facilities being erected by the Defense Plant Corp. and operated by Carnegie-Illinois, largest subsidiary of United States Steel will also include mills and shops for the production of slabs, plates, machined forgings and rough forged armor plate.

Half of Homestead's 19,000 residents were resettled and homes, churches, stores, schools and factories were moved or demolished to make way for the addition.

The Howard Axle Shop, a division of the Homestead Steel Works, was moved 16 miles down the Monongahela and Ohio Rivers to the McKees Rocks area—without loss in production. Piece by piece, buildings, machines and furnaces were transferred during weekends, with production continuing at both sites during the process.

Blood Donations Reach Record

Topping the weekly quota of the District blood donor center by 265 and establishing a record, donations at the center and through mobile units reached 3265 last week, Mrs. Loretta J. Bickford, acting director, announced yesterday.

Plans for the equipment of the new donor center in the Acacia Mutual Life Insurance Co.'s Building on Capitol Plaza are under way, Mrs. Bickford said. An entire floor has been donated to the center.

Starting off with 572 donations Monday, this week again should be very satisfactory, Mrs. Bickford predicted, stressing the importance of keeping up the good work which is growing more vital as United Nations forces may be about to enter fighting on an unprecedented scale.

Almost 95,000 children in 192 District public, parochial and private schools have enrolled in Junior Red Cross activities, Elizabeth Etheridge, director, said yesterday.

If You Suffer Distress From Monthly FEMALE WEAKNESS

Which Makes You Cranky, Nervous

If at such times you suffer from cramps, backache, distress of "irregularities", periods of the blues—due to functional monthly disturbances—

Start at once—try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. It not only helps relieve monthly pain but also accompanying tired, nervous feelings of this nature. This is due to its soothing effect on ONE OF WOMAN'S MOST IMPORTANT ORGANS.

Pinkham's Compound is the best known medicine you can buy that's made especially for women. Taken regularly — Pinkham's Compound helps build up resistance against such symptoms. Also a fine stomachic tonic! Follow label directions.

Expecting a Baby?

Mother's Friend helps bring ease and comfort to expectant mothers.

MOTHER'S FRIEND, an exquisitely prepared emollient, is useful in all conditions where a bland, mild anodyne massage medium in skin lubrication is desired. One condition in which women for more than 70 years have used it is an application for massaging the body during pregnancy . . . it helps keep the skin soft and pliable . . . thus avoiding unnecessary discomfort due to dryness and tightness. It refreshes and tones the skin. An ideal massage application for the numb, tingling or burning sensations of the skin . . . for the tired back muscles or cramp-like pains in the legs. Quickly absorbed. Delightful to use.

Mother's Friend

Highly praised by users, many doctors and nurses. Just ask any druggist for Mother's Friend—the skin lubricant. Try it tonight!

"LITTLE BUSINESS" needs Seed Money most of all

ONE of the easiest things for you to understand, and one of the hardest things for government to understand is "Little Business."

Little Business lives right around the corner from you . . . He's the garage man who has pooled his lathe with the lathes of other garage men and opened a factory to turn out war materials . . . He's the machinist who has scraped up some second-hand equipment, hired some other machinists and turned an empty building into a source for bomb-rack parts . . . He's the boat yard owner who has parlayed a little knowledge and a lot of guts into a fleet of sub-chasers . . . Maybe he is one of the 21,000 sub-contractors who are helping just one large manufacturer (International Harvester Co.) fulfill his war contract.

Everybody knows Little Business because everybody meets businessmen everywhere they go.

Three cheers for Little Business, because—through courage, resourcefulness, and unlimited hours of work, businessmen are helping to win this war.

But, before you join in the cheers, take thought of what we said in the first paragraph: it is hard for government to understand Little Business.

You can do something more effective for Little Business than giving him the empty reward of your applause.

You can help him survive when the war is over.

And don't think it is not VITAL to you that the millions of hustling, adventurous souls who constitute the army of "Little Business" do survive.

The "take a chance" spirit of businessmen is the spark that has made America a great nation.

▶ Every time a businessman succeeds he makes jobs for other men and women. Every time that happens there is more real wealth available for Americans. Multiply that by the millions of Little Businessmen and it's easy to see why it is vital that they survive.

Bear in mind that we haven't said government doesn't want Little Business to survive. Government loves Little Business. All government people get a tender light in their eyes when they speak of the Little Businessman.

But government is handicapped. It wants to help the Little Businessman, but it doesn't know how, because it does not understand the motives and rewards of business adventure.

Business is "profit minded." That's why it is so hard for government to understand it.

Government should try to understand the profit-motive, because out of profit comes the Seed Money that creates still more jobs. Businessmen lay aside a part of their profits to be used for future development. This is called Seed Money.

Seed Money is not personal profit. It is used to develop new methods and to buy new machines that do more work in less time. These improved machines make higher wages and lower prices possible. In turn, improved machines yield still more Seed Money and the process grows in an ever widening circle. We call the result a "high standard of living."

▶ With this wonderful, automatic encourager of human endeavor (profit) at its command, wouldn't you think government would say "Swell, here's the device that will make jobs for everybody after the war, pay off the war debt and raise our standard of living still higher. Let's put Seed Money to work harder than ever before."

Does government say this? No, you know it doesn't. Instead, Government regards business profit merely as a source of tax money. It withers progress and improvement for all Americans by draining off the business profits that would create new jobs when the war is over.

Little Business is hit hardest of all.

Generally, a small business has no record of high profits in the years before the war. Therefore, in the eyes of government, most of the profit such a company makes is "Excess Profit" and is taken away in taxes.

What will Little Business do when the war is over? Will he hire his share of returning soldiers, and out-of-work government people, as well as keep the people who are working for him now?

To do that, he will need the best machinery; he must pay for improvement of his products, and finance the distribution and sale of those products.

He'll have the brains and courage for all that, but he won't have the money.

But there are millions of Little Businessmen. They will get together. They and their friends will bombard Congress. Another government bureau will be set up.

▶ Government money will be loaned. But a funny thing will happen. Little Business will not be free to "take a chance" with this money, because it belongs to the government. But "taking a chance" is the life breath of all business, especially Little Business. There will be a penalty on courage.

You, dear reader, whether you are a bureaucrat, business or professional man, farmer or laborer, can't afford to let that happen to the venturesome business spirit that sustains our national life.

You can do something about it, too. You can help spread the knowledge everywhere that production in war and good living in peace depend upon healthy, constantly improving business and industry. You can be against monoply and still know that Big Business really exists to serve the millions of men who are Little Business, and depends upon them for its own existence.

You can believe in social reform, and still see that it's one thing to kill the weeds in our Industrial Victory Garden and another to attack the crop.

You can tell your Congressman that the most practical post-war planning he can do is to help in framing laws that will create a favorable environment for business in the post-war world.

"Industrial Progress is the Source of all Good Living."

Jackpot on Drinks

New York.—A thirsty employe inserted a nickel in an automatic soft drink vending machine and waited for the soda to gush down into a paper cup. It did. Then, in rapid succession, approximately 70 drinks spurted into cups in orderly fashion, and the dazed drinker treated the office after a frantic session of "bartending."

Guarding Their Valuables

Orangeburg, S. C.—Two smartly-dressed young women came out of a theater just as a heavy shower was striking its stride. They stopped and each girl removed her shoes and carefully tucked them under her arm. Then they fared forth in the rain—barefoot.

The Federal Diary

By Jerry Kluttz

Somervell Tells Problems To Ramspeck Group

The Nation's largest employer—Lieut. Gen. Brehon Somervell, chief of the Army service forces—yesterday told the Ramspeck Civil Service Investigating Committee his problems and policies. His was a forceful and enlightening statement packed with good sense. If he can only get his views down to the lowest level of his employes and get them to practice what he preaches—civilians and military alike—he'll have one of the world's best organizations as well as the largest. On May 1, ASF had 1,026,154 civilians on its payroll and only 3.6 per cent—or 37,012—were stationed here. Briefly, the job of this vast civilian army is to feed, fuel, clothe, house and equip our Army. And that's a world-wide job.

The general indirectly answered critics who are forever trying to compare this war with World War I when he pointed out that two division of his organization—the Corps of Engineers and the Quartermaster Corps—are handling material greater in value than the entire cost of World War I. He emphasized the magnitude of his ASF job and he admitted that mistakes had been made in building up his organization when too little care was taken in selecting personnel. However, he was high in his praise of the Civil Service Commission in general and Commissioner Arthur Fleming in particular. The commission, he said, has done an excellent job.

On red tape, the general said: "It is an enemy we must fight at all times . . . we have been cutting it right and left in the ASF . . . it masquerades under the imposing name of 'procedure' . . . when it fastens the dead hand of obsolete forms and practices upon a living, growing, vital organization, defying the canons of common sense and good judgment, it should not merely be cut, but should be torn out by the roots." Somervell then went on to names, dates and places of red tape worn out by the roots, how six million copies of shipping tickets had been eliminated, how 21 million file cards had been knocked out . . . how 131 reports from posts and camps had been consolidated and cut down to 2, and many others.

On personnel policies, he said: 75,000 supervisors had been given job instruction training . . . women are being hired in greater numbers. ASF already is the largest employer of women labor in the Nation, 379,300, or 37 per cent of the total civilians. In Washington the percentage is 67 . . . Negroes make up 22 per cent of the personnel here and 13.7 of the total . . . other minority groups and handicapped people are hired without prejudice . . . "we in the Army," Somervell said, "are but civilians in uniform. (Some of the lower-ranking officers don't realize that.) There is no room in this country for a militaristic philosophy . . . there are no distinctions in the rank and file of the ASF between men in khaki and men in overalls." The general will return today to be quizzed by committee members.

Diary Notes

An interesting sight is to see that WAAC drill squads of soldiers every morning around 9 o'clock on the Ellipse. . . . Solicitor General Charles Fahy is now a good bet to get Fred Vinson's seat on the United States Court of Appeals. But Judge Marvin Jones, who doubles as one of the food bosses, still can have the job if he wants it. . . . The management branch of the Federal Public Housing Authority is being reorganized. Employes will be called together this morning for the announcement. Abraham Goldfield of New York has been looking over the division and he has made many recommendations for changes. He's expected to head up the new division.

Last evening's ceremony by the Brotherhood of Sensible Men was called the "Unveiling of the Male." A number of the brothers working in the Navy Yard, the General Accounting Office at Friendship, the Census office at Suitland and several others out of the downtown area protested against the holding of the ceremony on the Ellipse. Well, if gas were available the B. S. M. would put on a show for all these places. Meantime, many would-be-brothers who have adopted a wait-and-see attitude say they will join the revolution if enough others start wearing slack suits. The movement must be catching on as stocks of slack suits in District clothing stores are reported to be running low.. That's good news.

Jerry Overby, assistant to Agriculture Secretary Wickard, has been commissioned a captain in the Army. . . . Federal agencies have been ordered by Civil Service to give "special emphasis" to the placement of war veterans in jobs. . . . UFWA has 490 signatures on a petition urging the Joint Committee on Printing to settle the Government Printing Office wage case that has been hanging fire for months. The petition accuses the Public Printer of refusing to bargain collectively. The UFWA is attempting to bargain for the 1150 skilled and unskilled laborers.

Board Asks Budget Boost For District

Commissioners Seek Addition of $986,248 to Bill Passed by House

Rushing to complete legislation before Congress takes its summer adjournment, a subcommittee of the Senate Appropriations Committee yesterday held hearings until late in the evening on the District budget for the fiscal year 1943-1944.

To the appropriation bill already passed by the House the Commissioners have requested additional items totaling $986,248, bringing the whole sum requested to $55,775,682.

Additional requests for funds relate to many different municipal departments. Of the total asked from the Senate, $153,270 is to replace minor slashes made by the House, and the remainder covers supplemental needs recommended by the Budget Bureau since the House passed the bill last April.

Among the increases is $170,000 for street cleaning and $285,000 for the collection of refuse.

These items are largely to cover salary raises. Continuance of tin can salvage will cost $15,000, the Commissioners said.

The requested highway program would leave an estimated deficit in the highway tax fund of $588,934, the Commissioners said, but delay in construction of the South Capitol Street bridge because of the war leaves an appropriation of one million dollars unexpended which will more than cover the deficit.

The Commissioners asked for restoration of the $10,000 cut in the appropriation for personnel of the Public Library. It was testified that the library is in constant use by Government agencies.

Homes Appeal Made to Assist New Workers

The appeal for several thousand additional apartments and rooms to be made available to warworkers in Washington, made recently by the National Housing Agency, is a preparatory measure, an NHA official pointed out yesterday, for the influx of Government workers expected during the coming year.

While full details of this expected influx are not yet available (pending a report by the Bureau of Labor Statistics and the War Manpower Commission), the likelihood is that during the period between July, 1943, and July 1944, a greater number of people "per job" will come into Washington, he said.

This means that formerly the largest proportion of Government positions were filled by single persons or childless couples, who required accommodations only for themselves. With the draft drawing off considerable numbers of single and childless men, however, a "very real need" will arise for living quarters for the more numerous families of "older men" who will come to take their place. Women whose husbands have been drafted will probably count for many such replacements, he said, and a substantial proportion of them will bring their children and swell the demand for family accommodations.

Space for families with children has always been at a minimum here, the NHA spokesman declared, and if home owners begin planning to help house them during the coming year much of the problem will be alleviated.

So far as the current situation is concerned, it was said, some landlords are experiencing difficulty in renting their vacancies because their homes are inaccessible to transportation or because they are situated far from midtown Washington and are near no restaurants or other eating places. Still others fail to register with the War Housing Center on Pennsylvania Avenue and Fourteenth Street Northwest, which serves as a free renting bureau for warworkers.

WLB Sanctions Safeway Stores Wage Increases

By the Associated Press

The War Labor Board trucking commission yesterday ordered an increase of 3 cents an hour for about 430 employes of the Sanitary Grocery Co. (Safeway Stores, Inc.) of Washington, D. C., and Richmond, Va.

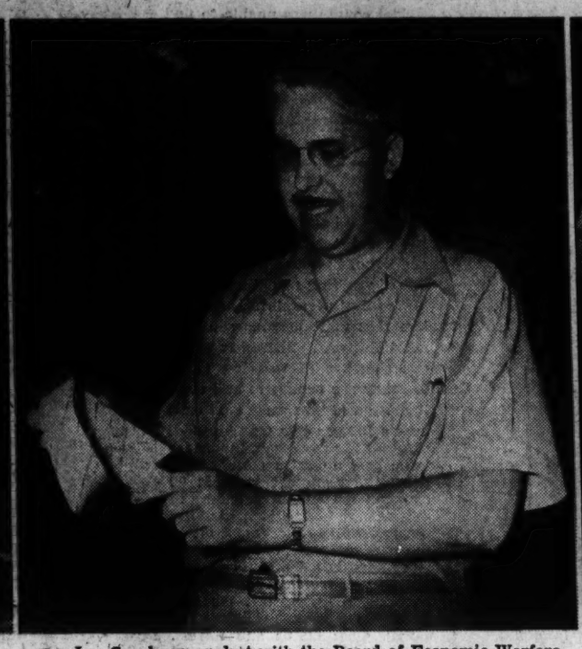
The case involved Locals No. 322 and 592, Richmond, and 730 and 639, Washington, of the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, Chauffeurs, Warehousemen and Helpers of America.

The 3-cent increase, the commission found was allowable under the Little Steel formula.

The commission approved recommendations of its hearing officer, with a modification granting one week's paid vacation after a year of service and two weeks after five years.

As D. C. Chose Its Most-Sensibly-Dressed Man

1. Frank Portillo, noted Washington clown, shows the crowd just how much can be taken off when the heat is on



2. Les Graubner, analyst with the Board of Economic Warfare, selected as the champion of sensible men, burns the old-fashioned high collar he received as prize

3. Juanita Powder discards stockings as Al Ellis, who noticeably does not wear garters, looks on approvingly

Awarded an old-fashioned high collar as the most sensibly dressed man in the Nation's Capital in a sizzling ceremony late Tuesday, Les Graubner, senior project analyst of the Board of Economic Warfare, stood forth as the champion of the Brotherhood of Sensible Men.

Graubner immediately afterward bore out the wisdom of the crowd of 200 which acclaimed him "their choice" by setting aflame the collar to the accompaniment of the two-piece accordion band which chose to play "I Don't Want to Set the World Afire."

He was dressed in a blue sports slack ensemble.

Frank Portillo, noted Washington clown, who began the long and heated tirade against conventional garb, dressed like a Ranger of the Iceland command, gradually emphasized his arguments against overdressing in hot weather by taking off his heavy overcoat, his coat, vest and trousers, to reveal striped underwear.

Laying aside his hat to make a point, it was found that beforehand Portillo had thoughtfully placed an ice pack on his head.

Beneath sheltering boughs of an ancient elm, shielding him and his adherents from the sun, the clown was visibly touched—and cheered by the audience—when he shouted:

"I get hot when I think of the Weather Bureau——"

"This," he explained, "is the fifth freedom—freedom from swelter.

"This is a revolt against our own stupidity . . . and hereafter I propose that we remain calm, cool, collected, placid and easygoing."

The meeting of the BSM was called to order by the movement's hot-shot leader, Charles E. Planck, in the space opposite the Commerce Building between E Street and Constitution Avenue on Fifteenth Street.

The program was enhanced by the appearance of Miss Doris Miller of the Civil Aeronautics Board, and Miss Juanita Powder of the War Department, both of whom demonstrated the much more "sensible" qualities of women in dress during the blistering summer 90s than that shown by the heretofore conventionally clad male.

"I find," said Gaubner, "and no woofin, that my work as an analysist on many highly technical projects calls for a maximum amount of cool thinking, and it could not be done well in a coonskin coat."

Throughout the program, which, surprisingly enough, almost as many women as men attended, the entertainment, addresses and philosophical musing of the brotherhood's leaders was interspersed by earnest if strident voices rendering the order's official chant, "The Battle Hymn of Sense," the first verse of which follows:

There's an old, stupid custom in this overheated town,
Where the poor male is strangled from his neck right down;
But this slavery to custom we have dubbed past tense
And we'll dress like men who have some sense!

The prize was awarded to the champion by Jerry Kulttz, in whose column, The Federal Diary, suggestion of the organization was first made.

At the close of the meeting a spectator asked Planck:

"Aint you even going to sing 'Hot Time In the Old Town Tonight?'"

Shoe Buying Drive Eases On Final Day

Number 17 coupons finally began to give out in some sections yesterday afternoon when some District shoe dealers experienced their first let-down in the wave of shoe-buying which began last Thursday and ended at midnight with the validity of coupon 18. Stores which kept open last evening on H Street Northeast and Seventh Street Northwest had long lines around their establishments.

Many a late coupon user was disappointed, however, as stocks were completely broken in all stores, and customers had little to choose from.

Meanwhile, OPA officials warned that existing regulations were being abused when customers, unwilling to lose coupon, 17, bought new shoes before the deadline with the intent of later return in exchange for a special shoe stamp, good for 30 days. To justify return, shoes must be defective, a term which may be interpreted individually by each store.

Afternoon Trade Slackens

The majority of stores contacted yesterday agreed that after the noon lunch hour rush, salesmen were able to breathe more freely, though business had been greater than normal.

"People were acting a little more sensibly," said Arthur Gartner, manager of Artcraft, 1101 Connecticut Avenue Northwest. He added that Monday had been the worst day of the rush.

Managers at The Bootery, Inc., 1015 Connecticut Avenue Northwest, and I. Miller at 1222 F Street Northwest agreed that the situation had been eased by mid-afternoon, but A. S. Misell, manager of the Queen Quality Boot Shop, 1221 F Street, said that they had been forced to continue locking their doors. "Our stocks are shot to pieces," he added, "but we've done a marvelous business, more than we ever dreamed of."

Badly broken stocks, especially in summer shoes, had resulted in all stores. "Our current stocks are the lowest in history," said George P. Harrison, assistant manager of A. S. Beck, 1315 F Street Northwest.

Dollar Sales Rise

Meanwhile, L. E. Langston, executive president of the National Shoe Retailers Association, reported that dollar sales, under the four months of rationing, had shown a substantial increase over the same period last year.

"One reason for increased sales is that very few persons allow their coupons to expire without using them," he said. "According to reports, shoes frequently are bought when there is absolutely no need or want involved.

"Customers tend to purchase the highest priced shoes within a given store, which consequently raises dollar sales. Play shoes and other types of unrationed footwear also have been an important factor."

Pointing out that the national average before rationing had been 3.4 pairs a year per person, he said that reports indicated there were sufficient supplies and materials available reasonably to assure a continuance of the present rationing basis of three pairs of shoes per person a year. Civilian output, he added, was about 25 per cent below that of 1942.

Scholarship Awarded

Marion F. McCarthy, of St. Ann's Parochial School, has been awarded a four-year scholarship to the Immaculata Seminary after winning a city-wide competitive examination, it was announced yesterday.

ODT Counters Spoiled Potato Story on Icing

Recent reports of wholesale spoilage of spuds en route from Southern States to Washington and other Eastern cities, blaming Government regulations for this waste of precious food, were countered yesterday by an ODT spokesman who gave the following reasons for the partial destruction of some potato arrivals:

1. Adverse weather has caused a delay in the spud harvest and shipments made under the present heat are more exposed to rotting en route. Lots of them are shipped green and are of lower quality than usual because of the wet and hot weather, and are not inspected so carefully on account of the heavy East Coast demand.

2. Under normal conditions, about two-thirds of the spuds are shipped in ventilated cars and do not require any refrigeration. About one-third of the shipments are made with initial icing only and not more than a "tiny" fraction is transported under standard refrigeration.

3. Interstate Commerce Commission's order, indorsed by the Office of Defense Transportation, was not "Washington's brain child" but was necessitated by the simple fact that not enough ice was available in the Southern States to take care of the increased needs. In the meantime, some ice has arrived in South Carolina and therefore the ICC has relaxed its original order and now permits initial icing with some restrictions.

Spoilage of as much as 60 per cent of arriving potatoes was termed "exaggerated" by the ODT spokesman who said that inspectors of the Department of Agriculture found not more than 6 per cent of the spuds rotten.

ODT'S claims were virtually confirmed by Representative Rivers of South Carolina who held a conference with Interstate Commerce officials on the situation and emerged saying that "adequate ice will be made available to refrigerate shipments of potatoes from South Carolina to prevent their spoilage."

Miss Fitzhugh Renamed

Miss Anne Fitzhugh, 25 Ninth Street Southeast, was reelected president of the Study Guild Catholic Library, 1725 Rhode Island Avenue Northwest, at the unit's annual election last night. Miss Fitzhugh will preside over the guild for the fourth successive year.

Others elected were: Vice president, Mrs. Dominic J. Sabini; treasurer, Miss Nelle Kovers; secretary, Miss Margaret Daley, and librarian, Miss Clara Harrington.

Many to Testify

D.C. Delegate Bill Hearings Begin Today

Hearings on the Walter bill to provide for election of a delegate to Congress from the District of Columbia will open today before a subcommittee of the House Judiciary Committee.

Representative Celler (Democrat) of New York is chairman of the subcommittee. Among the witnesses will be Representative Walter (Democrat) of Pennsylvania, author of the bill; Representative Randolph (Democrat) of West Virginia, chairman of the House District Committee, and Senator Burton (Republican) of Ohio, a member of the Senate District Committee.

Others who will testify are: E. Barrett Prettyman, chairman of the District Delegate Committee; Merlo Pusey of the editorial staff of The Washington Post; Frank Waldrop of the Washington Times-Herald; Dr. Meyer Jacobstein of the Brookings Institution; Wilbur Finch, chairman of the suffrage committee of the Federation of Citizens Associations; William J. Mileham, president of the Federation of Businessmen's Association.

Mrs. Eugene Callaghan, president of the League of Women Voters; Mrs. Louis Ottenberg, executive secretary of the District Delegate Committee; R. F. Camalier, former Senate District Committee counsel; Richmond B. Keech, District corporation counsel; Milton King, president of the District Bar Association; Frank Coleman of the Central Labor Committee, and Harry S. Wender, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations.

Bandaged 'Victim' Points Warnings To Jay Walkers

As a warning to jaywalkers, the Junior Board of Commerce yesterday staged a wheelchair stunt in front of the Capitol Theater, reminding Washington's busy populace of Pedestrian Safety Week and its slogan, "Careless Walking Helps Hitler."

"Mr. Jaywalker," bandaged, and in a wheelchair, was presumed to be on his first visit downtown after having several weeks in a hospital because of a traffic accident.

Earlier in the day Traffic Director William Van Duzer reiterated in a radio address that an overwhelming number of traffic accidents are caused by pedestrians. He said jaywalking accounted for 119 of the 259 pedestrian fatalities during the three-year period 1936-38.

Georgetown House Maps Day Care Plan

A day-home program for children between 5 and 12 years of age will be added to Georgetown House projects this summer, it was announced yesterday following a staff meeting.

Twenty children of working parents will be cared for in response to day-care requests from families whose school-age children will need supervision when vacation arrives. Five-and-six-year-olds will be kept at the Children's House, 3224 N Street Northwest, while 7-to-12-year-old children will be put in day camps and participate in the J. A. G. (Junior Age Georgetown) program of service and physical fitness.

At the same time it was announced that following action of the board of directors the name, Georgetown Children's House, has been changed to Georgetown House, since the staff now handles both children and the Girls Club of teen-agers, which meets in the Curtis School annex at Potomac Street and O Northwest, under the supervision of Mary Lou Hudson.

In addition to the new day-home program, Margaret Cross, director of Georgetown House, says special evening recreation for Girls Club members and their friends will be held in the clubroom, with Friday night dances a weekly affair.

Under the J. A. G. program service at the house and also in the neighborhood will be stressed, with youngsters learning to do simple household chores, thus releasing adults for war jobs.

The winter nursery school for 20 children 2½ to 5 years of age will be continued.

Eisenhower Ship Had U-Boat Alarm At Pantelleria

Fifth U. S. Army Headquarters in North Africa, June 16 (AP).—Back from watching the Allied assault on Pantelleria, Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower came here yesterday on an inspection tour of American troops training for future operations.

Comdr. Harry C. Butcher, 4435 Garfield Street Northwest, of Washington, D. C., the general's alde, disclosed that while the general, aboard a warship, was watching the shelling of Pantelleria by cruisers and destroyers there was a submarine warning. His ship's guns opened fire at a suspicious looking object in the water resembling a periscope.

The object turned out to be a belly tank dropped from one of the Allied planes bombing the Mediterranean island.

Civic Leaders Indorse Three For Judgeship

The District Bar Association's indorsement of three local men—Solicitor General Charles H. Fahy, Justice Bolitha J. Laws, and E. Barrett Prettyman—for appointment to the bench of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, was backed yesterday by 30 civic and fraternal leaders meeting for luncheon at the Statler Hotel.

The group, assembled at the invitation of the committee on judicial selection of the bar association, called for appointment of a District man to the vacancy, since more than two-thirds of the work of the court is of a local nature. Only 2 of 17 appointees to this bench during the past 47 years have been District men, it was said.

Copies of a resolution indorsed by all those attending the luncheon was sent to the President and to the Attorney General, pointing out the "eminent qualification" of any of the three men named in view of "the record they have made in their practice of the law and the esteem in which they are held by the general public."

Those signing the resolution were: Washington I. Cleveland, American Automobile Association; T. Howard Duckett, Keystone Automobile Club; Robert L. Lewis, Washington Automotive Trade Association; A. Scott Offutt, District of Columbia Bankers Association; B. Bruce Frantz, American Institute of Banking; Milton W. King, District Bar Association; Nadine Gallagher, Women's Bar Association.

Robert H. Shields, Federal Bar Association; Daniel O'Donoghue, Barristers Club; Edward C. Baltz, District Better Business Bureau; Preston W. Grant, District Junior Board of Commerce; Granville Gude, Washington Board of Trade; Francis C. Heigle, Federation of Business Men's Associations; Harry S. Wender, Federation of Citizens Associations; Millard Charlton, D. C. Institute of Certified Public Accountants; Raymond Garrity, Kiwanis Club.

Charles W. O'Donnell, District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association; Jules C. Ricker, Lions Club; Claud Livingston, Washington Real Estate Board; Howard LeRoy, Rotary Club; Rufus S. Lusk, Washington Taxpayers' Association; Godfrey L. Munter, Loyal Knights of the Round Table; Walter Bastian, Sefton Darr, Francis W. Hill, jr., John E. Laskey and H. Winship Wheatley, committee of the bar association on judicial selection.

Corp. Earl Ryan Reported Killed In North Africa

Corpl. Earl Ryan, 27, a native of Washington and foster son of Mrs. Clara Johnson, 2210 Pennsylvania Avenue Northwest, was killed in action in North Africa on May 23, according to word received by Mrs. Johnson from the War Department.

Mrs. Johnson heard from her son recently, by a letter dated May 11, saying he was well and anxious to get the war over and get back home.

Corporal Ryan was son of the late Patrolman Thomas Ryan, attached to the Tenth Precinct. He attended McKinley High School, where he was active in athletics. He was employed here by the Hadley Motor Co. and the Capital Transit Co. He enlisted in the Army in August, 1941, and was sent overseas in March, 1942. He was in field artillery.

Besides his foster mother, he is survived by a brother, Corpl. Norman Ryan of Fort Belvoir, and a sister, Mrs. Mildred Maurer, 1263 Meigs Street Northeast.

PUC Studies Bus, Trolley Fare Slash

Orders a Full Investigation In Response to Many Complaints

Reduction of streetcar and bus fares here may result from an investigation ordered yesterday by the Public Utilities Commission.

The commission said it ordered the investiagtion in response to nine communications received from organizations and individuals. In most of the communications it was requested that token fares be sold at the rate of four for 30 cents and that weekly passes be sold for $1.

At hearings held a year ago, the transit company stated that a return to the $1 weekly pass arrangement would seriously impair its financial status.

The official order read as follows: "Consideration of the resolutions, petitions, letters, and preliminary investigation have brought the commission to the conclusion that the matter is of sufficient importance to warrant a further investigation.

"This investigation will embrace a determination of the present fair value of the property of the company used and useful in the public service, proper annual charge to depreciation, fair rate of return and the establishment of reasonable, just and nondiscriminatory rates."

Petitions were received from the Federation of Businessmen's Associations, the Hillcrest Citizens Association, the Citizens Forum of Columbia Heights and the Manor Park Citizens Association. Three letters were from individual citizens, it was said.

No formal, official valuation of the properties of the transit company has been made for many years.

Patients Shift Cost 7 in 4000, Nurse Reports

About 7 out of 4000 patients transported from the New Hebrides to New Zealand were lost, chief nurse at the U. S. Naval Hospital in Bethesda, Lieut. Grace Lally, told members of the Notre Dame de Namur alumnae assembled with the graduating class of 1943 last night at the Statler Hotel.

Relating some of her experiences in hotspots of the Pacific since December 7, 1941, she recalled the swooping of Jap planes which dived to machine-gun American sailors on decks of vessels near one on which she was stationed that morning. Three hundred wounded and burned were brought aboard her vessel for care, she remembered, and at Christmas time the nurses got two Christmas trees from the Red Cross and paraded the wards singing carols while the boys joined in. She saw action in China, the Philippines, and Tulagi near Guadalcanal.

The graduates and alumnae heard also the Very Rev. Msgr. Howard J. Carroll tell them that the women of a Nation personify its ideals and promote them in peace or war. He said that woman's destiny is to be a leaven and a light to spread the forces of good and virtue in the society in which they move and counseled the graduates to cling to the ideals and loyalties they had been taught.

Miss Alice Frick was saluted as a golden jubilee member of alumnae present and Mary Haden Denny, chairman of the reunion committee, was honored by the assemblage.

Others who spoke were Mrs. James F. Hartnett, president of the International Federation of Notre Dame de Namur Alumnae; Kathryn A. Creveling, president of the local unit, Ruth Willcoxon, president of the 1943 class.

Reinstatement Campaign for 2 Policemen Hit

The District Commisioners recorded their opposition yesterday to attempts by Representative McMillan (Democrat) of South Carolina to reinstate two former members of the Metropolitan Police Force.

In a letter to the House District Committee, the Commissioners pointed out that Herbert E. Brodie and Leo Murray were discharged from the force on charges of "conduct unbecoming an officer, neglect of duty and conduct unbecoming an officer in that he accepted a bribe.

The Commissioners told the committee, "The trial board found both of them guilty and recommended dismissal from the police force. The Commissioners are of the opinion that Brodie and Murray were guilty of the charges against them and that their conduct was such as to render them unfit to serve as policemen."

COUPON-WORTHY SHOES

By Jeanne Contini

Here is number eighteen.

It calls for a cool head in the spending. In the first flush of a new ration book, you may have used its predecessor on a pair of handsome but heavy walkers. "Utility" has a new fascination and one is likely to go a bit overboard in that direction. A super-six-way vacuum cleaner is just a white elephant if you need a rake . . . as the sturdiest mile-wise, handsewn alligators are so much dead-weight on hot city pavements.

What, then, is the recipe for a winged walk from now until autumn?

We know there has been a run on white shoes. True, they are a summer tradition, but they still don't make sense as a solid third in a three-pair wardrobe geared to town living. They must be cleaned incessantly, are not necessarily as cool as they look, and tend to exaggerate the size of your feet.

Over the weekend we braved the fantastic hurly-burly of the local show-shops to find for you the shoes we deemed eminently worthy of a brand-new coupon. These are they:

V-throated gabardine pumps with high-low heels that make for light and comfortable stepping. They can be refreshed with a flick of your suede brush. The slim shape and simple grosgram trimming fit them to go with everything from gingham to silk. They will walk into October with your first fall clothes. They are well made and can take it. Brown or black . . . about $7.

For further information please call National 4200, ext. 324.

The final frantic rush to get rid of dog-eared "17's" only prove that—

Three pair of shoes per year is a liberal allowance. The majority of Saturday's customers didn't need those last pairs or they would have bought them before.

Your next coupon ought to be used while there is time enough for planning, and selection enough for satisfactory choice. Better to give it away or tear it up rather than be forced into a wasteful purchase.

Shortages Dim London Bridal Glamour

By Patricia Strauss

London.—"Marriage has many pains," wrote Samuel Johnson, gloomily. He little knew how painful it would become 200 years later. The other day a bridal couple was unable to find a taxi as they left the church after their wedding, so the bridegroom and the bride, who was wearing a long white veil, had to travel to the reception in a trolley car.

Formal weddings are rare now. Wedding cakes are a memory. Until a few days ago wedding bells were banned. Food rationing and the high price of wines and liquor have taken the sparkle out of wedding receptions.

Wedding presents are a problem that most persons solve by not giving any. There is no serious shortage of wedding rings, but they are expensive and even the standard nine-carat gold ones bear a 100 per cent purchase tax.

As for the trousseau, the bride-to-be gets no extra clothes coupons. The current issue is 60 coupons for 15 months, ending in September. Even if a girl has not bought any clothes at all in the past year—not even a pair of stockings—her 60 coupons will not go far, for they must cover not only clothes, but curtains under a certain weight, tea cloths, glass cloths and towels. If the bride buys five bath and six face towels, 30 of her coupons are gone.

With the remaining 30 she can buy a dress, a coat and one pair of shoes, but there are no coupons left for gloves, handkerchiefs, stockings, nightgowns or underwear. The board of trade refuses to heed the suggestion that special "courting coupons" should be issued.

The search for an apartment is exhausting and dispiriting. There has been no domestic building since 1939 and much property has been destroyed by bombs; so the housing shortage is acute. When the bride-to-be eventually finds a mournful looking apartment at a rent which she optimistically hopes her finance will be able to afford, she cannot cover the dilapidation of four years with paint or wall paper or put in new shelves or make any alterations, major or minor. Paint, wood and wallpaper are unobtainable.

The next headache is furniture. A couple getting married can obtain a permit to buy 60 points of fairly well-designed utility furniutre. The 60 points, however, allow only for a bed, wardrobe (no English bedrooms have built-in closets), a dressing table, a low chest, a dining table with three chairs, a sideboard, a kitchen table and chair, and a fireside chair. When the utility furniture is installed the apartment still looks about as cozy and homelike as an enlightened prison cell.

No coupons are required for bed linen, but no shop may sell more than three pairs of sheets and six pillow cases to a customer, and the prices are breathtaking. Linoleum is almost unobtainable. Carpets, rugs and mats are sold at impossible prices. Glassware and china are so scarce that there is no question of choice of color or design.

In the House of Commons last week it was stated that furniture prices have risen 150 per cent since 1938, household textiles 265 per cent, hardware and household stores 185 per cent. It requires a miracle of patience and a mountain of money to furnish a home in war time.

Even a honeymoon is hard to arrange. Traveling is a nightmare. Many resorts are within the military coastal area and barred to all but those whose homes are there. In many resorts the government has taken over most of the large hotels and and the others are crowded, expensive and so short of equipment that some ask guests to bring their own towels.

Yet the marriage rate is not falling. Despite Dr. Johnson's strictures, the young men and women must agree with his dour conclusion, " . . . but celibacy has no pleasures."

Requiem for the Big Dinner

Farewell to the big dinner, vanishing symbol of America's expansiveness, hospitality, vigor and bounty.

The big dinner that began with the lustiness; the friendliness, the heartiness, and the native abundance of pioneer life.

The big dinner, vestige of an agricultural people that reached with lavish hand into its smokehouses for its meat, its barnyards for its fowl, its gardens and its orchards for its vegetables and its fruit.

The big dinner that was held at noon after a strenuous morning, and that reinforced hearty men and women for another half-day of labor in which they could work off its abundant calories.

The big dinner that when a company feast in a rural neighborhood outdid the lavish spreads of Nebuchadnezzar, that boasted on one board fried and baked chicken, ham and steak; hot biscuits, cornbread and lightbread; butter in pound sizes in little blue hen butter dishes; half a dozen vegetables, with tomatoes, corn on the cob, radishes and onions as mere sidelines; sweet and sour pickles, watermelon rind and strawberry preserves, corn relish and currant jelly; light and dark layer cake; lemon and apple pie, and second helpings for everyone.

The big dinner that left the women folk facing piles of dishes to scrape and wash and dry while the men withdrew to the front porch to smoke and doze and argue what should be done in Washington.

The big dinner that on Sunday brought scores of relatives and friends around one board, that stuffed them to grogginess and presented them the challenge of keeping awake during a hot slumberous afternoon.

The big dinner that carried on over into the urban white collar era in the form of a 6:30 or 7 p. m. "company" meal at which everyone ate too much of the heavy meats, fancy salads and rich desserts and later slept it off, adding pounds to their girths and dollars to their doctor bills.

The big dinner that in a later era relapsed to its pioneer lavishness on Thanksgiving and Christmas when housewives engaged in marathons of boasting over the number of pounds in their turkeys; when sweet potatoes always showed up alongside of Irish ones; when candlewick and pyramid salads reached the acme of ornateness; when homemade refrigerator rolls were buttered in quantity while they were hot; when hostesses yielded to the temptation of serving ice cream with chocolate sauce after the mince pie or plum pudding, to say nothing of nuts, mints, stuffed dates and the fruit in the table centerpiece.

The big dinner that served as a family reunion, a tempestuous melting pot of the old and the young, the successful and the ne'er do wells, the intimates and the enemies.

The big dinner at which guests sat before plates heaped with mountains of food but unable to make any dents in them because of the constant passing of side dishes; at which men were never able to finish sentences to one another on crops or politics without being interrupted to "try some of the raspberry jelly with your roll" or to take more of the candied sweet potatoes with marshmallows.

The big dinner that in sophisticated circles moved on an equally lavish scale, starting with cocktails reinforced by caviar, smoked oysters, etc., on through mock turtle soup, filet of sole meuniere with white grapes, broiled pheasant, the more effete vegetables, avacados with hearts of artichoke salad, strawberry mousse with petit fours all watered with two wines and champagne and ending with cafe royale.

The big dinner that filled garbage cans with unused food, that inflated the stomachs of its participants and boosted the sodium bicarbonate business, that gave American men pot bellies and American women oversize hips, that slowed up brains and made muscles flabby, that shortened the lives and the powers of countless citizens.

The big dinner that became an emblem of gluttony and waste in a nation in which thousands were undernourished and a world in which millions were starving; that for all its contribution of gustatory delights and good companionship, had outlived its usefulness and its fitness, both from the standpoint of health and human decency; that no longer belongs in a world in which men and women will presumably not have the food, the time, the money, and the stupidity to live to eat instead of eat to live.

News of the Women's Clubs

By Genevieve Reynolds

Shoe rationing could put a damper on dancing among the USO junior hostesses. Yet, dance they will, for the girls, as well as the executives, are devising all sorts of substitute shoes.

Mrs. Robert S. Pirie, who heads many programs for the Women's USO national headquarters, pointed out that the girls are improvising ingenious foot coverings. Out in Fort Smith, Ark., the junior hostesses are starting a vogue for house and ballet slippers. Others in various sections are adopting the Roman sandal idea, using non-leather soles with wrap-around tape colored to match the frock. Still others suggest moccasin type dancing shoes, with soles of raffia.

Interviewed on a recent trip to Washington, Mrs. Pirie said:

"Many USO hostesses say that in the past they have danced out one pair of shoes every six weeks. It is obvious that with shoes rationed, there will have to be less dancing for USO hostesses, or new styles in foot coverage. It is encouraging to us to know that the girls who act as hostesses are accepting shoe rationing as essential to the war effort and already have worked out substitutes."

So if that ration ticket served to lighten transportation problems of the older woman who turned in No. 17 on yesterday's deadline for the pair of shoes that must do double duty for months ahead, the junior hostesses were little less jubilant.

To compute the mileage covered by these thousands of young war workers who swing around Washington's USO clubs with their uniformed partners every Saturday night would be as hard on an adding machine as on their slippers. Certainly OPA boards overlooked the acres these girls are covering when they clamped down on the one article essential to the morale they are building.

Did You Know That . . .?

Club presidents and members of the CONGRESSIONAL CLUB turned out yesterday to say farewell to Lady Sinclair, wife of Sir Robert Sinclair of the British Production and Resources Board. The event was in the form of a tea given by Mrs. Charles P. Keyser and her coworkers of the Tuesday food bar at the Stage Door Canteen. Lacy Sinclair has worked at the canteen since the opening. She leaves in a few days for London with her husband, who has been made chief executive of the Ministry of Production. In the receiving line with Lady Sinclair were Mrs. Keyser, Mrs. John Stone and Mrs. Inez Robinson, codirector of the canteen.

Among those pouring and assisting at the tea table were: Mrs. Joan Sims, Mrs. Karl Casey, Mrs. C. A. Newton, Mrs. J. B. Sturrock, Mrs. Summer Curtis, Mrs. Karl Le Compte, Mrs. Charles Fairfax, Mrs. Strickland Gillilan, Mrs. Clarence Fosling, Mrs. Sue Richwine, Mrs. Frank P. JEWELRY REPAIR, FIRST FLOOR

Your Figure, Madame!

By Ida Jean Kain

How to beat fatigue is what we want to know today. From now on, any movie star I tell you about must be able to help out with some suggestions for fitness. Beauty secrets are not enough.

Susan Hayward, the peppy Paramount redhead, has a tension breaker that is worth knowing these trying days. Next time you feel the nervous jitters coming on, try it: Start with your toes and try to wriggle each one separately. Then swivel on your ankles. Rotate your knees, your hips, shoulders and neck. Do all this loosely, with the least possbile effort. It will calm you right down.

Susan also has some figure fixers worth knowing. If I were nominating the gal with the cutest figure in Hollywood, or anywhere, I think it might be Susan. She is 5 feet 3½ inches tall, weighs 112 pounds and the distribution is perfect—bust, 35 inches; hips, 34 inches; waist, 24 inches.

You can't have that kind of figure without muscle tone and flexibility. Susan is so flexible she can tuck her leg back of her head. You try and do it! But she has some less difficult ones. She suggests a 5-minute daily workout that is all the exercise you need for keeping fit.

1. Lie on your back, full length on the floor, and come up to sitting position, then reach over and touch your fingers to your toes. Try to lower yourself backward without letting your feet come off the floor. Repeat 10 times.

2. Detach the handle of your carpet sweeper and use it as a wand. Stand on knees on floor. Wand overhead, and stretch from your kneecaps. Pull up with all your muscles. Hold the upstretch and do a side-bend. Try to touch the end of the wand to the floor at the side. Don't let your hips jut out in the back. Come back to starting position and repeat in the opposite direction. As a third part of the same exercise, hold hips squarely in front and twist, first to one side, then to the other. It will be easier to do this if you hold the wand in the crook of the elbows, back of your shoulders.

3. Finally, to slim the hips, kick! Forward and backward kicking slims the hips, and side-to-side leg swinging tones and firms the high muscles. Susan prefers to stack a couple of wastebaskets, one on top of the other, to kick over. Swing the leg up and over the wastebaskets without touching foot to the floor, then back again. Repeat 20 counts with one leg, then with the other.

Well, there's a program for you! It is easy to do and gives marvelous results. And if you have any doubts about that, just look Susan over in "Reap the Wild Wind."

Martha Ellyn's Platter Chatter

Early morning tricks for breakfasts are something all cooks should know. Biscuits, popovers and muffins are all quick tricks. So is an omelet. In these days when equipment is as limited as time for many persons, planning a breakfast that can be made in record time in small space is somthing to be considered.

Martha Ellyn

If you make an omelet while fruit is being eaten and the coffee drips, you will have a breakfast that is quite adequate. A crouton omelet is one that has an extra dash of substance and goodness. But let's consider breakfast from the start. When a really substantial breakfast is needed the following one will fill the bill:

Breakfast Menu

Corn Flakes with Strawberries
Top Milk or Cream
Crouton Omelet Toast
Coffee Milk

The corn flakes should be crisp so if they have become a bit toughened with Washington's humidity, recrisp them in the oven. Strawberries are of fine quality and flavor now. They are expensive compared to normal times but their goodness will go a long way for eating pleasure.

Out of the frying pan onto the willow platter goes the crouton omelet pictured here. This type of omelet has a flourish of crisply fried white enriched bread cubes to give it substance and additional nutrition. Try making your favorite omelet with this addition to vary the morning meal

Here is the recipe for crouton omelet. You can use your own favorite recipe and add the croutons as directed. This is the way you do it.

CROUTON OMELET

Cut a slice of enriched white bread into fine cubes and pan fry in about 1 tablespoon fat until crisp and brown. Keep these hot while making the omelet. Before folding the omelet, sprinkle croutons over the top. Serve quickly while piping hot and crisp.

PLAIN OMELET

Combine and beat ¼ cup milk, 4 egg yolks and 1 teaspoon baking powder. Combine and beat until stiff, but not dry, 4 egg whites and ½ teaspoon salt. Melt in a skillet over a very slow fire, 1 tablespoon butter. Fold the yolk mixture lightly into the egg whites. Pour the batter into the skillet. Cover the skillet with a lid. As the omelet cooks slash across it several times with a knife to permit the heat to penetrate the lower crust. When the omelet is done (after about 12 minutes) it may be placed uncovered on the center grate, of a slow oven, 275 degrees, until the top is set, or it may be folded over and served at once. Make an incision with a knife on either side of the omelet where you want it to fold. Tip the pan and push the omelet gently with a spatula or a broad knife until it folds over. Serve with chopped parsely if desired. Makes four servings.

If it is a sweet omelet that will please most, then follow the above recipe and add 1 tablespoon sugar. Before folding the omelet spread it with jam or jelly. Sprinkle the top with powdered sugar. Also fruit juice may be substituted for the milk in the recipe and the omelet may be spread with cooked or raw fruit (sweetened) instead of jelly.

Your Baby and Mine

By Myrtle Meyer Eldred

The outline of a child's day usually assumes he possesses a play pen, a place to play outdoors, a room of his own, or at least a bed of his own in some quiet room. One knows without being told these are not privileges of every baby.

Yet Mrs. D. L. M., without telling me her circumstances, wants an outline of a complete day for a child of 17 months. Here goes.

Babies of this age waken from 5 to 8 a. m. After being changed they may have a cracker and some toys and stay in bed until time for breakfast. This may be from 7 to 8:30, and consists of two or more tablespoons of stewed fruit, the same amount of cereal, or ripe, mashed banana and cup of milk, and perhaps a strip of crisp bacon or a piece of buttered toast if baby will have it. A tablespoon of wheat germ sprinkled on the cereal will add greatly to its vitamin B content.

Ten or 15 minutes after breakfast should be devoted to toilet duties. He may or may not be successful, and whether he is or not, he should be dressed and set to playing in the room of his own, or on a porch or in a play pen where he can be active and happy without too much adult interference.

Midmorning he will have his dose of cod liver oil or vitamin D concentrate followed by four ounces of orange juice or eight ounces of tomato juice and attention to the toilet.

At 11:15 he will be made ready for his bath (which may quite as well come at 5:15 at night if more convenient) and after a half hour devoted to being scrubbed and rinsed and splashing in the warm water, he will have his lunch.

Scraped meat, fish, chicken, egg, cheese; these must be part of this hearty noon meal, plus two or more tablespoons of vegetable, a little potato, rice, macaroni, or other starchy food and then a dessert of pudding, gelatine, fruit whip, sherbet, ice cream or plain cake followed by a cup of milk.

Baby then should nap for an hour or more, or take a rest even if he doesn't nap. Right afterwards, first with attention to the toilet, he may have four ounces of milk and two crackers.

Then more play, preferably out of doors, until time for the preparations for dinner. This last meal, preceded and followed by the toilet, will consist of cottage cheese, or an egg if he hasn't had it previously, creamed vegetable, plus more stewed fruit and a cup of milk. Bread (enriched) and butter may be added to this or the noon meal.

Then play, another session at the toilet, a swift sponge bath if it is warm, and bed, alone in a well-aired room for another 12 hours of sleep.

Our leaflet, "Types of Stools," contains information on early toilet traiaing. It may be had by sending a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request to Myrtle Eldred in care of this newspaper.

Follow Suggestions To Extend Life Of Washables

With laundries closing down because of manpower and fuel shortages, washday blues are being sung in thousands of homes today. The current issue of The Woman Magazine comes to the rescue with 10 suggestions to help the harassed housewife.

Don't soak clothes more than 15 minutes. Excessive soaking weakens fibers and turns fabrics greyish. Soak very dirty clothes separately.

For work clothes caked with grease, add two level teaspoons of naphthalene moth flakes to hot soaking water for each garment. Add soap and run 15 minutes in washing machine. If you use a tub, soak 30 minutes instead of 15 and rinse at least three times.

Remove mildew from linen by dampening the spots and lay in sunlight before washing.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Unsuccessful in His Search for A Perfect Bride, Bachelor Consoles Himself by Giving 10-Point Lecture to Old Maids on How to Catch a Husband

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: Unsought advice is generally unwelcome and seldom put to use. So maybe I am laboring in vain. However, here goes: I am a young man, and I have arrived at an age where I am thinking seriously of marriage. For some time,—ever since the marrying mood hit me,—I have been sizing up feminine acquaintances as potential wife material. And I can't seem to find what I think I am looking for. Therefore, I am offering the following suggestions To Whom It May Concern,—in the wistful hope that some sweet lass, enlightened thereby, may by some happy chance try out the philosophy on me, and sign me up as her devoted meal-ticket for life. An appropriate title for these remarks might be, "Advice to husband-hunting girls from a wife-seeking man."

Point 1. Most of us men (at least, those of us who have reached marriageable age), on meeting a new girl, instinctively evaluate her from the first moment of meeting in terms of the question,—Is she a good, mediocre or bad matrimonial prospect? Everything she says and does gets hopeful attention,—attention based on the hope that she is Answer to Prayer. If she meets the "wife" specifications of the individual man, he is more than willing to try to "deserve" her. If she doesn't measure up, the man may or may not decide to try to promote an affair, to amuse him until something better comes along. Thus, an attempt to promote an affair usually is evidence that there is not, —and will not be,—any serious intention on his part.

Point 2. When a girl is looking for a husband, that is proof positive that she hasn't found one. And that means (a) that she has exhausted the prospects in her little clique of long-time friends; and (b) that it is high time for her to expand her list of acquaintances. It is inevitable that some girls "get left," as marriage thins out the ranks of old acquaintances. Their chance of marriage depends upon meeting "new men,"—maybe from the other side of town, or even from the opposite shore of the continent. A man who has moved out of his own group has an open mind toward new affiliations. But if he runs across a girl who seems to belong, for better or for worse, to one tight little clique, he will hardly bother to try to break in, just to get to know her better, no matter how "right" she looks from a distance. If, however, she is enough of an individual to show herself friendly, in a natural sort of way, he will find himself intensely interested in her,—after he recovers from the shock of meeting a self reliant young woman.

'Best Girl Friend' Is Great Handicap

Point 3. Girls, if you are looking for a husband, don't have a "girl friend" tagging along, everywhere you go. No man with marriage on his mind is interested in pairs of girls. Also, the average man knows by instinct that in such a combination, the girls are comparing notes on him, and will pick him to pieces in later discussions,—which is just no good for the old male ego. When you go out among cvilized men, you don't need a "girl friend" along for protection. And if you are not sufficiently adult to stand on your own feet at social gatherings, the wife-seeking men you meet will think, "Throw 'em back and let 'em grow up." Furthermore, too-close friendships with other girls often impair your chances of getting the most out of marriage later.

Point 4. Keep posted on what is going on in the world, without becoming an amateur news commentator. Read something more in the newspapers than the woman's section and the comic page. Glance over the front page; and read the editorial page and the page opposite the editorials, which in most papers carries the news columnists. No man whom you would want as a husband has interests bounded by the Dodgers, the escapades of Hollwood and the newest popular jive band. Most men do have a few serious interests, —usually including their job, community affairs, politics, science, etc. However, don't go to extremes by trying to become a pedant in any direction.

Inform Yourself on Sex And Be Reasonably Moral

Point 5. Inform yourself on the subject of sex. And develop a reasonable code of morality. It is always a matter of wonderment to men that so many girls,—old enough to know better,—either don't know anything on that score, or profess to know a great deal that simply isn't so. And no man wants to undertake this aspect of a girl's education. While he may regard kissing as amusing or pleasant, he finds promiscuity distinctly unpleasant. The two extremes of prudery and laxity should be avoided like the plague,—since one is as damaging to a girl's reputation and popularity as the other. A little display of intelligence on this subject goes a long way toward making a man want to marry you.

Point 6. Be yourself. When a man has arrived at the age of wanting to take unto himself a wife, he has met so many women that none of them can fool him very long with affectations,—unless, of course, they are far better actresses than the average young lady. There is hardly anything that will make a man run faster in the opposite direction than a display of capriciousness. For example: A man invites a girl to dinner and dancing for next Saturday night. He probably can't plan any farther ahead; and he doesn't want to make a date that he is not reasonably sure he can keep. The girl in the case, hoping to impress him with her popularity, explains that she can't possibly see him for the next three Saturdays. Well then, says the man, if she is booked up on Saturdays, how about Friday night? (Probably the only other night he can go out). To that, she replies that she has just loads of things to do on Friday; she can't possibly remember them all; but won't he please call her soon again. Half the time, that "line" is a brush-off. The other half, it is an attempt to "build herself up" in the man's eyes. It doesn't work.

Wise to Concentrate On One Man at a Time

Point 7. Don't "collect" boy friends. You can marry only one. Besides, a man likes to feel he is appreciated. The girl who tries to have dozens of men running after her usually can muster plenty of dates; but the turnover is terrific. And don't "give out" with a lot of stuff about rival suitors, in the Army or out-of-town. It may be okay to brag among the girls; but it's fatal with men. A man reasons that a girl who will run out on Bill, while he is in the Army or working nights, will also step out on Yours Truly, when his back is turned. If you are really looking for a replacement for the current One-and-Only, close up that matter first. And don't brag to a Prospective Big Moment about the many predecessors he has had. Just remember that you don't like that "line," either.

Point 8. Learn and display a little courtesy. Even a little will put you away out in front. Breaking dates is a fatal discourtesy. And failing to keep appointments on time, without advance notice or explanation, is even worse. Leaving your parents to make alibis for you is strictly not recommended. And remember that a man who is courting seriously does not try to parade his affluence, if any. If you demand as your "dating" due a gay round of night clubs and dinners at the Ritz, you can find men who will foot the bill; but you will not find marriage on their mind.

Point 9. Be accessible. If your man calls you at 7 p. m. and says, "I have the evening off; can you go out somewhere?"—well, you are a pretty smart girl if you take him up. Maybe he does have a broken date on his hands; but he is giving you a sure-fire chance to catch him on the rebound. The girl who broke the date already has two strikes against her. Or maybe (more likely) he really did expect to have to work. And even if he had called six other girls before calling you (as you may suspect), if you take him up, he is likely to call you first next time.

Don't Act Sophisticated; It Scares Nice Men Off

Point 10. Last but not least, —don't try to be sophisticated. That cool air of boredom scares a man off. If he thinks it is real, it makes him uneasy. And if he thinks it is faked, he dislikes the insincerity. And in either case, the men you attract with a put-on air of sophistication are invariably men with other ideas than marriage. So there you are, girls; and may you all win husbands on the strength of this dope sheet. Sincerely yours,

JOHN DOE.

Straggly locks have no place on the head if a woman wants to be well groomed. It takes but a little doing to banish them if hair lacquer pads are skimmed over the parts of the hair where the offenders hang. All that is necessary to keep errant locks in place is to press one of the delicately scented and well-saturated pads against the hair. The stray locks will stay put beautifully and a sleek and neat coiffure will result. Here is an indispensable to good grooming, which costs but 60 cents for 50 pads

Eat All Your Spinach, Soldier, The Army Has Its Eye on You

There Must Be No Waste in Mess Halls, According to New Plan

By Elizabeth Henney

"Take another spoonful for the colonel, Junior. That's a good boy."

Harassed mothers take note—and comfort. No longer will it be "slaw" for young Johnny 3d to have to finish his plate of spinach; for over in that far-off Army camp a burly top sergeant is probably crooning something like the above to Johnny's daddy.

Because—the Army has gone in for conservation of food in a big way and has really taken steps, according to a recent War Department release.

At Camp Butner, N. C., for example, a non-com is posted at the door to the mess hall. Soldiers who leave food on their plates are sent back to finish it.

Down in Fort McPherson, Ga., the matter is handled in a slightly different fashion. There the non-coms watch the men scrape their plates into the garbage can. When food is thrown away which could or should have been eaten, they ask the reason why. And if the men reply that it's due to poor preparation of the food then they interview the cook.

In Albuquerque, N. Mex., at Kirtland Field, the mess officer, Capt. James J. Daly, serves smaller quantities to the tables of a wide variety of vegetables. In that way, he says, each man takes what he wants of the kinds of vegetables he likes, and less goes to waste. Over in Lowry Field at Denver, Colo., Lieut. Col. Jefferson M. Stewart, the mess officer, says he achieves the same results in economy by serving in the old-fashioned cafeteria style.

At Camp Davis, North Carolina, they cut the bread into triangular slices and the men eat less of it; while over in the Officers' Mess at Peterson Field, Colorado Springs, Colo., the mess officer seems to be a gourmet of the old school, for his economy specialties are the salads. He claims that if he puts large bowls of salad greens and vegetables on the table, together with the ingredients for salad dressings, the men will mix their own salad dressings, eat more salads, and that the undressed greens and vegetables can be put away for the next meal.

Of course there is one group that suffers by this new Army food economy plan. That is the contractor who buys the scraps from Army camps for hog food. Where once upon a time the scraps from ten men could keep a healthy pig well fed it now takes scraps from 15 to 18 men. Those contractors are feeling the pinch.

Two Ceremonies Held in Virginia; Kathryn Jones Is Married in Delaware

Junes may come and Junes may go, but the love-bug knows no season. And so the past week found chalked up on the calendar a record number of weddings.

St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Georgetown, Del., on Saturday afternoon was the scene of the wedding of Miss Kathryn Hayes Jones, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. William Drysdale Gibson of Georgetown, and Charles Alexander Ellison, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Charles A. Ellison of Charleston, W. Va. The Rev. Joseph Settle, rector of St. Paul's, assisted by the bride's stepfather, Dr. Gibson, officiated at the 4 o'clock ceremony.

Given in marriage by her great-uncle, Dr. Robert Conrad Ruedy of Washington, the bride was gowned in blush-tint slipper satin fashioned on princess lines with a long train. Her blush-tint tulle veil was held to her hair by a coronet of seed pearls. She wore her great-grandmother's pearls and carried an heirloom lace kerchief. Her flowers were a colonial bouquet of gardenias and Stephanotis.

The maid of honor and only attendant was Miss Peggy Walls of Washigton. William Pickhardt 2d of New York was best man and the ushers were Walter Scott Pratt 3d of Forest Glen, Md.; Richard Brown, jr., of South Orange, N. J.; Louis Blanchard, Whitensville, Miss., and Donald Carters, Gardenia, Mass.

The couple will make their home at 3704 Brandywine Street, Washington.

Stribling—Williams

In Winchester, Va., at Christ Episcopal Church, on Thursday evening, Miss Shirley Carter Williams, daughter of Mrs. Philip Williams and the late Judge Williams, became the bride of Ensign John Wright Stribling, jr., U. S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Stribling of Annapolis, Md. The Rev. Robert Nelson officiated at the 8 o'clock ceremony.

Given in marriage by her uncle, R. Gray Williams, the bride wore a gown fashioned with a lace bodice, marquisette skirt, cap of matching lace, her maternal grandmother's orange blossoms. As ornaments she wore a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom, and a diamond sunburst given to her grandmother as a wedding gift from Mr. Shirley Carter, for whom the bride is named. She carried a bouquet of white roses, white orchids and baby's breath.

Miss Anne Dunbar Williams, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor, and the bridesmaids were Miss Louise Taylor Stribling, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Serena Simons, Miss Patricia Hopkin, Miss Peggy Campbell, Miss Margaret Stubblefield and Miss Bobbie Conrad.

Ensign Meade Dorsey, U. S. N. R., was the best man, and the ushers were Ensign Richard Bowe, Ensign Gordon Churchill Willis, Ensign Charles C. Floweree, Ensign Charles Almy, Midshipman Beverley Randolph and Midshipman John Williams.

Following the ceremony there was a reception at the home of the bride's mother. The couple will make their home in Jacksonville, Fla., where the bridegroom has been ordered for duty.

Holt—Davis

Trinty Church in Staunton, Va., the scene of a candlelight ceremony on Thursday evening when Miss Carol Marie Davis, daughter of Maj. George Clyde Davis and Mrs. Marie Tanner Davis, became the bride of Ensign McHenry Holliday Holt, U. S. N., son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Asbury Holt of Staunton. The Rev. Walter Carroll Brooke officiated at the 8 o'clock ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in white marquisette over satin fashioned with a tight bodice and a ruffled hoopskirt. Her fingertip veil of illusion fell from a Juliet cap of pearls and she carried a white prayerbook to which was pinned a white orchid and a shower of stephanotis.

Mrs. Wilson B. Dozier was the matron of honor, and the maid of honor and only other attendant was Miss Eugenia B. Dabney.

Scores of Nuptial Ceremonies Take Place Daily in Capital

Many Recent Graduates of Naval Academy Take Brides

Literally scores of wedding ceremonies are taking place daily in Washington this month.

At least five as yet unreported ceremonies were events of June 10. Among those exchanging vows on that date were Miss Elsbeth Marie Brady and Ensign Edmund Roy Morgan, U. S. N.

The bride is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. George Stuart Brady of this city, and Ensign Morgan is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Morgan of Newton, Mass. Their marriage took place in the Shrine of the Sacred Heart, with the Rev. John M. Kelley, uncle of the bride, officiating. Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in white lace and marquisette. Her finger-tip veil fell from a coronet of seed pearls and she carried a proyerbook and bouquet of orchids. Miss Jeanne F. Brady was maid of honor and Miss Patricia 3rady the junior bridesmaid. Ensign Frank Cain served as best man, and ushering were G. Stuart Brady and James Moulton.

Following a trip to Richmont, the couple will make their home in Jacksonville, Fla.

Bothwell—Johnson

Another Naval Academy graduate taking a bride on June 10 was Ensign Robert L. Bothwell, son of Frederick Charles Bothwell and the late Mrs. Bothwell of Fitchburg, Mass. His bride, the former Miss Frances Inez Johnson, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Harrison Johnson of Maben, Mass.

Their marriage took place in St. Alban's Episcopal Church, with the Rev. Charles Warner officiating.

Given in marriage by her borther, R. P. Johnson, the bride was gowned in white satin, a veil of silk net held by a tiara of orange blossoms and she carried a white prayerbook covered with orchids. Miss Anne Rosenblatt, wearing a white gown and carrying red roses, was the maid of honor, and Lieut. Col. Frederick Charles Bothwell, jr., served as best man. Ushering were Lieut. Reginald Lidstone, Ensign William Seegar, Capt. Guy Thomas Huthnance and Ensign Joseph Riordan.

Trussell—Boesch

Making their home in Falmouth, Mass., are Lieut. Ernest Hubert Trussell, United States Army, and his bride, the former Miss Margaret Virginia Boesch.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. P. Raymond Boesch and the late Mr. Boesch of this city, and Lieutenant Trussell is the son of Mrs. Mary Ellen Trussell of Luckett, Va. Their marriage took place on June 10 in the Chevy Chase Presbyterian Church, with the Rev. J. Hillman Hollister officiating.

Given in marriage by her brother, Harold Boesch, the bride was attired in a gown of white satin and mousseline de soie. Her finger-tip-length veil of illusion was held by a ruffled band and she carried a bouquet of orchids and roses. Miss Helen E. Boesch was maid of honor for her sister, and bridesmaids were the Misses Alice L. and Ruth E. Boesch and Miss Mary Frances Trussell. They were attired in pastel shades of mousseline de soie and carried bouquets of spring flowers. Charles McKimmey served as best man and ushers included Philip W. Boesch, Gordon Irvin, Ernest Loy and Robert Wenner. A reception followed at the home of the bride's mother.

Smeder—Crocker

Lieut. Orvin R. Smeder, U. S. C. G., and his bride, the former Miss Helen Crocker, will make their home in Memphis, Tenn.

They were married on June 10 in Christ Lutheran Church, with the Rev. Hugo Henning officiating. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Arthur B. Crocker. She wore a basque gown of satin and net, an illusion veil and carried a bouquet of gladioli and orchids. Her sister, Miss Dorothy Crocker, the maid of honor, wore yellow lace and net and a shoulder-length veil. Lieut. L. T. Hickey served s best man, and ushers were Lieut. Comdr. Carl Watson and Lieut. N. C. Munson.

Polish Benefit To Feature Box Suppers

There's a real treat in store for purchasers of box suppers at the full moon party tomorrow night at Dumbarton Oaks, to be held for the benefit of Polish Relief.

Ham (yes, actually) will fill the sandwiches in the box suppers and in addition there will be a vegetable salad, deviled eggs, cup cakes, olives, pickles and fruit—enough for the most voracious appetite.

Under the light of the full moon there will be dancing on the terrace at Dumbarton Oaks, former home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Woods Bliss, at 3100 R Street, which is now the property of Harvard University. There will be music, too—an accordion player and, perhaps, a chorus to sing Polish songs.

To reach Dumbarton Oaks is a simple matter by bus or streetcar. The Glover Park bus is within one block, the Wisconsin Avenue streetcar marked Friendship Heights is but a few steps away and the P Street bus is only two blocks away.

Mrs. Frank H. Simonds, chairman of the committee, is taking orders for tickets, or they may be purchased at the Polish Embassy or the A. W. V. S. booth at the Mayflower Hotel.

The Paderewski Polish Hospital is one of the organizations to benefit by the party tomorrow night. The Polish Relief Fund also cares for Polish soldiers interned in Switzerland, Polish refugee children in Scotland, India, Rhodesia, Syria, Palestine and Mexico; contributes to the special help committee for Polish refugees in Great Britain and Sweden, and to the Polish children's nursery in Edinburgh and to the club for Polish airmen on leave in England.

WAAC Officer Is Married to Major Adams

Military uniforms distinguished the wedding of Second Officer Jean Sharp Besson of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Frank S. Besson of Camp Abbott, Oreg., and Maj. Milton B. Adams of the Army Air Forces, son of Col. L. M. Adams, retired, and Mrs. Adams of Corpus Christi, Tex., which was solemnized yesterday at 5:30 p. m. in the sacristy of St. Matthew's Cathedral. The Rev. John B. Argout officiated. The simple beauty of the ceremony typified wartime Washington.

The bride wore the new official white dress uniform of the WAAC and carried a white leather-bound prayerbook. She was unattended. She was given in marriage by Maj. Gen. Virgil L. Peterson, inspector general of the United States Army. Lieut. Comdr. John Besson, U. S. N., cousin of the bride, acted as Major Adams' best man.

The bride attended Gunston Hall, in Washington, and the Ogontz School for Girls at Rydal, Pa., from which she was graduated in 1939. She was presented at the Cotton Ball in Memphis, Tenn., and made her formal debut the following winter in Galveston, Tex., where Colonel Besson was stationed as district engineer. Soon after the organization of the WAAC, Mrs. Adams joined the corps and at present is on duty at WAAC headquarters in Washington. She is a member of the Junior Welfare League.

Major Adams, a graduate of the United States Military Academy at West Point in 1939, returned recently from two years of foreign service and is stationed at Hamilton Field, Calif.

The bride's father was graduated from the United States Military Academy in 1909 and now is commanding officer of Camp Abbott and the Engineer Replacement Training Center there, the newest of three such centers in the country.

Major Adams is the great grandson of the late Brevet Maj. Francis Clark of the Twenty-second Infantry and grandson of the late Col. Milton B. Adams, Corps of Engineers, and graduate of the academy in 1885, and the late Col. Frank B. Jones of the Infantry and graduate of the academy in 1879. The bridegroom's father, Col. Lewis J. Adams, was graduated from the academy in 1903 and served with the Corps of Engineers until his retirement in 1926.

A reception was held immediately following the wedding at the Army-Navy Club in Washington.

Military simplicity, characteristic of wartime Washington, distinguished the marriage of Second Officer Jean Sharp Besson of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps and Maj. Milton B. Adams of the Army Air Force, which was solemnized yesterday at the Sacristy of St. Matthew's Cathedral in Washington, D. C. The bride is the daughter of Col. and Mrs. Frank S. Besson, Camp Abbott, Oreg. Major Adams is the son of Col. and Mrs. Lewis M. Adams, Corpus Christi. The bride, who wore the new official white dress uniform of the WAAC, was given in marriage by Maj. Gen. Virgil L. Peterson, inspector general of the United States Army. Father John B. Argout officiated at the ceremony

Reception to Mark Historic French Date

In commemoration of Gen. de Gaulle's immortal appeal to resistance on June 18, 1940, and to celebrate French unity, Jean Delattre-Seguy, president of the Washington Chapter of France Forever, and Mme. Delattre-Seguy will entertain at a reception this afternoon from 6 to 8 o'clock at their home on Q Street, Georgetown.

Members of the French Military Mission and the Fighting French Delegation will be guests of honor. Among those in this group are Philippe Baudet of the French National Committee and Henri Hoppenot of the French Military Mission. Sharing honors with them will be Mme. Baudet and Mme. Hoppenot and other members of their missions and their families.

Invited to meet these French patriots are a number of United States Government officials and their wives, members of the committees of various organizations which are helping France—among these the Fighting French Relief Society, the Coordinating Council of French Relief Societies, the Alliance Francaise, the Relief Society for French Refugees in England, the French-American Wives and France Forever.

Jeanne Stephens Is Married to John Blodgett

In St. Alban's Episcopal Church yesterday at 8:30, Miss Jeanne Stephens became the bride of John Quigg Blodgett.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rees Daniel Stephens, and Mr. Blodgett is the son of Mrs. Louise Quigg Blodgett. Officiating at the ceremony was the Rev. Charles T. Warner, and a reception followed at the home of the bride's parents.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attired in a gown of ivory duchess satin. Her train-length veil was held with a cap trimmed wtih orange blossoms and she carried a bouquet of roses and gardenias. Mrs. Robert Hecksher, the matron of honor, wore Alice blue taffeta, with matching short veil and carried pink roses and blue delphinium. The maid of honor, Miss Joy McFarlane, was attired in blush rose taffeta and veil and carried pink roses. William W. Blodgett 3d served as best man, and ushers included David Haupt, Vincent C. Burke, jr., and Richard Bartlett.

The couple left, following the reception, for a brief wedding trip, and the bridegroom will Georgetown University School around the first of July. The bride attended Utah State College. Mr. Blodgett is a grandson of the late Edward W. Blodgett, chief justice of the Rhode Island Supreme Court. He graduated last month from the Georgetown University School of Foreign Service, where he was a member of Pi Gamma Mu.

Mrs. Valley King Is Recently Wed In Church Rites

The marriage of Mrs. Valley A. King and Elson Daugherty took place last Wednesday in Capital Memorial Church at 8 o'clock in the evening with the Rev. Elder Boothby officiating. Maid of honor was Mrs. Myers R. Davis of Richmond, Va., daughter of the bride, and the best man was Leslie Mansel of Takoma Park, Md.

The bride is the widow of Carey E. King, sr., and has lived in Takoma Park all her life. Mr. Daugherty is from Warren, Pa., where the couple will make their home.

Justice Sees Sister Wed In Chicago

Justice William O. Douglas and Mrs. Douglas and their two children are in Chicago, where they attended the wedding yesterday of Justice Douglas' sister, Miss Martha Douglas, and William Dale Bost, which took place in the Douglas apartment at the Drake Hotel in a noon ceremony performed by Dr. Hugh Elmer Brown, pastor of the First Congregational Church, Evanston, Ill. Dr. Brown is a graduate and member of the board of trustees of Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., from which the bride and her two brothers were graduated.

Also at the ceremony was the bride's other brother, Arthur F. Douglas of Bronxville, N. Y., and Mrs. Douglas. The wedding was simple in arrangements and was attended by only members of the immediate families. A family luncheon was held later and afterward Mr. and Mrs. Bost left for the Pacific Coast, where the bridegroom has important business interests. They will spend a short vacation at Del Monte Lodge, Carmel, Calif., and after July 1 will return to Chicago to make their home.

The bride took her master's degree in personnel work at Simmons College and for several years has been personnel director at Carson Pirie Scott & Co. She is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma Sorority.

Mr. Bost is well known in Chicago. He is chairman of the executive committee of the Orange-Crush Co., and chairman of the board of directors of the Bost Toothpaste Co. He is a member of the Chicago Athletic Club, the Midday Club and Knollwood Country Club. He was divorced last year from Marguerite Parsons Bost, the concert singer.

OFFICIAL NOTICES 5

COMMISSIONERS OF THE DISTRICT OF Columbia, June 9, 1943. Notice is hereby given that under authority granted in Public Act No. 307, approved December 15, 1932, authorizing the closing of streets, roads, highways and alleys in the District of Columbia, and in accordance with the provisions of an item authorizing changes in the permanent system of highways contained in D. C. Appropriation Act for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1914 (Public Act No. 435, 62nd Congress), approved March 4, 1913, as amended by an Act approved April 30, 1926 (Public Act No. 158, 69th Congress), the Commissioners of the District of Columbia will give a public hearing in the Board Room in the District Building, Washington, D. C., on MONDAY, June 28, 1943, at 10 o'clock a. m. to interested property owners to determine as to any property rights which may be affected or as to the equity, justice or advisability of closing the streets, roads and alleys, and concerning the proposed changes in the permanent system of highways, all in the District of Columbia and described as follows: 1. Closing of streets and alleys in the Fort Reno area, Northwest section, bounded by Chesapeake Street, Nebraska Avenue, Fessenden Street and Belt Road, including a transfer of jurisdiction to the Commissioners, D. C., for the widening of Chesapeake Street between De Russey and Sheridan Streets, N.W. 2. Closing of streets and old roads in Piney Branch Parkway, U. S. Reservation No. 339, in the Northwest section, which includes the closing of parts of 14th Street Road, 17th Street, Spring Road and Mt. Pleasant Street in the area west of 16th Street and south of Shepherd Street, N.W. 3. Closing of streets, roads and alleys in the Fort Stanton Park area, Southeast section, which includes the closing of parts of 16th Street, 17th Street, 18th Street, 18th Place, 19th Place, 20th Street, Butler Street, Stanton Road, W Street, Grand View Place, Harrison Place, Capitol View Place, City View Place, Naylor Road and 27th Street; and the closing of parts of alleys and old roads in this area; including a transfer of jurisdiction to the Commissioners, D. C., for a connecting street between 15th and 16th Streets through Square 5797. 4. Closing of 30th Street between Hillcrest Drive and V Place, S.E., W Place between Hillcrest Drive and 31st Street, S.E., and closing public alleys in Square 5657, including a transfer of jurisdiction to the Commissioners, D. C., for a public alley in said Square 5657. 5. Closing of the part of the public alley in Square 5637 running south from S Street, between 29th and 30th Streets, S.E. 6. Closing of the part of the public alley in Square 5351 running east from Texas Avenue, between B and C Streets, S.E. 7. Closing of 10th Place between Mississippi Avenue and Valley Avenue, S.E., abutting Squares 5931 and 5932. 8. Closing part of 10th Place, including a dedication to provide a realignment of said 10th Place, between Mississippi Avenue and Congress Street, S.E.; and closing of street area at 11th Place and Trenton Place, S.E., including a dedication to provide a street realignment at this location, and for the establishment of building restriction lines in Squares 5933, 5934, 5935 and 5936. 9. Closing of New Jersey Avenue between M and N Streets, S.E., and closing M Place, Quander Street, N Street and Francis Place, all immediately east of First Street, S.E., and closing alleys in Squares 743 and 744. 10. Proposed change in the plan of the permanent system of highways in the Northeast section, providing for a change in the location of a proposed street extending south from W Street, proposed, between Brentwood Road and 13th Street, N.E. 11. Proposed change in the plan of the permanent system of highways in the Southern section of the District of Columbia covering area bounded on the north by Atlantic Street, on the east by Livingston Road, on the south by Southern Avenue, and on the west by the westerly line of First Street, S.W., and South Capitol Street, providing for the elimination of part of First Street, S.W., proposed, and for the elimination of other proposed streets through U. S. Reservation at this location. 12. Proposed change in the plan of the permanent system of highways affecting property in the Northeast section along the line of 50th Street between Washington Place and Grant Street. Maps showing the street, road and alley areas proposed to be closed and showing the proposed changes in the permanent system of highways are on file in the office of the Surveyor, D. C., Room 405, District Building (same being known as Maps 2871, 2872, 2873, 2874, 2875, 2876, 2877, 2878, 2879, 2880, 2881 and 2882), and may be examined by interested parties during business hours prior to the hearing. Said maps will also be displayed at the hearing and the Commissioners will consider any suggestions or protests concerning the proposed changes and the proposed street, road and alley closings as shown on above-mentioned maps. JOHN RUSSELL YOUNG, C. W. KUTZ, GUY MASON, Commissioners of the District of Columbia. 9-24.

TERRY AND THE PIRATES — Nothing Comic About This — By Milton Caniff

MR. RYAN, YOU AND MR. GOODE DEPOSE THAT YOU GAVE THE YOUNG LADY PIECES OF NAVY WRITING PAPER...
YES, SUH—WE HOPED SHE COULD REMEMBAH SOMETHIN' IF SHE EXUNCIGED HIH HANDWRITIN'!
ONLY YOUR PAST RECORDS AND THE IMMEDIATE DANGER DETER ME FROM PLACING YOU BOTH UNDER ARREST...
MR. GUINNESS, PLACE THAT WOMAN UNDER MARINE GUARD! I WILL QUESTION HER LATER... CARRY ON...
AYE, AYE, SIR!
PATRICK, WE'AH IN A MESS... SINK ME, SUSIE — I'M UNDONE!
SHAKE A LEG, JOSS... WE'RE GOING TO PLAY DICK TRACY FOR OUR LITTLE ORPHAN ANNIE!

MARY WORTH'S FAMILY — By Dale Allen

DO I UNDERSTAND, PATTI, THAT YOU REFUSE TO ACCEPT MY HOSPITALITY ON THE ISLAND?
I WISH I HAD THE VOCABULARY, LOU VARZONI, TO TELL YOU HOW I DESPISE YOU!
SADIE! COME OVER HERE!
OUR PASSENGER IS NOT GOING ANY FARTHER! ...I'LL HANDLE THE WHEEL...YOU AND SAM HELP HER OVER THE SIDE!
NOW...BOSS! WE STRUNG ALONG WITH YOU IN THE RACKET... BUT SHAKIN' DOWN SAPS AN' MURDER IS TWO DIFFERENT JOBS!
MUST I FINISH THIS CRUISE, ALONE...?

MICKEY FINN — Sure Thing — By Lank Leonard

YOU CAN'T AFFORD TO GET PINCHED, HOTFOOT! WE MAY BE SHOVIN' OFF TONIGHT! NOW CALM DOWN!
REMEMBER, MISTER, YOU STARTED IT— AND WE'LL DO ANYTHING YOU SAY TO SQUARE IT!
I'LL SETTLE FOR THE PARROT— I NEVER HEARD A BIRD TALK SO GOOD!
HOW ABOUT IT, COOKIE? DO YOU WANT TO SPEND THE REST OF YOUR LIFE IN THIS JOINT?
NOT ME! I'VE GOT A DATE WITH A COCKATOO IN TOKIO!
WELL, I GUESS THAT'S THAT! LET'S TOSS A COIN — TWENTY BUCKS OR NOTHIN'!
OKAY!
SUPPOSE YOU'D LOST, HOTFOOT? WE HAVEN'T GOT TWENTY BUCKS BETWEEN US!
SSSH! TWO HEADS!

MR. AND MRS. — Morning Inspection — By Arthur Folwell and Ellison Hoover

GOSH, SHE SAYS I ALWAYS LEAVE EVERYTHING A MESS WHEN I WASH UP!
WELL, SHE CAN'T SAY I FORGOT IT THIS TIME!
YOU'VE GOT NO KICK NOW! HANDS CLEAN, BASIN CLEAN, TOWEL HUNG UP—EVERYTHING!
YES—ER—BUT LET'S SEE—
BUT LOOK HOW YOU'VE LEFT THE SOAP—ALL GRIMY IN THE SOAP DISH!
CAN I EVER DO ANYTHING RIGHT?

DIXIE DUGAN — Children at Play — By J. P. McEvoy and H. J. Striebel

YOUR EXPEDITION NEEDS A NEWSPAPER REPORTER!
WHAT ABOUT YOUR JOB?
I'M SURE I CAN FIND A STORY IN THIS IF YOU DON'T MIND
OH I DON'T MIND BUT YOU'VE GOT TO REMEMBER ONE THING—
CHILDREN ARE SERIOUS IN THEIR PLAY— SO DON'T YOU DARE LAUGH OR MAKE FUN OF THEM—
YOU DON'T HAVE TO TELL ME THAT —I WAS A KID ONCE MYSELF—
AND I'LL BET YOUR MOTHER ALWAYS MADE YOU COMB YOUR HAIR
SHE SURE DID— HOW DID YOU KNOW?

RIGHT AROUND HOME — By Dudley Fisher

LOUIE, YOU TOOK MY RAKE AND I WANT IT! SEE?
BUT MAC SAID THAT WAS HIS RAKE!
MAC, THAT'S MY RAKE! IT HAS MY INITIALS ON IT!
I HAVEN'T GOT MY GLASSES, BUT THERE ARE SOME INITIALS.
I'M SORRY, FREDDIE, BUT RAKES ALL LOOK PRETTY MUCH ALIKE.
THAT'S O-K! ANYBODY CAN MAKE A MISTAKE LIKE THAT.
PROPERTY OF W.P.A.
NOW HOW DID THAT GET ON MY RAKE

JOE PALOOKA — Let 'er Go — By Ham Fisher

LOOK AT THAT CROWD! GOSH, I HOPE I DON'T MUFF NO BALLS OUT THERE..
WATCH HOW I DO IT.. KEEP YER EYE ON IT.! I DON'T MIND WHAT TH' CROWD THINKS...
--BUT WE GOTTA WIN, WE GOT ALL OUR DOUGH BET!
I'LL NEVER FERGIVE YOU FOR THAT!
AW DON'T BE A SISSY. WELL WATCH ME FIELD 'EM, KID. I'LL BE ON THEM DODGERS AFTER TH' WAR.
GOOD LUCK.

JANE ARDEN — Tubby Does Some Decoding — By Monte Barrett and Russell Ross

I GET IT— IT'S CODE— THIS CHECK IS A MESSAGE FOR ME—
HEY, WHAT DOES COVERT MEAN?
OH, CONCEALED— SHELTERED— SECRET—
SECRET SHELTER— A HIDE-OUT— THAT'S IT— BUT WHAT'S THE REST OF THIS? IT DOESN'T MAKE SENSE—
"QUESTHIS"— WHAT'S THAT MEAN? LET'S SEE— Q-U-E-S-T— THAT SPELLS QUEST— H-I-S— OH, OH— QUEST HIS COVERT —SEEK HIS HIDE-OUT—
OH, BOY— THIS IS RIGHT DOWN MY ALLEY— I'LL CASH MY PAY-CHECK AND LET JANE HAVE 18 BUCKS!

SUPERMAN — Hear Superman 5:45 P.M. Today—WOL — By Jerry Siegel and Joe Shuster

OUR BULLETS HAVE NO EFFECT!
WE'RE OVER THE WATER. IT'S SAFE TO USE THIS BLOCK-BUSTER NOW!
NOTING THAT THE STRANGE BEING STILL EXISTS, A HEROIC AIRMAN SEPARATES HIMSELF FROM FORMATION AND HURTLES TOWARD SUPERMAN!
I'LL DESTROY HIM IN A HEAD-ON CRASH EVEN IF IT MEANS MY OWN DESTRUCTION!

DON WINSLOW OF THE NAVY — Red's Sixth Sense — By Frank Martinek

SKIPPER, I DON'T SEE ANYTHING I CAN DO HERE...HOW ABOUT SOME LEAVE SO I CAN RUN UP TO DETROIT AND SEE MY OLD FRIEND, LES WISE?
YOU SLY OLD FOX! YOU'VE GOT SOMETHING UP YOUR SLEEVE! O.K. YOU CAN GO, BUT RETURN SOON AS WE MAY HAVE TO LEAVE HURRIEDLY!
YOU CAN USE MY TIN LIZZIE, LIEUTENANT, BUT HOW ABOUT GAS...I'VE ONLY GOT AN A BOOK!
NO THANKS, I'LL GO UP ON THE BUS...YOU KNOW EVEN NAVAL OFFICERS CONFORM TO THE RATION LAWS! THAT'S WHY I'M GETTING SO THIN ON ONLY TWO POUNDS OF MEAT A WEEK!
LISTEN TO HIM...GETTING THIN. WHY HE HAD TO MOVE THE BUTTONS ON HIS UNIFORM COAT ANOTHER INCH!
WAY, SKIPPER, HOW CAN YOU SAY THAT WHEN I'VE JUST COME BACK FROM THE GRAVE IN THE SOUTH PACIFIC!
BOY, I SMELL TROUBLE AHEAD, BUT IT'S MY FAVORITE ODOR!

SHE SOLD FOUR RUGS THROUGH ONE POST WANT AD

When her ad in another Washington newspaper didn't bring results Mrs. F. H. decided to try The Washington Post Want Ads.

What Mrs. F. H. had for sale was four rugs. Mrs. F. H. had heard about the quick results Post Want Ads bring so she decided that advertising for three days should turn the trick.

But the very first day the ad ran Mrs. F. H. learned that Post Want Ads work FAST. That first day she sold all her rugs and could have sold more had she had others to sell.

Got something to sell? Want quick results? Then profit by Mrs. F. H.'s experience . . . Call NAtional 4200 and ask for an ad-taker.

Washington's Ideal Father To Make His Bow Tomorrow

Who will be Washington's ideal father?

When the results of the contest, which closed at midnight last night, are announced tomorrow, who will be named typical dad of the metropolitan area, in anticipation of Father's Day Sunday?

Maybe it will be the young father of four boys, ranging from 2 to 10 years, who serves as an air-raid warden, in addition to working at a war job, victory gardening and helping with the neighbors' children.

Or perhaps it will be the District fireman who "is devoted to his work because he realizes that it is his responsibility to protect Washington citizens from deadly flames." His 13-year-old daughter, in a perfectly penned letter to the Father's Day Editor, said he was a handy man about the house before the war, but "now he is extra cautious to see that all furniture, plumbing and electrical fixtures are in good condition, because he knows that we would be taking from the armed forces if we ask for priorities on strategic materials." And he buys war bonds, too, which seems to be a community-wide custom for Washington's typical pops.

Or could it be that the judges' choice will be the Postoffice employe, father of three children, who "is one of the few and far between kind? He is a master of all trades and I mean master, not a jack of all trades and accomplisher of none." So writes one of his daughters in a glowing Father's Day tribute.

Dozens of District dads—and many, too, from the suburbs—would blush with pleasure at the all-out sincere notes from sons, daughters, wives, or perhaps just neighbors.

Judges will spend most of today reading over the huge stack of mail and comparing them for content and genuine feeling. The announcement of their choice, plus some of the festivities arranged for him, will be announced in tomorrow's Post.

A WORD OF APOLOGY . . .

If you were among the many customers we were unable to serve after 5 P.M. yesterday in our Second Floor Shoe Department we say, "Please forgive us."

Although we augmented our salesforce, the rush was too great to enable us to serve you after 5 o'clock. We know you will understand, and hope you will accept this apology.

Jobs Bill Reaches Ramspeck Group; May Stay There

By the Associated Press

The bill to require Senate confirmation of most Federal employes paid more than $4500 a year was sent to the House Civil Service Committee yesterday, and Chairman Ramspeck (Democrat), Georgia, said that group is "busily engaged" and he doesn't know when it can find time to consider the measure.

Administration leaders had made no secret of their hope that the measure would be "pigeonholed" in some House committee.

Personally, Ramspeck said, he is opposed to the bill and believes it would be "detrimental to the war effort."

The proposal of Senator McKellar (Democrat), Tennessee, to require confirmation of some 27,000 job holders was approved by the Senate Monday, 42-29.

Day Camps to Open Soon; 300 Register

Outdoor conscious after months of classroom confinement, more than 300 Washington 7-to-14-year-olders already have registered for the summer day-camping activities sponsored by the District of Columbia Recreation Department.

Applications are being received for the four camps which will open June 28 for four two-week periods at Takoma, Fort Dupont, Oxon Run and Foundry Branch Parkway. Hours are 9:30 a. m. to 3:30 p. m. for the admission-free camps. Sessions are scheduled for the following dates: June 28 to July 9, July 12 to July 23, July 26 to August 6 and August 9 to August 20. For further information, call Adams 2050.

Camp Mehan for colored children also will open June 28 for Monday through Friday sessions, 9 a.m. to 5 p. m., until August 5. After that date, the camp will be open daily until August 31. Another day camp for this group will be sponsored in the Georgetown area, but no schedule is available.

Henry W. Strickland Dies

Funeral services for Henry W. Strickland, secretary-treasurer of the Railway Mail Association, who died after a heart attack Monday, will be held at 3 p. m. tomorrow at Hines funeral home, Fourteenth and Harvard Streets Northwest.

A former assistant prosecuting attorney for Burlington County, Kans., and reporter on the Kansas City Star, Mr. Strickland came to Washington in 1922 to become secretary of the association, an American Federation of Labor union of railway mail employes in the United States Postoffice, following 19 years of service with the Postoffice Department. Also editor of the Railway Post Office, the union's official magazine, Mr. Strickland was a member of the resolutions committee for A. F. of L. conventions.

His widow, Mrs. Ada M. Strickland, lives at 4911 Fourteenth Street Northwest, and a son, Lieut. Henry Strickland, is serving with the Signal Corps in England. Two daughters, Pearl and Irene Strickland, are in Government service in New York City. Mr. Strickland also leaves two sisters, Mrs. Gertrude Cox of El Paso, Tex., and Mrs. C. N. Winslow of Western Springs, Ill., and two brothers, J. C. and Clate Strickland, both of Florida.
